REALTY VALUES STIMULATED BY SUBWAY PLANS

Grand-State Station Boon to Area.

BY AL CHASE.

What a subway will do toward increasing realty values is shown in the way certain areas in Chicago today are reacting to the preliminary negotiations toward such an underground transportation system.

The outstanding point where realty activity centers and which radiates in circles for several blocks in all directions, is at State street and Grand avenue. Present plans call for a subway station at this location. In addition it will, according to plans now under consideration, be the first station north of the loop and the only one between the river and Chicago avenue, where the subway turns west.

Becomes Super Transfer Point.

With an east and west surface line on Grand avenue and a north and south street car line on State, a subway station at this point would make it a super transfer point, according to real estate men.

The first definite indication that the contemplated underground station at State and Grand actually was affecting realty values was the purchase of the leasehold estate at the southwest corner of these two streets three months ago by an out of town man, Herbert L. Sharlock of South Bend. He bought the leasehold and building, a two story modern terra cotta front structure, from Frederick A. Cooper, Frederick H. Winston, Louis Manierre, and Francis E. Manierre, individually and as trustees. Although no figures were given it is understood that the syndicate which sold the leasehold made a considerable profit.

Across the street, at the northwest corner a good sized improvement is said to be waiting for further definite assurance that a station will be located at this corner. The American Medical association, which has its six story headquarters at Grand avenue and Dearborn street, gradually has been acquiring land east to State street. It has an option on the corner parcel. If this is exercised, it is understood the association's headquarters will be extended to this point and a full structure erected, with the present building used as a minor unit in the big development.

Report Many Inquiries.

In addition to these two corners at State street and Grand avenue figuring in recent real estate deals, there have been several transactions within a few blocks of the intersection which are attributable to the plans for a subway station. Brokers state that more interest, evidenced in inquiries, is being shown along North State street during the last four months than was visible for the twelve months preceding.

Actual sales have not yet materialized on a scale expected from these inquiries, but the asking stage is an important one and brokers expect sales to follow.

Only a few days ago a ninety-nine year lease was closed for the southeast corner of Grand avenue and La Salle street, only three blocks west of the proposed Grand-State subway station. This was influenced, it was said, by the prospect of a subway station to the east and a tall building is expected within a year or so.

Predicts Increased Values.

"A subway along North State street should bring a tremendous impetus to real estate values along that thoroughfare and also along Grand avenue, as well as on Cass, Dearborn, and other streets nearby," said a dealer well posted on north side real estate. "We already are feeling an undercurrent of optimism for property on North State and nearby, based on what a subway will do for values."

A number of good sized building projects were considered during 1929 for the area within a few blocks of the intersection of State street and Grand avenue. Most of them have been temporarily shelved because of overbuilding. Now signs are evident that some of these are being taken off the shelf, dusted and considered again. If it is definitely decided to install a subway station at State street and Grand avenue and not at State and Ontario streets or at State and Superior streets as has been urged by certain interests, realty men predict more activity in the State-Grand area than has even been seen.

How a subway will affect leasing values was shown in a lease negotiated a few weeks ago in which a clause was inserted that if a subway station were opened at that point during the term of the lease the rental would be increased materially.

Find $2,000 Ring Stolen in Loop Tragedy

A young ambulance helper confessed early today that he had stripped a $2,000 ring from the finger of Mrs. Richard Delmar, 52 years old, 3750 Sheridan road, after she fell dead last night in the lobby of the Palace theater, 159 West Randolph street. The ring was recovered.

The ambulance driver is Meredith Jones, 23 years old, an employé of B. E. Arntzen, undertaker at 810 North Clark street. Arntzen caused the arrest of Jones after a fellow ambulance assistant had confided his suspicions.

Collapses in Lobby.

Mrs. Delmar, wife of a loop insurance broker, had just entered the theater lobby when she collapsed. Dr. J. K. Durnell of the Morrison hotel and Dr. John J. Eichstaedt of the Henrotin Memorial hospital were summoned and pronounced her dead. Arntzen's was called and the body removed.

Mr. Delmar was not immediately notified of his wife's death because it was feared the shock might kill him. He is convalescing from injuries received in an automobile accident.

R. L. Wolfe, also of 3750 Sheridan road, who described himself as the Chicago head of the S. S. Kresge stores and a friend of the Delmars, acted for Mr. Delmar and noticed that Mrs. Delmar's ring had disappeared.

Arntzen Solves Mystery.

Detectives Joseph Libretti and John McMann questioned employés of the theater and others who had aided Mrs. Delmar, but found no trace of the missing ring.

Early this morning Arntzen visited Lieut. John McGinnis of the Chicago avenue station. He informed him that one of his veteran employés who had helped remove the woman's body suspected that Jones had stolen the ring. Lieut. McGinnis arrested Jones, who confessed after brief questioning and led the police to a barrel of waste in the ambulance garage, where he had buried the ring.

3 ROBBERS GET $15,000 DIAMOND IN N. SIDE HOLDUP

Charles Izenstark, wealthy head of the Wextark Radio Stores, Inc., his wife, and a young woman friend were held up early this morning in front of the Izenstark home at 433 Briar place and robbed of jewelry valued at $15,000. Their chauffeur, James Bowen, was not molested.

The Izenstarks and their guest, Miss Cora Carothers, 25 years old, 512 Addison street, were returning from a downtown restaurant and were barely in front of the former's home when three bandits stepped up.

"We want your jewelry," announced the leader. "Don't make a fuss."

FLYER TUMBLES TO DEATH FROM SEAT OF GLIDER

Brice F. Halter, 23 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Halter of Aurora, was killed yesterday in what is believed to be the first glider fatality in the Chicago region. The accident occurred at Eagle airport, near Waterman, 20 miles west of Aurora.

A licensed commercial airplane pilot, Halter had organized a score of his friends into a glider club. Because of his flying experience he served as instructor. They met each Sunday for lessons at the airport. His parents were present yesterday when he took to the air.

The craft, launched from the side of a hill, rose to a height of 150 feet, when Halter nosed it into an oncoming breeze. He seemed to be handling it perfectly, and the 500 spectators were amazed when he suddenly pitched headfirst out of the seat, to hurtle to the ground. He was dead when picked up. The glider did not fall with him. It rose several feet higher, and rods the air current for another 300 feet before landing.

Quarrel, Choose Pistols; 3 Spectators Hit, 2 Die

Kansas City, Kas., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Garfield Martin, 25, and Joseph Jackson, 28, quarreled early today. They stepped into a nearby street with drawn revolvers to settle the argument. Richard Goldman, 47, and John Wilson, 50, were killed and James McGee, 25, was wounded. They were spectators. The duelists, uninjured, were arrested.

U. S. Job Crisis Disappearing, Survey Shows

New York, Nov. 23.—[Special.]—An optimistic note with regard to the unemployment situation in the United States is sounded in reports from almost every part of the country, made up by correspondents for the New York Times after questioning responsible public officials, business men, and civic leaders.

In several places there are indications, according to the survey, that the worst will be over by the end of the year, or, at the latest, not long after midwinter.

There are spots here and there where the outlook appears gloomy. But in other places there is no serious unemployment problem. In Omaha the report shows that "the unemployment situation is not at all acute."

Public Works Rushed.

Seattle reports that "with the exception of 10,000 men out of work in the lumber industry, there is not a great number of unemployed in this district. Cement firms report large increases in working forces."

Everywhere public works are being rushed to give employment. All the states, almost without exception, are putting thousands of men to work on roads, new buildings and other developments. Part time or stagger systems of unemployment are proving of great benefit in many places.

From Atlanta, "general improvement gives the keynote. B. S. Barker, vice president of the chamber of commerce, says he believes "the situation will be definitely in hand within another month."

Reports from Cities.

Excerpts from some of the reports follow:

CLEVELAND.—The number of Cleveland's unemployed has declined through scattered increases of employment in the city's public works program and in industrial plants, although no considerable impression has been made in the ranks of the estimated 60,000 jobless. Under the city's "stagger" system of employment 2,000 men are paid $14.40 for three days' work per week in the park and service departments.

HOUSTON.—With scores of volunteer workers awaiting the signal for opening of a "hire a man" campaign tomorrow morning, between 8,000 and 10,000 unemployed persons here looked forward tonight to the end of their search for work.

Pledge Work for 33,000 Men.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Steady employment during the winter months has been pledged to 33,000 St. Paul workers by their employers in a campaign to promote business confidence and stimulate buying.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Six thousand men, married or with dependents, have registered for relief. To 1,500 of these has been given three days' work a week at $5 a day on a temporary program of civic improvements. For this work $100,000 a month is being appropriated.

NATION AWAITS HOOVER PLANS TO HELP TRADE

Message Is Nearly Completed.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Interest of the business world in President Hoover's annual message to congress a week from tomorrow revolves largely around the question of whether in addition to public works construction and other measures for the relief of unemployment he will present a constructive program for the prevention of the recurrence of economic depression.

The President, who has completed a large part of his message, is known to have been devoting his attention for several weeks to a solution of the broad problem of overproduction which he believes responsible for the present period of hard times.

Mr. Hoover, it is also known, is of the opinion that the government can be not only helpful but instrumental in establishing such balance of output and consumption as would prevent overproduction. Although the President is an economist, or at least the closest approach to one who has occupied the White House with the possible exception of Woodrow Wilson, he has found this problem an exceedingly difficult one. His message will reveal whether his weeks of study and of discussion of the problem with other authorities have yielded a solution on which he is willing to go before the country.

Hoover Gets First Chance.

It is interesting to note that a competition in the formulation of a constructive program for the prevention of economic crises may be developing between Mr. Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt of New York, who may be his rival in the presidential election of 1932. Gov. Roosevelt has announced that he will hold a conference of the governors of the eastern industrial states on this question immediately after New Year's.

The President believes that it may be necessary for the government to adopt a new attitude toward the problem of competition in this age of mass production. His remarks in the last few weeks have indicated that he is perhaps not far from agreement with Stuart Chase, who advances the theory that this business depression has demonstrated the extent to which we are the victims of our own mass production. In his address to the American Federation of Labor at Boston Mr. Hoover significantly observed that "mass production must be accompanied by mass consumption through increased standards of living."

Competition Angle Studied.

In groping for a solution of the problem the President has studied particularly the feasibility of a reduction of destructive competition in industry.

"It certainly is not the purpose of our competitive system," he told the Federation of Labor, "that it should produce a competition which destroys stability in industry and reduces to poverty all those within it. Its purpose is rather to maintain that degree of competition which induces progress and protects the consumer. If our regulatory laws be at fault they should be revised."

This utterance has been widely interpreted as an indication that Mr. Hoover is verging toward a recommendation of the amendment of the Sherman anti-trust act, or at least of a fact finding inquiry to determine whether such amendment is desirable.

At least this was the construction placed upon his words by officers of

More than forty lives were imperiled last night by a bomb which was exploded at Guyon's Paradise ballroom, 124 North Crawford avenue, in the Garfield park district. Despite the terrifying effect of the bomb, the property damage was small.

The blast, heard within a radius of a mile, tore down a double exit door, shook up sixteen members of a non-union orchestra who were rehearsing a few feet away, and coated them with plaster dust and grime. Twenty-seven members of a glee club, post-office employés, and several radio performers, the latter in the broadcasting studio of station WGES, operated by J. Louis Guyon, owner of the dancing academy, were jolted and terrified.

Musicians' Strike in Progress.

Informed of the bombing at his country home at Lake Geneva, Mr. Guyon hurried to Chicago. He refused to make definite charges as to the motive, but hinted a strike of union musicians in the ballroom, called two weeks ago by James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, was probably responsible. Petrillo, reached at his home, denied his organization was guilty.

Guyon asserted that he would seek protection from the authorities and if it were not effective he would take his own measures.

The bomb was exploded just before the Sunday night dance was to start. A few moments before Albert H. Williams, 523 West 54th place, member of the Federal Glee club, comprised of Negro postal workers which was to give a radio performance, stepped outside the ballroom and observed a tall man, apparently a cripple, limp away from the side entrance toward the rear of the building.

Panic in Dance Hall.

There was momentary panic in the ballroom as the blast occurred. A shower of plaster fell, enveloping the musicians. The glee club choristers huddled together in terror. Outside the force of the explosion ripped down several garage doors, and dented the automobile of Walter de Muth, 4008 Washington boulevard, police operator at the North avenue station. Half a dozen windows in the Guyon Apartment hotel, 4000 West Washington boulevard, were shattered.

Lew E. Moulds, manager of the ballroom, was questioned by Lieut. Edward Conroy of the Fillmore street station. Moulds charged the bombing to the musicians' union. Lieut. Conroy also was inclined to the belief that labor troubles were responsible. Petrillo appeared surprised when informed of the blast.

"We don't have to resort to bombing," he asserted. "If they say our union did it, my answer is they probably planted the bomb themselves."

Petrillo Claims $1,700 Due.

According to the union head, he called a strike because Guyon owed members of the radio orchestra approximately $1,700. The money, he said, represented compulsory salary rebates.

Guyon's story was that his trouble with Petrillo began last June, and came to a head two weeks ago with the calling of the strike. He denied the rebate charges of Petrillo and said that the latter recently demanded $1,700 from him, which he refused to pay. After the walkout, Guyon said, he engaged the Frank Sturtevant orchestra, which belongs to the American Union of Musicians, which is not affiliated with the national or local group.

HOOVER TO FIX U. S. INCOME TAX RATES FOR 1931

War Debt Interest May Cut Expenses.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—Upon President Hoover's decision this week hinges the amount of income taxes to be paid by individuals and corporations next year.

Congress, it is believed, will enact legislation to continue this year's reduced rates if he so recommends in his annual message or it will allow the lower rates to lapse if he so advises.

Effect upon Taxpayers.

If the President decides that it will be impossible in the light of shrinking tax revenues and increasing outlays to balance the budget the effect upon taxpayers will be:

A single person with a net income of $4,000 will pay $28.13 in 1931 instead of $9.38 as in 1930; if married, but with no dependents, he will pay $5.63 instead of $1.88.

A single person with a net income of $7,000 will pay $78.75 in 1931, instead of $37.50 in 1930; if married, but with no dependents, he will pay $39.38 instead of $13.13.

A single person with a net income of $10,000 will pay $153.75 in 1931 instead of $90 in 1930; if married, but with no dependents, he will pay $101.25 instead of $52.50.

Pay $445 on $15,000 Income.

A single person with a net income of $15,000 will pay $445 in 1931, instead of $334.38 in 1930; if married, but with no dependents, he will pay $368.78 instead of $218.13.

A single person with a net income of $25,000 will pay $1,357.50 in 1931 instead of $1,153.13 in 1930; if married, but with no dependents, he will pay $1,282.51 instead of $1,093.13.

A single person with a net income of $100,000 will pay $15,843.75 in 1931 instead of $14,930 in 1930; if married, but with no dependents, he will pay $15,768.75 instead of $14,879.

Normal rates on individual incomes will be 1½, 3, and 5 per cent instead of ½, 2, and 4 per cent.

The flat tax on corporation earnings will be 12 instead of 11 per cent.

Officials Oppose Lower Rates.

Administration officials have given the impression to go out that the financial status of the treasury is such as to make it impossible to continue the lower rates which were made effective last winter for one year only on the recommendation of President Hoover as a means of stimulating business.

The President himself has not admitted that he has abandoned hope of recommending legislation to continue the lower rates. His only statements since he expressed hope in August that he could make such a recommendation were an admission ten days ago that there would be a small deficit, but that this would not make any particular difference, and another on Friday that any tampering with the statutory sinking fund requirements applying to retirement of the public debt would be unsound finance.

Foreign Debt Payments.

The President recognizes that the interest payments of foreign governments, amounting in the current fiscal year to about 185 millions, must be used for current expenditures to meet the situation now existing.

There is nothing in the present law to prevent such use, although, heretofore, budget estimates which have been used as a basis for the fixing of tax rates by congress have taken no account of these receipts which have been applied toward debt reduction in addition to sinking fund and other debt retirements. In effect American taxpayers have been taxed virtually to interest on the portion of the public debt represented by the amount owed by foreign nations, the equivalent interest money paid by foreign nations being used for the reduction of the principal of the debt.

Payments of foreign nations on principal, which will amount in the present fiscal year to about $50,000,000, must under the law be used to retire principal.

Expansion of Expenditures.

In the current fiscal year debt retirements through the sinking fund will amount to about 395 millions, while the $50,000,000 principal payments will bring the total debt reduction required by law up to $445,000,000. The President does not propose to disturb this amount of debt reduction, but his problem is to ascertain whether the shrinkage in revenues and expansion of expenditures will more than absorb the difference between this statutory debt reduction and the normal debt reduction of past years which has ranged between 750 million and a

Your Normal Buying Aids Others to Buy Normally

A long time ago a man named Jevons evolved an ingenious theory. He noticed that there was a curious relationship between years of business depression and maximum sun-spot activity. He concluded therefore that the sun was responsible for the cyclical woe which we call hard times.

Right now we are interested not so much in what causes depressions as in what will help us get rid of the present one. Economists of note have laughed off the sun-spot theory as the cause, but no economist who pretends to the title can deny that normal buying for normal needs will go a long way toward bringing us out of the present state of affairs.

The reason it is necessary to stress the need of normal buying is this: The impulse of many people at present is to conserve resources. This might be a very fine thing individually if it weren't for the fact that it is so bad collectively. What is bad for people in general can't help but being bad for them individually.

Every one whose income holds up should continue to make normal purchases for normal needs. Living in accordance with your living standards, not below them, will soon make it possible for people who are forced to cut costs to resume their usual living standards.

billion. There is little doubt but that the President will favor continuation of the lower tax rates if by using all funds which need not go for debt reduction under the law he can come fairly close to averting a deficit. Such deficit as may occur can be carried along in short term financing operations.

Debt reduction in the fiscal year 1930, amounting to $745,778,650, was $357,499,700 greater than required by the sinking fund law. In 1929 the debt reduction, amounting to $673,204,717, was $292,927,617 greater than required under the sinking fund. In 1928 the debt reduction, amounting to $907,613,730, was $552,572,430 greater than required under the sinking fund. In 1927 the debt reduction, amounting to $1,131,309,383 was $797,780,983 greater than required under the sinking fund. Amounts in excess of the sinking fund were represented chiefly by foreign debt payments and by cash surpluses.

Faces Revenue Shrinkage.

President Hoover is faced by a prospective shrinkage of several hundred millions in income tax revenues next year as a result of unsatisfactory business conditions. He also is preparing to recommend increased expenditures for such purposes as a speeding up of public works to relieve the unemployment situation.

The President will reach a decision on the tax rate question in conferences this week with treasury and budget officials. His recommendation will be announced in his message to congress which convenes a week from tomorrow.

BANDITS ROB 3 THEATERS; MISS MOST OF MONEY

Six bandits, armed with a sawed off shotgun and pistols, raided two west side theaters in rapid succession late last night, but they failed to obtain several hundred dollars because they arrived a few minutes after a Brink's Express truck had collected most of the money.

The places robbed were the Ellington theater, 2118 West 22d street, where they got $10 from the manager, Thomas Trant, and the Marshall Square theater, 2879 West 22d street, where they obtained $15 from the cashier, Emery Weber, 1945 North Talman avenue.

Shortly afterward four men, believed to be of the same bandit band, trailed George L. Madison, 804 Cornelia street, from the Crown Hippodrome theater, 4011 West 26th street, of which he is manager, to Crawford avenue and 22d street, where they stopped him. They compelled him to enter their car and drove him to the theater which he had closed a few minutes before. At the point of guns Madison was forced to open the theater safe. The bandits stole $600.

Colder Weather Due

Winds shifting from the south to northwest will bring colder weather and probably snow flurries to most of the north central states today, J. R. Lloyd, weather forecaster in Chicago, announced last night. The disturbance is the forerunner of a storm which yesterday was reported overlying the entire Rocky mountain chain from Alaska to Mexico, and moving eastward.

Storm warnings were displayed yesterday over the northern great lakes and the eastern shore of Lake Michigan, with small craft warnings displayed elsewhere. Shippers were warned to protect against temperatures of 18 degrees to the northwest, 25 west and north, and 32 degrees east and south.

Reservation Indian Kills Wife, Her Father, and Self

Globe, Ariz., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Jim Reed, an Indian of the San Carlos reservation near here, today shot and killed his wife, his father-in-law, and seriously wounded his mother-in-law. Reed then set his tepee on fire and drove away. His body was found in the automobile twelve miles from the reservation.

YOUTH STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS; NEAR RESPIRATOR

Suffering from infantile paralysis which may threaten respiration, Elmer J. Baker III., 16 years old, 547 Hawthorne lane, Winnetka, was removed yesterday from the Evanston hospital to St. Luke's hospital so that he might be placed in the respirator, artificial breathing machine, in case of emergency.

The boy is the son of Elmer J. Baker II., publisher of the Farm Implement News, 431 South Dearborn street.

Young Baker was stricken last Wednesday and taken to the Evanston hospital where his case was diagnosed as infantile paralysis affecting the diaphramatic and intercostal muscles. On orders of Dr. John F. Favill, neurologist, he was removed to St. Luke's.

Meanwhile, Miss Frances McGann, 25 years old, a nurse, is still receiving respiratory treatments. She was stricken with paralysis early in September She is now virtually out of danger.

WOMEN IN SPAIN WON'T QUIT JOBS IN NOVEL STRIKE

SEVILLE, Spain, Nov. 23.—(AP)—A strike of a somewhat different nature has been started here by 200 women employés of a match factory.

In protest against the suspension of one of the workers, the women decided not to abandon the plant until she is restored to her former job. Also, not wishing to abandon their labors, since they need the money, they are continuing at their posts, eating, sleeping, and receiving their families and visitors within the factory.

Flood and Storm Damage Runs Into Millions.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 23.—The three days of cold and storm, which culminated in a 90 mile an hour gale here early this morning and swept Vienna, much of Germany and Belgium and eastern France, have, as far as present returns indicate, resulted in the loss of 12 lives and injury to 613. Falling chimneys and timber caused injuries in many cities, and the material damage will run to millions of dollars. Eight died in France, three in Germany, and one in Vienna.

French ports on the channel and on the Atlantic were hard hit, the damage to the fishing smacks and trawlers being particularly severe.

Seas Batter Shipping.

Ships were in distress off the coasts of Portugal, Spain, France, and England, there being many radio calls for help. The British warship Shamrock was forced to make Vigo harbor. She suffered much damage from the storm and her radio was carried away.

The vast chain of fortresses which the French have been building up for over a year along the German frontier are seriously menaced, as floods are constantly spreading over hundreds of square miles of eastern and northern France and Belgium.

In the Vosges and over a large section of Lorraine, where the most important military works are being erected, all the principal rivers are flooding the surrounding countryside. Many machine gun nests, the backbone for the defense system, are under water.

The floods are not confined to the military zones in the east, but are prevalent throughout northern and central France. Even the west is flooded, a large part of the Loire valley being under water.

At the town of Vannes today a woman was killed when the foundations of her home were undermined by water and a tragedy occurred at Rouen on the Seine when three heavy barges were carried away by the current and smashed against a dam. A bargeman's daughter was drowned and another bargeman lost his life trying to save the young girl.

Fishing Smacks Capsize.

At Lorient three fishermen were drowned when their boat capsized. Another fisherman was lost at Boulogne when the storm tore trawlers from their moorings. A 20 year old factory worker was drowned by flood currents at Le Mans, where the water in the principal streets is three feet deep. Scores there are homeless.

Much of the picturesque lower part of the town of Chartres, where the famous cathedral is located, is inundated by the rising Eure and the inhabitants are rowing through the narrow medieval streets, which are like Venetian canals.

An entire quarter of Amiens is submerged and several houses in nearby villages have been destroyed by landslides, but without loss of life.

Pont Leveque in Normandy, where the famous cheese is made, has been ruined by the sudden rise of the Touques at 1 o'clock this morning, and today practically the whole town was under two or three feet of water.

A sudden cloudburst in the Beauvais region flooded the creeks and a torrent swept through the village of Songeons, actually washing the inhabitants out of their beds, driving them to the second floors of their houses.

593 Injured in Austria.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Nov. 23.—A freak gale swept over Vienna at the rate of more than 70 miles an hour. One person was killed outright and 593 were injured in Vienna and the rest of Austria.

The main street, Kaerntnerstrasse, resembled a back yard, with eddies carrying broken glass, newspapers and autumn leaves which had been sucked up from the distant parks. A gargoyle plunged into the street from the great tower of St. Stephen, the famous Viennese cathedral situated in the center of the city. The downtown section was crisscrossed all day by fire brigades responding to the 600 fire calls put in on account of crashing chimneys and fires.

On the outskirts of Vienna all soccer football grounds had their grand stands swept away. At the Aspern flying field several of the hangars and airplanes were smashed up. Two auto buses were overturned and several passengers injured. The roof on the army barracks was torn off.

Big Damage in Germany.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—Germany today was swept by terrific hurricanes, torrential rains and renewed floods. Three lives were lost and much property damaged. The gale in Bavaria reached a velocity of 100 miles an hour. Two masts at the broadcasting station at Stadelheim, near Munich, nearly 300 feet in height, were snapped off 50 feet from the ground. They toppled into the near-by jail yard, which, luckily, was empty.

Everywhere there was widespread damage to property. Trains were delayed for hours, while scores of telephone and telegraph connections were broken. Innumerable buildings had their roofs taken off by the violent wind. The wind caught up and wrecked an English airplane standing in the Fuerth airport.

Two lives were lost in a farm building fire near Bad Homburg. A tramp had taken refuge there from the storm. His shrieks for help could be heard, but the flames, fiercely fanned by the wind, prevented his rescue. While rescue efforts were proceeding a high tension cable fell and electrocuted the farmer, Hans Miller.

A 14 year old girl was drowned in the River Urft near Nettersheim while she was en route to Sunday school. She was crossing a foot bridge when swept off by the current.

The Rhine and the Moselle and their tributaries are in flood. Shipping is held up.

Seven Missing on Seaplane.

TOULON, France, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The Italian seaplane named The Irony, which has been missing in the Mediterranean region since it left Barcelona early Friday, still had not been found tonight. It carried a crew of five and two passengers.

The French torpedo boats Cyclone, Simoun, and Mistral returned to the navy yard tonight after a 24-hour search, while a Spanish torpedo boat from Barcelona and other planes of the Navigatione Aerea, which owns the Irony, were equally unsuccessful. The French minister of marine has ordered the Toulon naval base to send out the entire division of torpedo boats and several dispatch vessels.

Soldiers Man Broken Dikes.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The whole of Belgium was threatened today with a grave disaster due to floods caused by recent heavy rains.

Overflooding of the River Scheldt has swept away vast quantities of goods stored at Antwerp, cut off the Zwyndrecht railroad line, destroyed a ship in drydock, and has marooned inhabitants in the Antwerp suburb of Sainte Anne. Oil tanks at Hoboken were menaced.

M. Dronsart, president of the Belgian Red Cross, has gone to the Termonde region, which is completely submerged. Heavy losses of cattle are reported from the flooded area.

A detachment of 300 soldiers has been rushed to repair dikes destroyed by the River Scheldt's ten foot rise in one hour. At Charleroi work has been stopped at the collieries and steel works because of their flooded condition.

Reports from the duchy of Luxemburg said flood conditions there also were serious.

Heavy Snow in England.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—(AP)—In the border districts of northern England the heaviest fall of snow, sleet and hail so far this year occurred last night, while in southern England a heavy gale howled throughout the night.

At Southend five men and one woman were rescued in an exhausted condition today when three barges became waterlogged during a heavy gale.

The woman, Mrs. Lily Blythe, wife of the captain of one of the boats, served aboard as mate. She said that when the rough seas threatened to swamp the boat they poured kerosene on blankets and set them afire as they had no flares. Then, when the blankets gave out, they burned all extra clothing.

The gales that hit Austria and Germany also visited northern Switzerland last night, unroofing homes in Basle, blowing down chimneys and uprooting trees. A slight earthquake shock in that district this morning added to the distress of the inhabitants.

In the Berne district of Switzerland thunder and lightning accompanied by hail did much damage to forests.

New Quake Hits Albania.

TIRANA, Albania, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Slight earth tremors were felt today at Terbatch and Dukar, in the same region of southern Albania where an earthquake caused more than 50 deaths Friday. Most of the houses in the two towns have been destroyed by the previous shocks and the inhabitants are shelterless. King Zogu has distributed Swiss francs among the sufferers, while relief agencies are busy.

Floods Furnish New Problem for Europe

CALM AND SUNSHINE SUCCEED CALIFORNIA DEATH VALLEY STORM

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 23.—(AP)—A warm sun beamed over a comparatively calm southern California today, in contrast to the dust laden, destructive gale of yesterday which killed six persons, ruined thousands of dollars worth of citrus fruit, and wrought unestimated damage to property in four counties.

The outlying districts, particularly the citrus lands, suffered probably the most as far as monetary damage was concerned. Nearly mature oranges, lemons, and avacadoes, torn from the trees by a gale which at times reached an 85 mile velocity, covered the ground. Hundreds of trees were uprooted.

Those killed were Mrs. Lewis L. Dewey, 70, of Pasadena, blown against a brick wall; Howard Collins, Bakersfield, almost decapitated by flying sheet iron; Luis Merenda, 13, Colton, electrocuted by 70,000 volt wire torn from pole; Richard W. Lyons, 30, and Mrs. Polly Morrison, 56, killed in automobile crash due to dust obscuring driver's vision, and Charles Davis, San Bernardino county, whose motorcycle struck an automobile in a dust cloud.

Scores of persons were injured by falling debris, but none was fatally hurt.

Policeman Hubert Dillon, 35 years old, a squad leader assigned to the Maxwell street station, was shot through the heart and killed yesterday afternoon by a Negro. Police comrades of Dillon shot and killed the colored man.

Dillon, who had been a member of the force for 10 years and lived at 5071 Jackson boulevard, was called with his squad to arrest two Negroes who were reported fighting beside a building at 630 O'Brien street.

As he stepped from the squad automobile, one of the Negroes, who was later identified as McKinley Carter, 33 years old, 639 Maxwell street, fired at the policeman, the bullet piercing his heart.

Policemen Patrick Gaynor and Robert Irwin, Dillon's companions, opened fire on the Negro, fatally wounding him. The other Negro, Mayo McCulley, 616 O'Brien street, leaped forward at the policemen with a knife, but was seized and disarmed.

Policemen Gaynor and Irwin commandeered a passing automobile and took Dillon to the Mother Cabrini hospital. He was pronounced dead.

McCulley was taken to the Maxwell street station. He and Carter had been drinking, he said, and had started the quarrel which was observed by neighbors who called the police. He did not know that Carter was armed, he declared.

WILL ALDERMEN HOLD 2 JOBS? 7 TO DECIDE TODAY

Represent Nearly Fourth of City Population.

The eight Democratic aldermen elected to other offices on Nov. 4 have arranged a conference preceding the council meeting today to decide whether seven of them will leave the council for their new jobs or will try to hold both offices until their aldermanic terms expire next February.

It is certain that at least one of them, Ald. Albert J. Horan [29th], will submit his resignation to the council today. Mr. Horan, who was elected bailiff of the Municipal court, said the surety company which is furnishing his bond as bailiff required that he resign from the council before he assumes his new office on Dec. 1.

Self Tells His Position.

The plans of the other seven aldermen have not been definitely determined. Ald. George Self [35th], who was elected clerk of the Criminal court, yesterday said that he intended to be sworn in in his new post on Dec. 1, but would also remain in the council if that is possible. Self said that if Corporation Counsel Ettelson's opinion that the aldermen cannot hold two jobs is upheld he will retire from the council and serve as unofficial alderman for his ward until his successor is chosen.

"It is not right," Self said, "that the citizens of theeight wards represented by us aldermen should be deprived of their representation in the council now when the annual budget and other important measures are under consideration."

Seeks Expert Legal Advice.

Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the council finance committee, who is a Democrat, said he would introduce a resolution at today's meeting directing that the council obtain outside legal advice regarding the eligibility of the eight aldermen to remain in the council after qualifying for their new offices.

Clark said the council should exhaust every legal authority before it ruled against the aldermen and deprived the taxpayers of their rights.

The eight aldermen represent almost 25 per cent of the city's population. It was pointed out that if the eight are retired from the council all these voters will have no representation from Dec. 1 until after the next aldermanic election in February, and possibly not until April if run-off elections are necessary.

The aldermen, their wards and the population each represents are:

Thomas J. Bowler [41st]	126,892
Thomas F. Byrne [15th]	124,669
William D. Meyering [26th]	92,146
Albert J. Horan [29th]	73,845
George M. Maypole [20th]	64,875
George Self [35th]	53,770
Dennis Horan [21st]	49,717
Joseph S. McDonough [22nd]	46,133

Bowler, Byrne, and Dennis Horan were elected to the sanitary district board of trustees. Meyering was chosen sheriff, McDonough was named county treasurer. Maypole was elected to the state senate.

Mayor Thompson, who opposes any plan for the eight aldermen to remain in the council, is expected to preside at the council meeting today. Six of the eight supported the telephone franchise ordinance vetoed by Thompson and, if they retain their seats, are expected to support a move to override the veto.

Negroes to Make Protest.

A resolution protesting Thompson's refusal to appoint a Negro to the board of education also is to be presented to the council today by a group of colored citizens. The resolution, bearing numerous signatures obtained at 300 Negro churches yesterday, expresses resentment that a place on the board of education has been held open for a representative of the Polish citizens, while the 300,000 Negroes of the city continue to be ignored in spite of Thompson's promises to give them recognition.

It is understood that Boleslaw R. Kozlowski, druggist, who resides at 1414 Garfield boulevard, is under consideration for the appointment to the board of education as representative of the Polish groups.

Quiz Into Contracts Asked.

Another resolution to be introduced provides for a full investigation of the department of public works in connection with the awarding of contracts for the new Wabash avenue bridge.

Thompson is to be at Passavant hospital until tomorrow, when he and 100 associates will go to a health resort at Wedon, near Ottawa, for ten days. He will leave the hospital long enough to preside at the council meeting.

MARY (MOTHER) JONES.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Mary ["Mother"] Jones, 100 year old crusader for the laboring man, today continued successful in her long fight against death.

Her physician said last night death might occur at any moment from the ravages of old age. Her condition was reported today as unchanged.

"Mother" Jones has been steadily growing weaker since last September. For a time she seemed to rally, but last Wednesday she suffered a relapse and her attendants hold forth no hope for her recovery.

Death Penalty Banned by New Mexican Penal Code

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Capital punishment is definitely banished under the new penal code for the federal district and territories, approved by President Ortiz Rubio today. The jury system also is abolished under the new code, dueling is classed as a punishable crime, physicians are made liable for punishment for errors involving the death of a patient, and vagrants are subject to detention and isolation.

RALPH CAPONE LEAVES U. S. IN SPITE OF BONDS

Technical Forfeiture of Bail, Prosecutor Says.

Ralph Capone, who is at liberty under bonds totaling $45,000 as the result of an appeal from his sentence to three years in prison for evading federal income taxes and also as the result of his indictment under the Jones act on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, went to Havana from Miami by airplane yesterday with his wife.

Departure from the United States constitutes at least a technical forfeiture of the bonds, according to United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson.

Dispatches from Havana quoted Capone as saying that he had obtained a delay in the legal proceedings against him here which would enable him to remain in Cuba to conduct his racing stable during the winter. This was denied by Mr. Johnson, so far as the federal cases are concerned.

Johnson Gives Warning.

"I never compromise to the extent of a bent pin with hoodlums of Capone's type," Mr. Johnson declared. "If Capone is not in Chicago when he is called for trial in the liquor conspiracy case next month I will act immediately to have his bonds declared forfeited."

Mr. Johnson declined to say whether he would act in the meantime to have the bonds declared forfeited, because Capone had left the jurisdiction of the federal courts.

Capone also is under bond in the Municipal court, where he is scheduled to appear on Dec. 15 on a vagrancy charge.

Habeas Writ Inquiry Today.

In Chicago yesterday Attorney John B. Horan explained his part in the habeas corpus action on behalf of John and William Carr, brothers, seized in Milwaukee and brought to Chicago as suspects in the murder of John Guida here last month. Methods used in suing out the writ will be investigated today by Judge Harry M. Fisher.

The habeas corpus writ was unsigned by a judge. When Judge Fisher asked what judge had authorized it, an explanation was offered that perhaps Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court had done it by telephone. But Judge McGoorty declared he had not done so.

Attorney Gives Explanation.

"I was in Judge McGoorty's court on Friday on another matter," said Attorney Horan, "when the clerk, David Wolff, told me Attorney Julius Reznick was telephoning to have some one in the Criminal Courts building get a writ for two of his clients. I usually have a blank habeas corpus writ in my pocket so I filled one out for the names given me and filed it with the clerk.

"Wolff said Judge McGoorty was gone for the day and would not hold court on Saturday so the writ would have to be made returnable before Judge Fisher, who would act as Chief Justice. Wolff issued the order on the police commissioner to take the prisoners to court, remarking that it would be all right even if it didn't have a judge's signature."

Judge Fisher has ordered Clerk Wolff to appear before him today and give an explanation of his action.

Police Quiz to Be Resumed.

The grand jurors, who are investigating the police department, will resume their inquiry today. Former Judge Bernard P. Barasa is expected to ask the jurors for an opportunity to refute reported statements that he used his influence to transfer policemen who had raided a gambling game operated by one of Barasa's clients.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles Mueller, who is directing the investigation of conditions in the police department, said he did not believe the jurors would hear Barasa until after Acting Commissioner Alcock is heard again tomorrow, and perhaps they wouldn't hear Barasa at all.

Last night Claude Maddox, partner of William [Three Fingered Jack] White, was still in the county jail, but an attempt to free him today was expected. Maddox was jailed on Saturday for the third time by Police Magistrate George F. Lee of Maywood. He is charged with the attempted murder of Police Sergeant James McBride of Bellwood, who is an important witness against White on a murder charge. His bond was set at $100,000.

Maddox's attorneys, W. W. Smith and Milton D. Smith, intimated they will ask some Criminal court judge to reduce the bail to $10,000 as Judge Joseph B. David did last week, resulting in a controversy between Judge David and Magistrate Lee of Maywood.

The Smiths said they would also seek the release of James [Fur] Sammons, who is under $150,000 bonds on a whisky burglary charge as well as under sentence of six months to the Bridewell as a vagrant.

The trial of Frank Foster, under indictment for the murder of Alfred Lingle, is on court call for this morning, but Special Assistant State's Attorney James E. McShane said he would ask to have it postponed until after Thanksgiving so the jurors would not be locked up over that holiday. The state will proceed with the trial this month, McShane said.

REALTY OWNERS SEEK TO VOID TAX ASSESSMENT

Suits Charging Inequality Ready for Filing.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A battle has been planned by substantial property owners to invalidate the 1928 real estate tax assessment.

This information came from John M. Pratt, executive director of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers. The membership of this organization represents $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 in equities of realty which has a total value of $400,000,000, according to Mr. Pratt's estimate.

Their objective is to prove that $116,500,000 too much was assessed against real estate in Cook county's 1928 tax bill of $219,815,000. That was payable last July 10. Of the two tax bills payable next year, aggregating an estimated $548,640,000, they seek to get a reduction of $288,300,000 to the owners of real estate.

Three Suits Are Ready.

To gain this end three suits have been prepared and will be filed shortly—perhaps this week—according to Mr. Pratt. It is planned to carry these suits to the state Supreme court as a test of the realty owners' claim that the assessment is unreasonable, inequitable, and confiscatory. Because of this contention of confiscation the plaintiffs believe that the question can be gotten into the United States Supreme court, if the State Supreme court's view is adverse to the complainants.

The basis of complaint is, briefly, this: Under the state constitution and statutes, the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers asserts, all property, unless exempted specifically, is required to pay taxes, and at a uniform rate. They cite a law which provides that revenue shall be secured "by levying a tax by valuation, so that every person and corporation shall pay a tax in proportion to the value of his, her, or its property."

The association takes the estimate of Prof. Herbert Simpson that the real estate of Cook county has a fair cash value in excess of ten billion dollars. In contrast, they have estimates placing the value of personal property above 30 billions, on which they charge that practically no taxes are paid. Yet real estate is assessed for 76.3 per cent of the general property taxes, personal property for 18.7 per cent, and railroads for 5 per cent.

Deducting the 5 per cent for the railroads leaves 95 per cent of the taxes to be paid by real estate and personal property. As there is three times as much personal property as real estate, this association claims that personal property should pay three times as much taxes as real estate.

Arithmetically, on this basis, real estate should pay a fourth of the 95 per cent, or 23.75 per cent of the taxes, instead of 76.3 per cent now assessed against it. It therefore is paying 52.55 per cent more taxes than is fair, according to this association. On the basis of the $219,815,000 Cook county assessment payable July 10 last, real estate is reckoned to have been assessed $115,500,000 more than its share.

Should Boost Personalty 52.55%.

By the same reasoning, personal property now assessed for 18.7 per cent of the total tax bill should be assessed for 71.25 per cent, or a boost of 52.55 per cent.

All of the above reckoning relates to tax assessment, which means the amount the levying authorities decide should be paid by each class of property. In collections the situation is much worse for real estate than above indicated. Owners of personal property evade paying a large part of the 18.7 per cent assessed against them.

N. Y. WIFE IS SUICIDE BECAUSE HUSBAND IS SINGING IN CHICAGO

New York, Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Disconsolate because business kept her separated from her husband who is a singer with the Chicago Civic Opera company, Mrs. Spartaco Pistori, a wardrobe mistress at the Metropolitan Opera house, attempted to hang herself with a cord from an electric iron today in her apartment.

Failing in this attempt, she turned on two burners of a gas range and lay down on the kitchen floor. Her body was found several hours later by the superintendent of the apartment house.

Mrs. Angelina Andridrio, also a wardrobe mistress at the Metropolitan, shared the apartment with Mrs. Pistori, Mrs. Andridrio told police that Mrs. Pistori had been growing more and more despondent over her husband's absence, made necessary by his work with the opera company in Chicago.

TOLL OF AUTO DEATHS 100 OVER FIGURE YEAR AGO

Three deaths attributed to injuries in automobile accidents last night raised the Cook county total to 988 for the year, an increase of 101 over the total of 887 deaths registered on Nov. 23, 1929. The victims:

Louis Sherminski, 22 years old, 1423 South Tripp avenue. Died in Mount Sinai hospital of injuries received last Thursday when he was struck by a Yellow cab at 14th street and Independence boulevard. The driver, James Cahill, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving.

Frank Mellin, 65 years old, 5413 Lovejoy avenue. Died after he apparently had recovered from injuries received Nov. 8 when he is said to have walked into the path of an automobile at Sayre avenue and Addison street. He was released from Belmont hospital five days ago.

Unidentified man about 40 years old. Found lying in the street in front of 4553 South Ashland avenue, where he apparently had been hit by an automobile. He was taken to the German Deaconess hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

TWO ROBBERY SUSPECTS SHOT IN AUTO CHASE

Forest Park police early yesterday gave chase to a small automobile containing four youths suspected of two holdups in Maywood and shot and captured two of them after the bandit car had plunged through a fence into a lumber yard at Circle avenue and Roosevelt road in Forest Park.

The prisoners, who are under guard in Oak Park hospital, gave their names as William Davis, 21 years old, 2801 West Van Buren street, and John Stephens, 20 years old, 4847 Washington boulevard.

Another robbery suspect was shot and seriously wounded by a Woodlawn police squad at 67th street and South Park way. He gave his name as Thomas O'Malley, 25 years old, 535 West 46th street, and is at the Bridewell hospital. Three companions, who deserted him when the gun fight began, were arrested later and identified themselves as William Kennedy, 23, 4612 Emerald avenue; Frand Reid, 25, 6010 South Talman avenue; and John Kennelly, 24, 4605 South Wallace street.

FRANCE COMPELS U. S. CITIZEN TO JOIN RESERVES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Following the disclosure that six American citizens are in jail at Rouen on charges of having evaded compulsory military service, THE TRIBUNE learns tonight of an even more strange case, although the American involved has never been imprisoned. Raymond Rousseau, a member of the Paris staff of Pacific and Atlantic Photos, Inc., an American born citizen and a world war veteran, has been saved from doing 11 months actual service but has been forced to enroll in the reserves.

Unlike other victims of French military regulations Mr. Rousseau was born in Brooklyn and the only claim the authorities here have on him is because of his being of French parentage.

In 1921, as an employé of an American firm, he applied for an identity card and was informed that he was a French citizen and therefore liable to military service. Since he volunteered for the American army and fought in France, the French officials did not press the charge of evading service but declared that 25 months in the American army was 11 months less than other members of his military class had served, and he would have to make it up. However, through the influence of newspaper friends the regulations were evaded and he was transferred to the reserve list.

LAWYER JAILED AT N. U. GAME; COP ACCUSED

Protests Police Action in Ticket Dispute.

Frank C. Leviton, an attorney associated with the law firm of Senator-elect James Hamilton Lewis at 112 West Adams street, went to see the Northwestern-Notre Dame game at Dyche stadium Saturday, but instead of watching the game was summarily booked and kept in a cell at the Evanston police station for more than four hours, it was learned yesterday.

In a signed statement, Mr. Leviton set forth that he bought two tickets from a friend in the Foreman National bank building. The tickets previously had been purchased from Fred Kihn, manager of the North Shore hotel, Evanston. Mr. Leviton took along as his guest, John Bush of 2308 South State street.

State Officials with Cop, Claim.

They arrived early, their seats being in the southeast section of the stadium, row 12, Nos. 13 and 14. They had been there but a short time when a state highway policeman, whom Mr. Leviton knows only as Jorgenson, appeared with two men said to be state officials. Mr. Leviton quotes him as saying:

"Your tickets are stolen; come along."

Mr. Leviton and his friend were hustled into a patrol wagon, taken to the station and thrown in a basement cell without preliminary examination, Mr. Leviton declares. No charge was placed against him.

Persuades Cop to Call Judge.

"I tried to explain," he said, "that I was a respectable citizen, but they wouldn't listen to me. Jorgenson talked vaguely of federal charges placed against me later. I am very well acquainted with Judge William V. Brothers. I finally was able to persuade one of the Evanston policemen to let me telephone to him. My release followed immediately."

Mr. Leviton has not said whether he will file a charge of false arrest against the state highway policeman. Mr. Kihn last night admitted buying a block of tickets to the game, but said he couldn't remember from whom.

Father of Two Drowned While on Fishing Trip

Arthur Webster, 40 years old, 3407 Wallace street, was found drowned yesterday in Wolf lake at 125th street. The body was recovered by John Strunk, 11144 Avenue O, who began a search when Webster failed to return with a boat he rented last Friday to go fishing. Webster was the father of two children. An inquest will be held today.

BOOTLEGGER SHOT BY RAIDER IS DEAD; WIFE HAS ARM, LEG BROKEN

Seminole, Okla., Nov. 23.—(AP)—B. L. (Blackie) Younger, admitted bootlegger, died today of gunshot wounds inflicted last night by Seminole county deputy sheriffs as the aftermath of a liquor raid in which Younger's wife and an officer also were wounded.

Younger's wife, an arm and leg broken by the pistol fire of Deputy Sheriff Hanner during the raid, was in the hospital. Deputy Sheriff Frank Loftus was stabbed in the face by Younger, but was not seriously wounded.

Following the raid at the farm of Forest Andersen, Negro oil millionaire, where the Youngers were tenants, Younger fled into the woods. Returning with reinforcements, the deputies sent one of their number, Hugh Reynolds, for an unsuccessful parley with Younger.

Reynolds said Younger declared he would not surrender until he had killed Deputy Sheriff Loftus with the officer's own gun, which had been taken from his holster during the raid by Younger's 12 year old son.

While the officers were making plans for Younger's capture, they spied the bootlegger creeping up on them through the woods, a gun in each hand. The officers fired and Younger fell, fatally wounded.

HUNT 8 BANDITS WHO KILLED 3 WOMEN IN CAFE

Three Others Shot at Summit Roadhouse.

City, county, and suburban police last night joined in a search for eight bandits who killed three women and wounded four other persons, two of them probably fatally, in a raid on Henry Goetz's roadhouse at 7200 Archer avenue, Summit, early yesterday.

Miss Alice Ward, 1432 North La Salle street, formerly of Milwaukee, and Miss Mary Brining, 1809 East 71st street, entertainers, died shortly after being taken to the Holy Cross hospital. Miss Mary Goney, 36 years old, 7800 Emerald avenue, a patron, died early this morning. The condition of Jack O'Bierne, 7721 South May street, another customer, was considered serious. John Gates, 7729 Archer avenue, and James Mikus, 3140 West 46th place, were considered out of danger. All were wounded by shotgun slugs fired in the dark by the gunmen after Mikus, a special railway policeman, had drawn his gun in an effort to forestall the robbery. The bandits got less than $200.

Fifteen persons were in the café shortly before 1 o'clock when the gun men entered and marched the bartender and two patrons from the front to the rear room, where the others were dining.

Opens Fire on Bandits.

The business of rifling pockets had just begun when Mikus stepped in from the washroom, unaware of what was happening. A shotgun pointed him to the wall at the end of the line. As he turned he drew his gun and fired two shots at the nearest bandit.

Lights went out and there was pandemonium. Glass crashed, tables were overturned, men and women shrieked in desperation as the bandits fired volley after volley toward Mikus in the darkness. Then the firing ceased and there was the roar of an automobile outside.

The robbers had fled. Mikus jumped into his car and pursued them, but was outdistanced. When he reached a drug store at 4460 Kedzie avenue he notified police and obtained first aid for his wounds. He later was taken to the Chicago hospital. His wounds are not regarded as serious.

Watch All Hospitals.

A close watch of all hospitals was ordered by the authorities in the belief that one or more of the robbers had been wounded and would seek medical attention. It is known that one of them was attacked by Goetz's police dog and appeared to have been badly bitten.

In the confusion no one seemed to know just how the cabaret was plunged into darkness. Only the dim side lights had been lighted in the rear room and the bandit leader had told one of his henchmen to turn on the switch for the ceiling lights. Apparently the robber turned the wrong switch and extinguished the side lights.

The screams and cries of fear and pain continued until the bandits had fled and some one switched the lights on again. The wounded and dying were on the floor. The police from Summit took them to the Holy Cross hospital. It is believed that several patrons fled after the shooting, and possibly some of them were slightly wounded.

BOARD TO START DRAFTING DRY REPORT TODAY

Expected to Be Ready for Hoover Early Next Year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Drafting of its report or reports on prohibition is expected to be started by the Wickersham commission tomorrow as it reassembles after a ten-day recess for what is scheduled to be the wind-up phase of its wet and dry problem investigations.

All of the eleven members of the so-called law enforcement group with the exception of Monte M. Lemann of New Orleans, and possibly Judge William I. Grubb of Birmingham, Ala., will be present at tomorrow's session. It is probable that the commission will meet on three days this week, then adjourn over Thanksgiving and reconvene to complete its work early in December. Plans are for its recommendations to go to President Hoover shortly after the first of the year.

Each Writes Own Views.

During the recess interval each of the commissioners has been busy preparing in written form his views as to what the prohibition report should contain. These individual manuscripts will be read and analyzed, after which one member will be chosen to write the report of the commission or of a majority, as the case may be.

From the best available sources it has been learned that a majority of the group definitely favors some form of dry law modification, having agreed that the present system is wrong and unworkable. It is known that some members favor a change in the 18th amendment, while others advocate revision of the Volstead act, and the reconciliation of these views is looked upon as the most important task yet confronting the commission.

Once having reached its conclusions, whether unanimous or divided, the commission still will have before it the job of marshaling and presenting facts and arguments to sustain those conclusions. Members of the commission have let it be known that when they do take a stand they propose to back it up with the most convincing portions of the evidence they have accumulated in their study of nearly two years.

Both Sides Plan Rallies.

While the Wickersham commission continues wrestling with the wet and dry problem behind closed doors the uproar on the outside apparently is going to continue in the capital, with organizations supporting both sides slated for demonstrations the second week in December.

A series of rallies will be started on Dec. 5 by the local unit of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, a wet group which claims a membership increase of 100,000 over the country since last fall. Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.], Representative Mary T. Norton [Dem., N. J.], and Mrs. Carroll Miller, Democratic national committee woman from Pennsylvania, are scheduled as speakers at the rallies.

Dec. 8 will see the drys go into action, with the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals holding its national conference. The following two days, Dec. 9 and 10, representatives of 47 dry organizations, headed by the Anti-Saloon league, will hold their annual convention.

Today's contributions to the wet and dry skirmishing consisted of a statement from the Methodist board predicting that a wet report by the Wickersham commission would be rejected by congress.

Church Board's Statement.

Said the Methodist board statement: "If the commission reports in favor of nullification of the eighteenth amendment by permitting the manufacture of intoxicating beer, it will result in nothing unless the President sends the proposal to congress with his approval. If the President were to send such a report to congress it would have no practical consequence unless congress were to enact legislation putting the recommendations into effect. Congress is more than two-thirds dry. And there you are."

A poll by the young men's wet Crusaders showed that 86.3 per cent of the answers they received from members of the Metropolitan, Cosmos, and Army and Navy clubs indorsed the stand in favor of repeal of the 18th amendment.

Bingham Wants 4 Per Cent Beer.

Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], who announced a few days ago that he would introduce a 4 per cent beer bill, today elaborated upon his arguments in behalf of such an amendment to the Volstead act, declaring that it "would aid temperance and tend to destroy the power of those engaged in the illegal sale of prohibited beverages."

"One of the most powerful arguments which was used to procure the passage of the 18th amendment," he said, "was the economic argument that it would be so much better for business. If economic arguments are to be used, let us admit frankly that the manufacture of 4 per cent beer would furnish a market for hundreds of thousands of bushels of the farmers' grain which today is rotting in storage. It would also aid the employment situation by creating a new industry."

TINKHAM URGES U. S. INQUIRY INTO METHODIST DRYS

Charges Corrupt Practices Act Violation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23. — Undaunted by his failure so far to secure action from the department of justice on a similar charge against Bishop James Cannon Jr., Representative George Holden Tinkham [Rep., Mass.] today laid before Attorney General Mitchell new charges of violating the corrupt practices act against the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals.

Representative Tinkham declared in a letter to the attorney general that "in harmony with its un-American program" the dry ecclesiastical group took an active partisan part in the 1.28 campaign but failed to report its expenses to the clerk of the house as required by the law. He demanded that this evidence, as disclosed in the senate lobby inquiry last April, be placed at once before a federal grand jury.

A week ago the Massachusetts congressman asked Mr. Mitchell to prosecute Bishop Cannon for reporting only $17,000 of the $65,300 he received as chairman of the anti-Smith Democrats from E. C. Jameson, New York capitalist. So far as is publicly known the attorney general ignored the demand.

"This organization," said Mr. Tinkham in his latest demand, referring to the Methodist board, "has its building directly opposite the capitol. Moreover, in contravention of the constitutional separation of church and state and the fundamental American tradition of noninterference by the church in affairs of the state, this organization has assiduously and persistently attempted to direct legislative and executive action. In harmony with this un-American program, it took an active partisan part in the political campaign of 1928."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 23.—Diplomats of the Baltic states stationed at Moscow, were still unable today to learn full details of the alleged Kremlin conflict, which caused publication abroad of rumors that Dictator Josef Stalin had been assassinated by his enemies. Reports received by the Baltic foreign ministries agree with dispatches that Stalin has emerged victorious in his fight to crush opposition within the executive committee of the communist party.

Since his return from a secret vacation to the Caucasus mountains two months ago Stalin has not been outside the walls of the Kremlin, and a veil of mystery is surrounding his movements. This fact is said to be the chief reason why rumors of party conflicts and mutiny of Red soldiers appear in the European press.

Peasant Revolt Crushed.

Latvian frontier guards state that a punitive expedition by the Moscow Gaypayou troops has succeeded in crushing the peasant revolt in the Pskov province, where eight villages were burned.

The inhabitants surviving the massacres were sent to Archangel province for forced labor in lumber camps. A number of the survivors, attempting to cross the Latvian-Russian frontier, were turned back by the guards. The Gaypayou troops have been transferred to the Opocheka district to punish inhabitants of several villages who united, ambushed, and murdered another tax collecting expedition.

Eager to Sell Rubles.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 23.—Rumors of the assassination of Dictator Josef Stalin of Russia have started a large speculation in Russian real estate, as many Poles own property in Russia. The exchange offices reported unknown persons offered a tremendous amount in rubles at any price in the last two days. Communists, on their way to Berlin, also disposed of large amounts.

The Russian exchange collapsed at Warsaw and rubles were offered at 2 cents without any buyers. Officially Polish authorities have not received any confirmation of the Russian revolt. Telegraph connections have been reestablished with Moscow, but telephone communication is still cut.

Litvinov Quits Disarm Parley.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Advices received from Geneva stating that Maxim Litvinov had left hurriedly and was returning to Moscow were considered in French official circles tonight as being significant evidence of the seriousness of the alleged Russian revolt.

It is pointed out here that Litvinov would be reluctant to quit the preparatory disarmament commission conference as Russia's delegate at a time when the session enters an important phase. It is believed that Litvinov received a formal order to return instantly to help in the fight for its life by the bolshevik régime.

FINNISH CONSUL EXPLAINS LAPUAN DRIVE ON REDS

Fascism is not using the Lapua movement as an entering wedge into Finnish politics, according to Edward A. Forsberg, Finnish consul in Chicago, who yesterday explained the significance of the popular movement, which has been instrumental in getting anti-communist laws passed by the Finnish parliament.

Because the Lapua movement presented a program of definite constitutional changes, which was accepted in part, it has been hinted that the Finnish constitution is being undermined in favor of a dictatorial form of government resembling Fascism.

"There is no group in the Finnish parliament representing such endeavors," Mr. Forsberg said. "Even the most conservative party has on every occasion taken a firm stand for the constitution, and there is no reason to believe that the Finnish people would submit to any kind of unconstitutional government. The Finnish people have been known for a passionate love for law and order."

Warship That Wrecked Spanish Fort Now Freighter

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 23. — (AP) — Stripped of its proud insignia the old coast guard cutter Comanche, whose crew cut the cable and destroyed the Spanish fortifications at Cienfuegos, Cuba, has been sentenced to the ignoble life of a freighter in its declining years. The vessel, veteran of two wars, was built in 1896 for $100,000, but recently was sold minus its instruments and equipment to a commercial company for $4,510. The boat in recent weeks has been tied up at the Curtis bay coast guard station.

NATIONAL LABOR BOARD WILL ASK DRY LAW CHANGE

Modification Is Urged as Prosperity Move.

New York, Nov. 23.—[Special.]—The national labor legislative committee for amendment of the Volstead act has been formed and has established headquarters in Washington, according to an announcement today by John Sullivan, president of the New York State Federation of Labor. The organization, which is said to represent 3,000,000 workers, is operating nationally in an attempt to obtain modification of the dry law, in the belief that such action will provide work for 1,500,000 men.

Labor Units Elect Delegates.

The organization has appointed a secretary to handle the national business. Labor units in every part of the country are electing delegates, who will represent them in the capital.

Mr. Sullivan explained that the national committee will carry on a nation-wide campaign for amendment of the prohibition law, and will present its demands to congress when that body convenes Dec. 1. Mr. Sullivan's statement, in part, was as follows:

"The national committee will conduct a campaign all over the United States and will go before congress with its program for the amendment of the Volstead act. The program will be submitted to congress at the session starting Dec. 1.

Will Push Labor's Demands.

"Congress will be told the desires of organized labor for amendment of the Volstead act and will be expected by organized labor to take definite action to bring about modification. Modification will mean work within a year for at least 1,500,000 men now unemployed and will hasten the return of prosperity.

"The international union presidents and heads of state labor federations and local central labor bodies met recently in Washington and formed the national committee. Practically all the labor organizations in the country are represented in this national committee."

AVIATRIX LANDS IN CUBA ON HOP FROM PITTSBURGH

HAVANA, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix, who left Pittsburgh yesterday morning on a flight to the Cuban capital, reached Curtiss airport at "Machado Town" 8 hours and 17 minutes after she left Miami, Fla., this afternoon.

Mrs. Keith-Miller spent last night in Charleston, S. C., and landed at Miami at 1:10 p. m. today. At 2:30 she took off for Cuba, reaching here at 4:47 p. m.

The Australian flyer was greeted by officials and photographers as she stepped from her plane and said she would remain here until Tuesday. She remarked that tailwinds over the gulf aided her flight.

NATION AWAITS HOOVER PLANS TO HELP TRADE

Message to Congress Nearly Ready.

the Federation of Labor, which long has agitated the repeal of the Sherman act. Indeed, on this question labor and industry are in agreement. The business depression has elicited from a number of men high in the world of industry and finance the assertion that we are suffering from too much competition and that the Sherman act should be repealed, or at least materially modified.

Anti-Trust Laws Blamed.

In a recent address Thomas W. Lamont, a partner in the house of Morgan, said that as regards overproduction in the United States "there can be no question that our somewhat antiquated anti-trust laws have been in part responsible for encouraging excessive construction of plant and equipment in the industrial field." Calling attention to the fact that the Sherman act dates from 1890, Mr. Lamont suggested that it would be advisable for congress to review the operation of a statute of this character vitally affecting labor and capital at least every forty years.

Business to Get Attention.

A large part of the President's message will be devoted to the problems of business. He is expected to recommend some rather definite changes in the transportation act of 1920, certain provisions of which in his opinion, have handicapped the development of the railroads.

What he may have to say upon the subject of railroad consolidations is being awaited with intense interest. A few years ago the trend of thought was decidedly in the direction of consolidation of railroads into a few large systems. There is considerably less enthusiasm for the project now. The plans for the consolidation of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific were met with such a storm of protest from the railroad brotherhoods because of the elimination of shop centers that they were reconsidered.

To Report on Finances.

One of the most important subjects of the message will relate to revenue and taxation. The President will disclose the state of the national finances and the amount of the deficit which he contemplates at the end of the current fiscal year as a result of the diminution of income taxes resulting from hard times. Whether he will recommend that congress reenact as applying to income of 1930, the one per cent income tax reduction that applied to 1929 income is a matter that will give every income taxpayer an extremely definite interest in the President's message.

Mr. Hoover also will review at length the negotiation of the London naval treaty and will outline his policy on the construction of warships to bring our navy up to parity with that of Great Britain.

May Be Extra Session.

Whether the President does more than refer to the world court in his message will depend upon the course he decides to adopt in asking the senate to ratify the modification of its reservations embodied in the Root formula. It is apparent that if he should send the modified ratification to the senate at the approaching session it would precipitate so much controversy that appropriation bills would be defeated and an extra session of the next congress in the spring made imperative.

Wickersham to Report.

Inasmuch as the Wickersham law enforcement commission will be unable to report its findings before congress meets next week the President is not likely to have any extended observations to make on the subject of prohibition.

On the subject of agriculture the President is expected to urge a full and fair trial of the federal farm board act and to decry resort to such panaceas as the export debenture, to which he is unalterably opposed.

KILL POLICE CHIEF IN SILESIAN RIOT OVER DIET VOTING

WARSAW, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Poland passed a moderately quiet day in balloting on a national senate and Silesian diet, although Police Chief Sznapka of Golasowice, in the Pless district of Silesia, was killed last night as the result of a preelection outburst. Numerous minor squabbles also were reported today in Silesia, which was German territory before the war, as the result of feeling between Germans and Poles.

The remainder of the country apparently was orderly, as the election of the senate does not arouse as much political tension as does the election of the diet, or principal legislative house, which was chosen last Sunday.

Marshal Joseph Pilsudski today made his first generous gesture toward his opponents, following upon his diet victory, releasing on bail a number of opposition deputies who had been imprisoned in Brest-Litovsk fortress. At the time of last week's elections some 81 deputies were in jail.

FEAR RADIO MAN IS DROWNED.

Yankton, S. D., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Herbert Lembke, 24, radio entertainer and a staff announcer for station WNAX, Yankton, was believed to have drowned today in the Missouri river near here when a motorboat struck a snag and upset.

ATTEMPT TO SLAY IRISH FREE STATE GENERAL FAILS

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Nov. 23.—(AP)—What appeared to have been an attempt to assassinate Gen. Richard Mulcahy, minister of local government and public health, occurred here tonight.

The general escaped injury, but one of his guards was wounded.

The incident is shrouded in secrecy, but it is understood Gen. Mulcahy and some friends were abut to enter the residence of Prof. Hayes, speaker of the Dail Eirann, when shots were fired. Gen. Mulcahy's guard returned the fire and men were seen dashing away.

IMMIGRATION TO BE LIMITED TO AID U. S. JOBLESS

Two Year Suspension Is Favored by Reed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Temporary curtailment of immigration as a means of aiding the unemployment situation is a possibility during the coming session of congress. Complete suspension of all quota immigration except immediate relatives for a period of two years from July 1, 1931, was proposed today by Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.].

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, in his annual report, will renew recommendations for a selective system of immigration with a view to facilitating the exclusionof all aliens for whom there is no economic demand in this country.

Reed a Leading Proponent.

President Hoover, in his annual message to congress, is certain to deal with the subject, and may go so far as to approve some emergency restriction, such as the cutting of quotas in half for the period of one year.

Senator Reed's proposal is believed to be somewhat extreme from the viewpoint of the administration. It is believed, however, that a less drastic scheme will be approved by the administration, and that some legislation may result in the short session.

Senator Reed, who is taking the lead in proposing a new restriction in immigration, has figured prominently in immigration legislation heretofore. Senator Reed said he would introduce his resolution for a two year suspension of immigration as soon as congress convenes and that he believes it will pass almost unanimous!y.

Welfare of U. S. Public First.

"If we can pass it early in the session it will become effective before July 1," said Senator Reed. "As immigration visas are valid for four months, all those issued prior to the passage of the resolution would be honored, as a matter of course.

"To some extent this will tend to prevent the spread of unemployment in this country. The welfare of our people must take precedence over the entry of aliens to enter the United States.

"To suspend immigration will not in any way modify the permanent policy of our immigration policy, as embodied in the immigration act of 1924, nor weaken the national origins principle, on which it is built."

Senator Reed said his resolution would exclude Filipinos for the two year period. At present they may enter the United States in unlimited numbers.

Greece Seizes Two in Plot to Restore Old Dictator

ATHENS, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Two of them, sons of Gen. Papoula, former commander in chief of the army, were arrested today charged with being concerned in a plot to restore Gen. Theodorus Pangalos, former dictator, to power.

Indian Scout Reaches City, but Without Captive Ape

Col. V. R. Pearson, friend of Buffalo Bill and one of the last of the old Indian scouts, who is known as "Idaho Bill," arrived in Chicago yesterday without the large monkey he had intended to present to William Wrigley. The ape escaped near Council Bluffs, Ia., and is now being sought by police, according to the colonel, who declared that the animal, captured several years ago in Mexico, is harmless. Col. Pearson once presented Calvin Coolidge with a live bear.

Beat Purser, Steal $1,800 During Dance on Liner

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 23.—(AP)—While 250 passengers were dancing on the deck of the liner Cathay, two robbers entered the purser's cabin twenty yards away, knocked the purser unconscious, and stole about $1,800 from the safe. The purser, John Outran, put up a ten minute struggle with the robbers. He regained consciousness an hour later and reported the holdup. The Cathay is now berthed at the Pyrmont quay.

GOOD FELLOWS HELP 2 FAMILIES TO SELF-SUPPORT

Homes Safeguarded by Temporary Aid.

Good Fellows, in their first month of operation, have carried two families through their crises. There are 229 other families whom Good Fellows are aiding in struggles to become self-supporting.

The S. family consists of a German carpenter, his wife and their four children, the oldest a girl of 14 years. They live in a small cottage that he built on a partly paid for lot near the forest preserve, on the northwestern outskirts of the city.

Mr. S., due to the business slack, lost his job last May. For months he sought employment but had no success. Through the summer the family lived on their savings and on what vegetables they received in return for work in truck gardens near their home.

Family Troubles Pile Up.

This fall, the family savings were exhausted. Payments on the lot had stopped and a foreclosure was theatened. The children were without proper clothes and lacked carfare to continue in school. Mrs. S., due to worry and malnutrition, became ill and suffered a slight attack of tuberculosis.

The United Charities investigated the case. A report on the family was submitted to the Good Fellow headquarters with a recommendation that a budget of $94.95 should be paid for the family until it became self-supporting.

Employes of the Lincoln Printing company, who had lumped their contributions to adopt a family, were assigned to the S. case. The family received financial assistance and counsel from trained and experienced social welfare workers.

Gets a Job—Troubles Flee.

Today, Mr. S. has a job, working three days a week. The children have enough clothes to continue in school. The real estate company has extended its loan on the lot and the home has been saved. Mrs. S., with her worries relieved and under a special diet, has recovered from her illness.

The S. family will get through the winter all right. And the employes of the Lincoln Printing company have now adopted their second family.

The H. family is another that has been saved as an asset to the community. It cosists of a man, his wife, and five children, the oldest a boy of 17 years. They live in a flat on the north side.

Mr. H. a few months ago underwent an operation for a spinal cord tumor, but he is still suffering from partial paralysis. Mrs. H., who had been working to support the family, became ill. They were hungry and cold and threatened with eviction.

Help Saves Their Home.

Having been carefully investigated by social workers of the United Charities, their monthly budget of $121 was assigned to the Good Fellow general fund, consisting of the many small outright donations that are mailed to the Good Fellow headquarters. Today, with the advice and assistance from welfare workers, Mrs. H. has recovered from her illness and has found employment. The 17 year old boy has also found a job. The oldest girl, 15, helps look after the house. The other children, ages 10, 8, and 6, are in school.

The H. family can now manage to live through the winter without further help from the Good Fellows. So their allowance of $121 a month has been transferred to another deserving family in desperate need of assistance.

These are two examples of the Good Fellow work. If you want to help, there's a coupon published on this page for your convenience in making a pledge or donation. Contributions to the Good Fellow fund reach destitute families without a penny being deducted for overhead. THE TRIBUNE pays the expenses of administration.

Clubs of Good Fellows are being organized in offices, shops, factories, churches and societies. A recent contribution of $50 was made by the Washington Park Hospital Nurses' Alumni.

Thousands Attend "Mum" Show at Garfield Park

The Garfield park conservatory annual chrysanthemum show had one of its biggest days yesterday with thousands of visitors crowding through the exhibits. More than 350,000 chrysanthemums are on display with more than 7,000 specimens of 650 varieties of the flowers. The biggest "mum" at the show is white and measures 24 inches from tip to tip overhead. Its stem is five feet high.

FORCE SECRETARY TO SHOW WAY TO FLAT; LOOT $3,000

Two bandits obtained $3,000 in loot late yesterday when they forced Charles Grover, 5904 South Troy street, secretary and chauffeur, to lead them to the apartment of his employer, Mrs. Jessie M. Reiland, 40 years old, 845 Drexel square. She is a widow.

The thieves were waiting in the entrance of the building when Grover appeared. He gave no attention to their presence, and pressed the bell button of Mrs. Reiland's apartment. A moment later she sounded the buzzer unlocking the lobby door. At the same moment the gunmen pressed revolvers into Grover's back and ordered him to lead the way to Mrs. Reiland's apartment.

Grover did so. In the apartment Grover pleaded with the robbers not to molest his employer. On his promise to stand by with Mrs. Reiland while they ransacked the place the thieves agreed to his request. They took a mink coat valued at $1,600; a diamond necklace worth $500, and a ring and a pin which cost about $900 and escaped.

JOBLESS WOMEN TO GET SERVICE CENTER IN LOOP

Registration Will Start on December 1.

A clearing house and center of service for unemployed women and girls will be opened about Dec. 1 in the loop, according to an announcement yesterday by the Chicago Council of Social Agencies. All women and girls receiving free lodging in the city, as well as those temporarily adrift because of lack of work, will be registered.

"Homeless women and girls in anything like the present numbers are something new in Chicago's experience," said the announcement. "Unemployment has turned into the streets a vast number of girls and older women. Dismissed from jobs, cut loose from broken homes, deprived of the support of some wage earning father, husband, or brother, this is the time when the girl who is down on her luck needs a friend as never before in her life."

All Applicants to Register.

Every applicant will be interviewed by an experienced social worker and registered at the Social service exchange. Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, vice president of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies, will act as chairman of the executive committee in charge.

The campaign for emergency relief to the needy and unemployed of the Chicago area swings today into its second week. A number of large contributions are expected, according to an announcement from Gov. Emmerson's commission on unemployment and relief.

"The soliciting organization is complete," said the announcement. "All forces will be ready to begin the week with full speed and if promises and expectations are to be lived up to we should have our fund of $5,000,000 in hand very soon, a number of large subscriptions being received from individuals who are not directly affiliated with any of the trades groups."

Will Solicit City Employés.

The administrative personnel of the commission's special activities was completed yesterday with the selection of B. J. Mullaney, vice president of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, as chairman. The others chosen are Charles C. Fitzmorris, president of the Globe Coal company, and H. M. Lytle, vice president of the Chicago Rapid Transit company. This committee will organize the solicitation of all municipal employés.

Coördination of the operation of eight free lodging houses for homeless men out of employment through a newly established clearing house was announced by George F. Getz, general chairman of the governor's commission. The clearing house, at 172 West Polk street, will be formally opened this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 23. — The "Condor of Bolivia," manned by Capt. Lucio Luizaga, Capt. Horacio Vasquez and Lieut. All three perished. Identification was established by watches found near the burned bodies and a chart showing the contemplated route between the two capitals. The chart was found in a nonburnable container.

PLEAD FOR JOBS AS THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY NEARS

Ask for Work to Obtain Necessities.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Just one short jump to Thanksgiving, and Sally Joy Brown's mail was heavy yesterday with renewed pleas for jobs to help in tiding families over the holiday.

A letter comes from a man 34 years old, the father of two little girls. He has been without work for six months and though paying only $26 a month rent is $104 in arrears and awaiting an eviction notice.

"It is with shame that I am obliged to write you in the following way," his letter reads, "but, honestly, circumstances force me to do so, and I hope I shall never have to do this again. I cannot seem to get any work at all. I am registered many places and go to these places regularly, but when I am at one it seems there is always a job given out at another which I could have done to good advantage.

Fears Unhappy Holiday.

"I have always been able to make my way fairly comfortably and provide for my family until lately, when the bottom just seemed to drop out of things.

"I had two years of high school education, am healthy and able-bodied. I have been doing factory work in a bed manufacturing concern for years. Also I have worked as an assembler of wood products, such as display cases and map cases. I am handy with carpenter's tools and at painting as well as plumbing and could do well if I could get work as a maintenance man in a factory.

"This is going to be an unhappy Thanksgiving to my wife and two girls, as they are planning so much on what can be had, and I cannot give them anything. Believe me, this hurts me clear down to my toes. I would much rather be shot than to pocket the amount of pride it takes to make this appeal. My family does not know of this letter."

Family Faces Eviction.

The father of two small boys writes to beg for help before being evicted in five days, as he has received notice that he will be.

"I have no money left," he says. "No even $1. I can't pay my rent, gas, or light bill. The landlord gave notice to move, but where can I move to without money? I will do any kind of work—am an auto painter and polisher. If there is any kind of work you can find for me I'll sure appreciate it very much. I haven't got money for street car fare or I could come down to the employment office."

Family Is Without Coal.

"My husband has not been working for nearly a year," she writes. "He is not strong and cannot get anything to do. I am supposed to be operated on, but cannot go. We have hardly anything to eat and no coal at all. I owe a $100 grocery bill and cannot get much more, and rent also. If things do not turn out better I will have to break up the home, and I think it would drive me crazy, as I have struggled all my life and now things are getting so I cannot keep the home together. The children have no shoes. Hoping I may be lucky enough to hear from you."

If you can help these three or any of the others in similar unfortunate circumstances, your own Thanksgiving is bound to be a warmer, happier day. You can reach Sally at Superior 0100 and tell her about any job you may be able to offer.

Boy Strangled to Death by Belt While at Play

John Simmer Jr., 14 years old, was found strangled to death by a leather belt beside his bed in his home in Lemont yesterday. John's younger brother, Lowell, 8 years old, was asleep in the bed occupied by the two. The father said he believed that the boy had been playing with the belt and wound it about his neck until it became impossible to unfasten it. The younger brother said he knew nothing of what had happened to the older boy.

RECOGNIZING BOLSHEVIA.

Recently a British squadron chanced to be in Phaleron bay, on the Greek coast, when a soviet squadron which had been visiting Italian, Greek, and Turkish ports arrived. The British official account is as follows:

"The soviet government being in diplomatic relations with this country, the usual naval compliments were paid when British and Russian naval squadrons met in Phaleron bay. The Queen Elizabeth rendered the salute ordered by the regulations by running up the soviet flag and playing the 'Internationale.' Flags of every country with which Great Britain has diplomatic relations are carried in the lockers of all warships, and there was not the slightest political significance in carrying out the usual regulations."

But the official organ of the soviet, Izvestia, devoted special attention to this affair, declaring that the fact of meeting the British squadron and the hoisting of the Red flag on the battleship Queen Elizabeth had great importance. The band of the Queen Elizabeth had played the "Internationale," the communist anthem. "At this moment every Red sailor felt the power of the U. S. S. R., which grows every day, a power which forced a band accustomed to glorify the might of Britain, empress of the seas, to play the 'Internationale,' summoning to battle all oppressed by capitalism."

The Izvestia's use of a conventional official courtesy is characteristic and not in itself important. But it illustrates in a petty way what we mean when we say that diplomatic recognition of the bolshevik régime by the United States would be trumpeted around the world as a great victory for communism and evidence of its power to bring the greatest capitalist power to its knees. This would be only a joke to us, but in countries where communism is a serious threat to their peace, and there are not a few such countries, soviet recognition by the United States would be no joke. In China, in India, in unstable countries in which Red agitators are making mischief, our action would be a serious misfortune. We can afford to withhold that contribution to the present discomforts of humanity.

In fact, we cannot afford not to withhold it. The notion that by recognizing the soviet government we shall have thrown open to us a large market for our goods and for our capital is not supported by the facts. There is no evidence that Russia bought more of Britain's goods or of Germany's goods or of France's goods because the governments of those countries had recognized the soviet. Russia is buying what she can where it is to be bought on the best terms. The soviet encourages foreign investment wherever it is obtainable under conditions satisfactory to the soviet. That gratitude for diplomatic recognition would induce the soviet government to make concessions cannot be foreseen by any one who has observed the dealings of the very hard boiled individuals at Moscow with any country which has granted recognition.

On the other hand, there is probably nothing which would directly profit American industry and commerce more than the stabilization of China, perhaps the greatest potential market in the world. But China is in a turmoil to which communist propaganda is largely contributing. Mr. Hu Chong, a Chinese citizen, writing to the China Weekly Review from Hankow, says: "No country in the world is so extensively and thoroughly poisoned by communism as China. No single province has escaped being affected thereby. In some provinces such as Kiangsi, Hunan, Hupeh, Fukien, Kwantung, etc., the influence has become so great that every business is paralyzed and agriculture is deserted," and he asserts that "there is no denying that soviet Russia is subsidizing a large sum of money to the Chinese communists in order to make trouble here and there in China so as to bring about a world revolution, as they suppose."

To this widespread activity we can give prestige by formal recognition of the bolshevik power, which would be advertised throughout the world as a great victory for communism and would add seriously to the difficulty of responsible Chinese authorities in checking the communist mischief. It would postpone stabilization and the establishment of conditions which would permit China to recover, to amass capital, and to enter into profitable relations with the civilized world. The argument in favor of recognition on grounds of economic interest is a violent case of penny wise, pound foolish. If we had no higher and more far reaching reason for refusing to give moral support to the despotism established at Moscow, the economic reasons against it would be conclusive.

WORDS FOR THE SYMPHONIES.

We think it only fair to warn Mr. Stock and the orchestral association of what has been going on. Words are being fitted to symphonic themes. In consequence a growing section of the audience sits no longer listens to the music. Some are engaged in composing words to fit the tunes, and the rest in conning over words previously fitted.

The movement seems to have started innocently enough, as the program notes say. A so-called music lover who couldn't seem to untangle the themes of the Fifth from those of the Seventh symphony discovered that the first measures of the Fifth fit the words:

"This is the Fifth; this is the Fifth."

As the same tune would not carry the observation that this is the Seventh, the difficulty was solved. Unfortunately, the discovery so made led to others. For example, the funeral march in the Eroica proclaims that

"Old Napoleon is de-e-ead."

Now, as mnemonic aids, these are satisfactory, but once in mind they make it difficult, if not impossible, to hear the music without thinking of the words. If Mr. Stock had faced the other way when conducting the Cesar Franck symphony a few weeks ago he would have observed large sections of his audience mouthing the words

"I'm tired; my feet hurt"

as the orchestra played the great theme. The next time he presents that composition, we venture to predict, considerable numbers of his listeners will be unable to remain silent. They will sing. Nihilism will have triumphed. A bomb under Mr. Mischakoff's chair could be no more destructive.

THIS U. S. A.

The Rev. Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, has awakened from a sound sleep and accuses Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, former firebrand of federal prohibition enforcement, of having chloroformed him and his brothers in Volstead. Mrs. Willebrandt is attorney for the California grape growers whose prosperity depends on two things: [1] Government subsidy of the business; [2] government toleration of beverages of illegal alcoholic content.

The Rev. Dr. Wilson, coming out of it, is indignant. The Volsteaders' confidence in Mrs. Willebrandt as a sister in the good work deceived the righteous, and they have just become aware of what is going on at the crossroads in the murky night. When they are entirely informed as to each other none of them will get any sleep. The custodians plainly require custody.

Dr. Wilson says that the work of the grape growers and of their product is "more dangerous to the success of prohibition than any other evolved since the eighteenth amendment became effective." (When did it ever become effective?) California grapes require an appetite for alcoholic beverages supposed to be illicit. Half the growers, or more, would go out of business if the demand were merely for table grapes, jelly and grape juice. Fermentation is the basis of grape sales. Trainloads to each city go into the barrels of householders. For such as do not care to produce their own wine California offers a juice which will ferment after it is delivered to the basement.

The government has given this industry a $14,000,000 subsidy. It has not interfered with the business of delivering a product sold only because it will produce an alcoholic beverage. It supports the production and ignores the consequences. In any sane country the possession and use of such a beverage would occasion no comment. It would be a better and cheaper product and no authority would think that any conceivable law gave him a sanction to question a citizen's right to use it. But this is the United States. It is the country in which the late Rev. Mr. Shumaker of Indiana coerced a legislature into making the use of medicinal liquor a crime and then took an alcoholic tonic for his health. It is the country of Bishop Cannon who carried the odor of coercive righteousness into stock market gambling, flour hoarding and evasion of the corrupt practices act in political action.

It is the country of Mabel Willebrandt, the fang of prohibition enforcement, who retires to make a legal front for the government subsidized grape growers. It is the country of jake paralysis. It is the country of prohibition murder and machine gun gangs. It is the country of congressmen who vote dry and have leaky trunks. It is the country of Volstead, of politico-clerical oppression, political corruption, hypocrisy in high places, and of citizenship bewildered in a cruel fantasy of law.

THE LAW AND A LOTTERY.

The offices of the Empire Finance company were raided last week by officers under the direction of the state's attorney upon complaint of a citizen of Toledo, O. The complainant had a ticket of the "Gold Bond lottery" which he supposed had drawn a $1,000 prize. He came to Chicago to collect it, but was told that a mistake had been made in the announcement of the winners. Investigation produced evidence that the lottery operated rather extensively in the midwest and arrests were made.

The state's attorney's prompt action has therefore put a stop directly to the further mulcting of a good many individuals, and it is to be hoped will have the indirect effect of advertising to the public the viciousness of this device for playing upon every one's natural desire to get rich quick and without effort or risk. Even where lotteries are run in good faith to their contributors, their influence is notoriously demoralizing and they have been declared unlawful for that reason alone in most of our states. The excuses for their operation do not stand up, though they have been offered in many plausible forms, not merely as private enterprises but for otherwise respectable public purposes. The lottery is in any disguise a vicious and demoralizing device and no deserving cause need stoop to use it.

THE GREAT GOD PIGSKIN SICKENS.

[Daily Northwestern, Evanston.]

Bill Roper and Purdue's president are not the only prophets of the end of the Great God Pigskin. A change in the public's attitude toward commercialized collegiate sport is as noticeable today as the change in the undergraduate's attitude. The student has, for some time now, taken his athletics with saving sanity. The "I'd die for dear old Rutgers spirit" passed out years ago, and its vestiges can scarcely be found in the high schools.

The great public, which is the source of the six figure gate receipts, is gradually awakening to the undergraduate's change of temper and attendance at all but big, strenuously publicized games is falling off.

When Northwestern's winning team cannot inspire enough enthusiasm among student supporters to produce an old time, emotional pep meeting, the business man and the sports follower who pay as high as twenty dollars per seat to scalpers for a single ticket to the Notre Dame-Northwestern game begins to get suspicious. He begins to wonder about the sincerity of this football pageantry, and losing the power to believe in it, he loses much of his interest.

It would seem that the Great God Pigskin is sickening. Men are beginning to doubt his immortality, and, doubting, they are aggravating his disease. Men are beginning to subject him to rational analysis, and few gods survive rational analysis.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries under proper limitations when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

TREATING MIGRAINE.

DRS. BALYEAT AND BRITTAIN give it as their opinion that the treatment of migraine gives results that are as good as or better than those obtained in nearly any other chronic disorder. Most migrainous people accept their fate as inevitable. They began having sick headaches in their youth. Having tried many treatments, they finally gave up and are now getting along as satisfactorily as they can, awaiting the turn of the half century mark, after which they expect to find relief gradually. They know their disorder does not threaten life and they have learned to accept the attacks as quietly as possible.

Drs. Balyeat and Brittain think their treatment will halve the number of attacks in nearly all cases and will entirely prevent attacks in a few, and all individuals who fall in either of these groups or any group in between should be satisfied. The central principle of the method they propose is that migraine is a kinsman of asthma, nettle-rash, and hay fever.

It is caused by some poison and usually some proteid poison to which the migrainous individual is sensitive. Exposure to this poison brings on an attack. The essential part of the cure consists in avoidance of the cause.

The principal substances which act as poisons are foods, though pollens and some other inhaled substances rank well up. On a scale of 100, wheat, which leads all other provocative foods, had a score of 69; fish, of 65, and beans, of 60. The ranks of some other foods were: Milk, 45; nuts, 41; turnips, 38; eggs, 36; cheese, 35; radishes, 31; parsnips, 31; barley, asparagus, lettuce, cabbage, buckwheat, rye, and peas, 21. A long list of other foods are occasionally responsible for cases of migraine.

Among the causes which enter the body through the air passages are: Dust from feathers, 61; pollens, 56; dog dandruff, 36; cat dandruff, 31; horse dandruff, 29; cattle dandruff, 20; orris powder, 25; rabbit dandruff, 16; wool dust, 16.

The person under treatment goes on a simple, safe diet and then experiments with different foods to find the cause of his headaches. For instance, he might start with a diet of fruits and meat, avoiding breads, milk, and the other more risky foods, and then slowly build up a balanced diet by trial and error. Meanwhile he should get plenty of sleep and rest, should have his eyes tested, his teeth put in order, and establish good elimination.

BEST LEFT ALONE.

Mrs. W. A. M. writes:

I have two hairy brown moles on my face, which are growing. Should I have them removed? Are all moles cancerous?

REPLY.

Moles are not cancerous and they rarely become so. When a mole does become cancerous the cancer is sometimes of a mild type and sometimes it is very malignant.

The advice is to leave moles undisturbed. If it seems best to remove one or more the job should be done thoroughly. Half way measures are dangerous.

SLOW TO HEAL.

C. K. S. writes:

I had my tonsils removed about five weeks ago. I have used salt and water as a gargle twice a day and that seems to help, but on each side of my throat inside there are white spots and part of my tongue is white. Could it be ulcers? Are they dangerous, and if so what would you advise?

REPLY.

Your tonsils wounds are slow in healing, but I see no reason for thinking you will not come out all right.

EITHER CAN BE SAFE.

J. T. writes:

1. Is living in rooms heated by gas detrimental to one's health?

2. From the health standpoint only, would coal stove heating be better than gas?

REPLY.

1. It is not if there is a stove pipe, and all pipes, burners, and connections are good.

2. Either can be safe and wholesome, or unsafe and harmful, depending on whether the stove pipes, burners, and connections are good or bad.

DAMAGES BY CLEANERS.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About three weeks ago I sent a dress to be cleaned to the cleaners. They have ruined the dress and refuse to allow me anything on a new dress—even holding my dress—wanting me to pay for a damaged dress. Have called the manager, but he refuses to talk to me. The dress was new and this was the first cleaning. G. M.

Unless they can prove that the damage was not due to their fault they are liable for the value of the dress that has been ruined, but it seems probable that the amount involved is not enough to make court proceedings worth while.

BLOCKING THE ALLEY.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—[Friend of the People.]—In the alley back of Talman avenue stands a cement mixer blocking half of the alley all night and most of the day. Directly north is a pile of stone and gravel, with no light or sign of warning. We have great difficulty getting into the garage. At times there is also a truck standing there so that it is almost impossible to get in or out of the alley. If it is unlawful to park cars on the street at night, can they park cement mixers and the like in the alleys? G. H. J.

A written 48 hour notice was served upon the owner of the cement mixer to remove same from the alley in rear of North Talman avenue and the matter will be followed up until the cement mixer is moved.

WINE IS A KNOCKER.

"What are the bugles blowing for?" asked Dry upon parade. "To turn her out, to turn her out," Doc Clarence Wilson said. "For we're firin' Mabel Willebrandt, she's boostin' of the grape, she isn't one of us no more, we're giving her the gate. We're takin' of her medals off, we're a marchin' of her 'round, she's joined with the sweet wine boys and thrown her old gang down. So we're firing little Mabel in the mornin'." "But the wine she sells ain't got no kick," said Dry upon parade. "O act your age, O act your age," Doc Clarence Wilson said. "It may be tame when it is sold, but it sure rares 'round when it gets old. You'll find in time that as a rule it's got more kick than an army mule. So we're firin' little Mabel in the mornin'."

FOR AN ANNIVERSARY.

Beloved, there once were hours for us
When Life, her finger at her lip,
Bade all things hush the while we two
Were drawn together, luminous
With love and treading stars as dew;
When on soft tiptoe Time withdrew
And let his count of æons slip
While we beheld the vision rise
Of heaven in each other's eyes.
Then Life and Time resumed and we Took back to earth our ecstasy.
Such hours, however we may yearn,
Are caught in wheels of years that turn
And vanish ere we realize.
But in our hearts the memories burn
Like sacred incense in an urn,
Diffusing a sweet wonderment
Through all our days of rich content.

"MELLON to Get $72,735 Refund on Income Tax."—W. G. N. Gosh, that takes a weight off our mind. We used to lie awake nights picturing poor old Uncle Andy on the street corner with a monkey and a cup, grinding away on a hand organ. But everything is all right now; in these days seventy-two thousand bucks looks like a lot of money.

THE HAUGHTY Archduke Leopold Hapsburg, on trial in New York, received his crowning insult when one of the prosecuting lawyers roared, "He may be a Hapsboig, but he's just nuttin'!" Before the last of a haughty race issues a challenge to the death some one should hasten to explain that they speak English that way in New York.

NOW THEY'RE TALKING in Washington about increasing the tariff on corn by 50 per cent. And we were telling old Bill Wisner that the High Tariff Republican is a perfect Bourbon—he never forgets anything and he never learns anything. But Bill didn't let us finish. "Bourbon?" sezee. "Good gosh! they're not raising the tariff on corn likker, are they?"

Do you realize that this year they are going to be used not only as Christmas cards but by a lot of us as Christmas gifts? As soon as the darn things come out, I'm going down to 1 So. Dearborn, buy my supply, and then and there will end my Christmas shopping for 1930! I'm telling you! SWANEE THE HICK.

JUST AS WE WERE noting with pleasure that face lambrequins, justly brought once more into popular favor by Jim Ham Lewis, were causing razor blade stock on Wall street to show a steady decline along comes a story from Soo San Marie, Mich., that a hunter sporting a lovely crop of facial alfalfa had gone to sleep in the woods and was awakened by two deer which were grazing contentedly on his whiskers. This was in the Saturday morning papers—and, just as we expected, the stock report at closing time showed that razor stock was slowly sneakin' up.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 24, 1914.

LONDON.—The Russian armies under the leadership of Grand Duke Nicholas apparently have won a decisive victory over the German forces under Gen. Von Hindenburg. All reports from Petrograd indicate that the second German attempt to capture Warsaw has failed. The Germans, who penetrated Russian Poland between the Vistula and Warta rivers to within 35 miles of Warsaw, are reported retreating toward the frontier, after battles covering five days, in which they sustained enormous losses.

LONDON.—A dispatch from Petrograd says: "The British embassy in Constantinople has been ransacked and the Russian hospital pillaged and all foreigners more or less seriously abused."

LONDON.—A repulse of a British expeditionary force in East Africa is admitted in a communication from the marquis of Crewe, secretary for India.

VERA CRUZ.—General Candido Aguilar succeeded Brig. Gen. Frederick Funston of the United States army as military governor of Vera Cruz. Gen. Aguilar personally raised the Mexican flag over the municipal palace at 6 o'clock tonight, after the American troops had boarded transports and departed. He announced that any disturbance of the peace from picking pockets to sacking would result in the execution of the offending individuals.

NOVEMBER 24, 1900.

WASHINGTON.—Secretary Hay addressed an identical note to the powers suggesting steps leading to the appointment of an international commission to settle the Chinese imbroglio. It is President McKinley's idea that the commission shall sit at London, Paris, Washington or some other capital which shall be agreed upon and not at Peking.

ALBANY, N. Y.—Gov. Roosevelt has decided not to remove Mayor Robert A. Van Wyck of New York because there is no proof that he wilfully violated the law by owning ice trust stock.

PARIS.—President Kruger will arrive in Paris today and will be welcomed at the railway station by the French-Boer committee of the senate and chamber of deputies. The Parisians hope to outdo the enthusiastic greeting given Kruger by the people at Marseilles.

LONDON.—Disquieting news of a large Boer army near Dewetsdorp has reached London, and the fear is openly expressed that Lord Kitchener will have to reconquer the Orange Free State before he can begin the pacification of the Transvaal.

CHICAGO.—John Condon became the absolute owner of the Harlem race track property by the payment of $50,177, the amount of the last note that was due. He thus becomes probably the biggest individual owner of racing property in the world.

NOVEMBER 24, 1880.

NEW YORK.—Wall street was filled with excited operators again today, and the manner in which stocks were hammered up by bull speculators was a caution. The highest prices ever paid for several stocks were paid today. Lake Shore was bought as high as 122¼, Michigan Central, 115½, and Union Pacific, 102¾. After the first hour the whole list "boomed," in sympathy with the rise of the three stocks.

WASHINGTON.—The promised cold winter opened here with remarkable severity. Ice formed entirely across the Potomac. There are many winters when the Potomac at this point is never frozen over.

MADISON, Wis.—Prof. James C. Watson, director of the Washburn observatory at the state university and professor of astronomy in that institution, died suddenly of inflammation of the bowels. He was 42 years old and one of the most brilliant of American astronomers. Previous to coming to Madison, a year and a half ago, he was in charge of the observatory of Michigan. The regents of the university named a committee to escort the remains to Ann Arbor, Mich.

CONSTANTINOPLE.—Dervish Pasha has occupied the heights of Dulcigno and his entry into the town is hourly expected. Montenegro has been notified of the approaching surrender of the town, but refuses to enter until all the Mussulmans have departed.

ON WAR MEMORIALS.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Among the more subtle disasters that befall a nation in the aftermath of war is the public statuary. Bronzes and well meant marbles rise across the land, in cemeteries and in public squares, in parks and open places, and though some of them are good, like the Sheridan north of the loop, others are awful. The well groomed young man tossing a doughnut, a grenade or something at the Chicago Yacht club near the end of Belmont avenue is a bronze mistake that no flowers or sentiments can cover. And the proposed soldier for Wacker drive, now under controversy between the city council and the municipal art commission, is another failure even before it starts. By such work the unquestioned value of good war memorials is endangered. It is a throwback to mediocrity against the growing taste and good sense in such productions.

The Wacker soldier stands in repose, or pose, before a comrade's gun, according to the pictures; and though his sentimental stance is suitable perhaps for an illustrated calendar made to sell insurance, it is hardly good enough for a great public square. May the arm of the municipal art commission be strong to keep it out of Wacker drive. A wise plan of birth control for statuary is most advisable.

If America fought her wars with the same incompetence that she shows in some of her memorials of them this nation long ago would have gone the usual way of failures among the relics of defeat. A weak and sentimental work on Wacker drive will give no honor to the nation nor to its soldier dead. Without power and without distinction, without imagination or initiative, memorials like these rise to be laughed at or forgotten. The mediocrity designed for Wacker drive should be given to the Ladies' Aid society or the Y. W. C. A. and the public square reserved for more powerful and distinguished work. Only great productions can give credit to the city and to her memory of the dead.

This well intentioned atrocity designed to decorate the late world war should not be added to Chicago's too long list of artistic failures. We have the work of Borglum and St. Gaudens, of Mestrovic and other men of power; why raise these feeble imitations? If wars must result in bronzes such as these, it were better to have war no more.

EQUAL DISTRIBUTION OF PARKS.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—The members of the Kinsey's Forest Glen Improvement association are protesting against the delay of the Jefferson Park board in obtaining a park for this community. The improvement association contends that, due to the fact that they are surrounded by streets that are speedways (Milwaukee, Elston, and Foster avenues), it is impossible for their children to derive any benefit from the parks which are maintained by the park board and toward which the Kinsey's Forest Glen district has been paying taxes.

The improvement association has asked the park board to obtain a tract of approximately 4½ acres of undivided land lying between Lieb avenue, Rogers avenue, Larned avenue and Latrobe avenue for a community center. The request for this land was made as far back as June, 1927. Promises have been made from time to time (especially around election time) that something would be done for this district, but to date no concrete action has been taken, according to the board, except to obtain the legal status of the land in question.

No attempt seems to be made by the park board for equal distribution of the parks throughout the park district, for at the present time two exist west of Milwaukee avenue and another site is now being considered, also west of Milwaukee avenue. RALPH GALKE.

A COUNTY CONTRACT.

Brookfield, Ill., Nov. 21.—The All-State Teaming and Trucking company I understand have a contract for filling in the west approach to the new 26th street bridge over the Des Plaines river in the western end of the county.

I had occasion to notice one of their trucks this morning which bore an Iowa license and I am just wondering if the contractor is an Iowa contractor and, if so, why the county patronizes out of the state contractors; and if he is not an Iowa contractor why he should be using Iowa license plates.

PACIFISTS URGE HOOVER TO HAVE WAR OUTLAWED

Ask U. S. to Bring World Into Agreement.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Another move to bolster up the Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war will be brought to the attention of President Hoover tomorrow by leaders of the pacifist and peace groups which backed the anti-war treaty and now are pushing for American entrance into the world court.

Want International Law.

This latest world peace proposal calls for the enactment of an international law making war illegal and branding as criminals nations which go to war to end their disputes. The proposal, which is to be presented to President Hoover in the form of a letter, is "to delegalize war by making its prohibition a basic principle of international law by an enactment—not a treaty—accomplished either by a conference or negotiation or by a convention of nations with the participation of enough nations to make it binding upon the world. . . ."

The letter, according to the advance publicity sent to newspapers today, is signed by the "most remarkable list of distinguished men and women" who ever sent a letter to a President or any other government official. It is signed by 150 men including heads of leading peace and pacifist groups, a number of senators and former cabinet members, 35 university presidents, fifty-nine college presidents and a director of the Rockefeller Foundation.

Ask U. S. to Negotiate.

The sponsors of the new movement will urge the President to begin negotiations at once with other nations to delegalize war. The letter supporting the new proposal points out weaknesses in the Kellogg treaty, asserting that once war is made illegal by international law the compelling power of world opinion can be depended upon for its enforcement.

"Some time in the future one or more powerful nations may disrupt and destroy even so splendid a structure as the general pact for the renunciation of war by withdrawing from it," the letter continues. "But no nation, be it ever so powerful, can withdraw from international law."

STATE ECONOMY PLAN IN RUMANIA BRINGS DIVORCES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 23.—A divorce epidemic has broken out among the state employés of Rumania. This is due to the bad financial situation. In order to cut down expenditures as much as possible the ministry of finance issued a ruling that all those who have served twenty years are to be pensioned. Furthermore if husband and wife are both in the state service the one who receives the higher salary is to be discharged. This caused the divorce epidemic. It is reported that within the last two weeks no less than 1,800 suits for divorce were started.

75 MILLION FUND IN PROSPECT FOR NAVAL BUILDING

Plans Call for Speeding Up Program.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—A $75,000,000 naval budget for new warship construction during the year beginning next June is now in prospect, it was learned today. White House approval of the construction plans, formulated by the navy department and now before the budget for approval, would mean that congress will be asked this winter to approve the expenditure, during the fiscal year 1932, of sufficient funds to carry on construction on eight vessels and begin work on between fifteen and twenty more.

Delays in warship building, due largely to suspension and slowing down of work while limitation of armament negotiations were under way, have resulted in the accumulation of a surplus in the navy's new construction fund which may run as large as $28,000,000 by the end of the present fiscal year. In addition to this money, which is carried over into the next year automatically, the new budget which goes to congress next week carries in the neighborhood of $20,000,000 for new ship construction.

More Will Be Asked.

The plan now is to ask congress, in the second deficiency bill, for an additional sum which may run as high as $25,000,000 for new warship construction in event the 100 million dollar warship authorization bill becomes law in time.

Considerable debate is certain to develop in congress over the character of the ships included in the authorization bill. The navy itself is divided on the question of whether two aircraft carriers should be asked for instead of one, as now planned. At least one admiral favors including two carriers in the bill and the elimination of the proposed new 6 inch gun cruiser.

New Submarine Planned.

Members of the navy general board hace completed plans for a new submarine type and are now working on designs for a new type of destroyer, new cruiser types and a destroyer leader. The new submarine will be of approximately 1,250 tons, the destroyer of 1,500 tons probably, while the destroyer leader will run 1,850 tons.

SPEED WATERWAYS TO AID JOBLESS, IS PLAN OF VALLEY STATES

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Immediate development and construction of inland waterways by the government as an unemployment relief measure will be one of the keynotes of the twelfth annual convention of the Mississippi Valley association which opens here tomorrow, officers of the association said tonight.

"The Mississippi Valley association," said Lachlan MacLeay, executive secretary, "advocates the application of a five year completion program to all Mississippi valley river channel projects.

"This involves the making available of $100,000,000 annually for national waterway development work."

Several hundred delegates from 25 states were in St. Louis tonight and it was estimated that more than 1,000 river development advocates would be here by tomorrow noon.

Speakers at the convention will include Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE; manufacturers, two major generals, two senators, four governors, and nine congressmen. The convention closes Tuesday.

VALLEY STATES PRESS CONGRESS FOR CANAL FUND

Urge Early Appropriation to Finish Seaway.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Mississippi valley states are planning a concerted drive on congress when it meets next month to hasten the completion of the Illinois waterway. Efforts are being made to influence the war department to include an appropriation for beginning the work in the first deficiency bill which will be introduced early in December with a view to reopening operations early next year.

Last July congress authorized the government to take over the unfinished waterway from Lockport to Utica, and to finish it at a cost not to exceed $7,500,000. No appropriation was made, however, and work has paused on the project on which the state of Illinois and the city of Chicago, through the sanitary district, have already spent over $90,000,000.

Seek Completion by 1933.

Engineers say if quick action in congress provides funds work can be started by the government early in 1931, and otherwise construction might be delayed until late next season and the waterway will not be finished by 1933.

The intention is to tie up the Illinois waterway as a source of employment relief with emergency appropriation measures which are looked for in congress in connection with unemployment. Some plan of action is expected to be agreed upon at the meeting today of the Mississippi Valley association at St. Louis.

New Orleans sent word to Chicago authorities yesterday through Wilson S. Callender, an official representative of the New Orleans Association of Commerce, that it is ready to peel off its coat to help start things moving at Washington. At the southern end of the lakes to gulf waterway New Orleans reports that it has port expenditures either under way or ready to start totalling more than $61,000,000, getting ready for the new water trade route.

Build Five New Wharves.

Mr. Callender told the Illinois waterway officials and engineers that the state of Louisiana has five wharves now under construction and will start on four others next year, at a cost of $8,000,000. The plans include a new and larger terminal for the Mississippi-Warrior [federal] barge line. He reported that eight of the largest steamship lines operating out of New Orleans have definite expansion programs under way which represent an outlay of $17,000,000, led by the United Fruit company with $11,000,000 in new ships now building for the New Orleans-Colombian trade. They are to be ready in eight months.

Waterway development activities on the part of the federal barge line, in connection with the intra-coastal canal joining all the gulf ports west of New Orleans with the Mississippi system and by the Mississippi Valley Barge line are reported as involving the expenditure of $11,500,000.

In addition to these outlays the railroads serving the port of New Orleans are preparing for increased movement with construction work costing $26,600,000. This includes a bridge project across the Mississippi at a cost of $21,000,000 which is expected to get under way early in 1931. Another item is a new Illinois Central terminal to cost $6,000,000, and a new 4,000 car waterfront terminal for the Burlington system.

According to Mr. Callender, these expenditures directly bearing on port development are only part of the construction program now getting under way in Louisiana.

She traded a vacant lot for a Rooming House!

MRS. JANE BROWN* owned a vacant lot in a south side suburb. It was a good investment, but she preferred to own a rooming house. To get one, she offered her lot in trade through the Barter and Exchange Column of the Tribune. Now she owns the rooming house she wanted!

Exchanging goods of equal value is a custom ages old among men. Even in this modern era barter and exchange still flourishes. Furniture is exchanged for automobiles—farms for city property—business sites for machinery—personal service for rentals. So popular is this form of enterprise that the Tribune devotes a special column in the want ad section to further the interests of its readers who need or like to swap.

FINDS ALFONSO A HATED KING AS RIOTS CEASE

But Army and 45,000 Police Guard Throne.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Nov. 23.—All Spain is quiet tonight after two weeks of turbulent lawlessness and disorder, most of which was occasioned by general strikes in the capital and at Barcelona. Sporadic strikes, accompanied by rioting, at Seville, Bilbao and San Sebastian, have calmed and the government has the situation well in hand.

The authorities, now confident of their strength, are prepared resolutely to suppress any attempt at insurrection. The Madrid garrison has been augmented by 6,000 picked man. The civil guards—a crack organization composed entirely of ex-soldiers—have been increased from 38,000 to 45,000 men and they are disposed in strong contingents concentrated in all potential trouble centers throughout the kingdom.

Finds Labor Leaders Lacking.

During the strikes and unrest, labor leaders revealed their ability to compel their supporters to walk out for a few days, but failed to prove they could keep them idle for any protracted period.

The failure of labor forces to effect a complete outbreak reassured the government against a national republican uprising, which many officials believed inevitable when the troubles began.

It was feared that all anti-monarchist groups would attempt a united coup before the March elections. Now, however, authorities are confident they can instantly clamp down the lid on any plot where serious trouble threatens to flame up by the mobility of the present police organization.

Furthermore, the last fortnight has revealed the unwillingness of the various discontented elements to work together. The anarchists refused to cooperate with the Socialists, and both held aloof from the Madrid intelligentsia, representing abstract republicanism.

Slump of 1919 Repeated.

The economic crisis is being felt here as everywhere else in the world, but the Spaniards are bitterly complaining about hard times as if they were something peculiar to Spain.

In every way the present situation is a repetition of the depression of 1919, when the belligerent nations stopped buying war materials and supplies from Spain. Then, as now, strikes broke out all over the country. These disorders went on until Primo de Rivera established his dictatorship by a coup d'état in 1923 and put down the militant labor movement.

Politically, another crisis is developing here. Public opinion is slowly crystallizing against the king and to some extent against his dynasty; but it is not so much hostility to the monarchic system of government as of personal animosity against Alfonso. The movement against the king is accentuated by two facts.

Recall Moroccan Debacle.

First, the king is accused of being responsible for the Moroccan debacle in 1921 when Riff tribesmen annihilated a force of 21,000 Spanish troops at Ahnual and seized the military stores, which are still being used by the rebels in various corners of the dark continent and which supplied Abd-el Krim with modern military equipment that enabled him to carry on revolts for five years.

When the parliamentary investigating committee, after completing a two year probe, was ready for a public debate, in 1923, Alfonso arranged with Primo de Rivera for the coup d'état suppressing constitutional government and forestalling the danger of parliamentary exposures.

To this day the Socialists insist they will reopen the affair, and this is one of the principal reasons for the long delay between the fall of the dictatorship last spring and the general elections.

Suggest King Lined Pockets.

The second reason for the unpopularity of Alfonso is "dynamite." There is a general belief that the king shared directly or indirectly in millions of pesetas of graft and boodle, which were squandered with a profligate hand during the dictatorship. Only Primo's bitterest enemies accused him of lining his own pockets.

The king's long support of Primo cost him the loyalty of the army, which became hostile to Primo after putting him in power, because he proposed promotion by merit instead of seniority. The king is now trying hard to recapture the fealty of the army. He has just returned from Segoola, where he fraternized with the officers of the artillery corps, which was ordered dissolved two years ago for an attempted coup d'état.

Gen. Berenguer is sick of the task of running what is ostensibly a provisional government, but the king cannot find anyone to replace him. That is the weakness of the present situation. But 45,000 police, the solidarity of the army, and the powerful support of the priesthood, is expected to carry the monarchy through—at least for this winter.

Author's Auto Kills Girl; He Commits Suicide

PRIZE ANIMALS DUE THIS WEEK FOR STOCK SHOW

Carloads of notables in the live stock show world are scheduled to arrive in Chicago this week from Canada, overseas and some thirty states, according to an announcement issued yesterday by B. H. Heide, secretary of the International Live Stock exhibition. The 31st annual exhibition of this world's greatest agricultural show opens next Saturday and continues until Dec. 6.

Word was received by Mr. Heide yesterday that three carloads of premium winning cattle, swine, sheep and horses from the Royal Live Stock show are to leave Kansas City tomorrow, to reach Chicago Wednesday morning.

Ten Percheron horses with long pedigrees attached to their bridles were shipped some time ago from France, and were yesterday reported to be entrained to arrive for the International this week-end. They will be delivered to the Holbert Horse Importing company of Gridley, Ia., from their French consignors.

Mrs. W. H. Bryce, horsewoman of Arcola, Saskatchewan, Canada, is sending the three outstanding Clydesdales from her stables, to arrive in the next two or three days.

CHICAGO MAKES READY FOR FEAST OF THANKSGIVING

Inmates of Institutions Look Forward to Day.

Holiday food is being received by the trainload in Chicago for the Thanksgiving feast next Thursday. Though distinctively a festival of the American home Chicago transients will be well fed and entertained in hotels, and efforts will be made to brighten the day for unfortunates in institutions.

In the hotels alone 15 tons of turkey, plus proportionately large quantities of chicken, goose, and duck, have been ordered for the day.

Downtown food stores report an unexpectedly heavy sale of food products, comparing favorably with the large sales of last year. The reasons given are that the prices of food are lower this season, and that many people who do have money to spend are buying food for the less fortunate. Last year turkeys generally sold from 39 to 48 cents a pound. This season the prices are from 30 to 40 cents.

The many thousands of persons in the Chicago and Cook county institutions, including jails, infirmaries, and hospitals, are looking forward to the day.

There is a woman ill in the county hospital, one of many. She has no home, no friends, no place to go if she does get well. She is 61 years old.

"Why, yes, I have plenty of things to be thankful for," she said when asked. "I am much better than I was when I came here eight weeks ago—see, I am sitting up. And I'm sure we are all thankful we are going to be here Thanksgiving day to eat the big dinner they are going to have for us."

That is the way Mrs. Emma Smith feels. And the dinner of which she spoke is something to be thankful for. The 2,400 patients in the hospital will eat chicken, candied sweet potatoes, cranberries, and all the other trimmings.

"I think every patient we have will be able to eat some chicken," said Warden Michael Zimmer of the hospital.

Jail Inmates Are Cheerful.

In the county jail, the prisoners say there are some things for which they can be thankful. Along alimony row, for example, all the inmates are thankful for one thing or another. "I'm thankful for three square meals a day," said R. H. Kramer.

Another prisoner added: "Yes, eats here are better than those our wives cooked."

"It is our plan to have a radio on every floor of the jail by Thanksgiving," said Warden David Moneypenny. "Of course, we are going to have a big dinner. Probably turkey or duck. We'll have about 1,300 inmates to feed, a fifth of whom are women."

Participating in the Thanksgiving meal will be five convicted men in murderer's row, awaiting probable death by electrocution. They are Leon Brown, colored; Willie Doody, William Lenhardt, Frank Bell, and Richard Sullivan.

The women in the jail, in order to brighten things up, are making Thanksgiving decorations to hang about the corridors.

The 200 boys and 100 girls out at the Juvenile Detention Home are going to have a big day. Supt. A. G. Barry said that turkey appears on the menu.

In the Marine hospital 185 patients will be served with turke:

Some 950 patients who saw service in the army or navy in either the world war or the Spanish-American war, will have turkey dinner at the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital. Three hundred and fifty will be served in trays at their bedsides.

The 2,000 inmates of the Bridewell, where men and women spend from a day to a year for misdemeanors, will not only have a big dinner, but in the morning they are to have three hours of vaudeville entertainment.

At noon the prisoners will eat a dinner including chicken, sweet potatoes, and raisin bread. Supt. James Curran and his deputy, P. P. Killminski, are busy getting things ready. About twenty-five patients are in the Bridewell hospital, but they will probably be able to eat their share of chicken.

Turkey for Dunning Inmates.

Supt. Daniel D. Coffee of the Chicago State Hospital for the Insane at Dunning, told the chief dietitian, John Cooksey, to prepare a good meal for the 3,600 inmates, so Mr. Cooksey ordered turkey, with all the other delicacies.

The 4,600 inmates at the county infirmary at Oak Forest will have both roast turkey and goose for their dinner. Supt. Frank Venecek has also arranged for vaudeville entertainment.

A Thanksgiving dinner will be held at St. Vincent's Infant and Maternity hospital. The babies won't get in on the turkey, but their mothers, of whom there are about 125, will. Sister Camilla is in charge of the day's program.

The United Charities is at work all the time relieving the needs of the unfortunates in the city. Besides this, their Thanksgiving work has consisted of supplying the names of needy families to persons who wish to send gifts of food and clothing.

U. of I. Thanksgiving Recess Begins Wednesday

RESCUE LIVES OF 280,000 IN CHINA AT $1.85 APIECE

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 23.—Two men, an American and a Briton, returned to Shanghai this week after many months spent in China's far interior districts where they directed a relief expedition that resulted in the saving approximately 280,000 Chinese lives. The men are John Earl Baker of Eagle River, Wis, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, and the Rev. George Finley Andrew, a British missionary born in China.

The 280,000 lives which were saved constituted only about one-tenth of the total number of famine victims, generally estimated at 3,000,000. The remainder, or 2,720,000, probably died, because if they escaped the famine they probably have since fallen to the bubonic plague now sweeping the territory.

Used U. S. Relief Cash.

Mr. Baker and the Rev. Mr. Andrew were able to save the lives they did due to $520,000 famine relief money that had been raised in the United States. The lives saved figured out at about $1.85 each.

China's famine territory, embracing three provinces, Shansi, Shensi, and Kansu, is located on the headwaters of the Yellow river.

In this area reside approximately 25,000,000 people, some 13,000,000 being in Shensi, 10,000,00 in Shansi, and 2,000,000 in Kansu. Shansi province, located west of Pieping, was affected by the famine, the worst conditions prevailing in Kansu and Shensi.

Banditry Follows Famine.

Famine and plague are not the only scourges that have affected the people of this section of China. They also have been cursed by civil war and banditry. The banditry, in the opinion of both Mr. Baker and the Rev. Mr. Andrew, is a direct result of the famine, the reason being men are forced off their farms or crowded out of the towns and villages and banditry offers the only other means of livelihood.

Faced with the problem of doing what they could with $5200,000 for the greatest possible number of famine victims, these two saviors, after arriving on the job, decided to concentrate their efforts upon two phases of the job.

Repairs 200 Miles of Road.

Mr. Baker took charge of the rehabilitation and the Rev. Mr. Andrew directed his effort toward the supplying of foodstuff to starving people.

Mr. Baker in a few months repaired some 200 miles of road and constructed 30 miles of new road to enable an American truck to bring grain.

The Rev. Mr. Andrew undertook the the dispensing of the grain and the organization of soup kitchens. Little actual money was passed out and that in 12½ cent doles. The coolies who worked on the road were paid in grain.

Aside from the actual work of building roads and bridges, Mr. Baker also superintended the construction of several canals and the opening of new sources of water supplies for several villages.

Sixteen American, British and Scandinavian missionaries, who helped in the relief work contracted typhus and fourteen of them died.

BRITAIN BUYS 200 FASTEST FIGHTING PLANES IN WORLD

Spends $2,500,000 to Equip Air Force.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The biggest single order for airplanes ever placed has been made by the air ministry in the secret purchase of 200 of the fastest military planes in the world at the cost of $2,500,000.

Although the order was made with instructions that the closest secrecy must be kept, it is understood that official details will be available later in the week. Two types of machines, officially pronounced the fastest and most efficient of any in the world of air armaments, compose the order. One type is the Hawker-Hart day bomber and reconnaissance plane which proved so efficient during the extended air maneuvers recently.

200 Mile Defense Planes.

The other is the terror of all attacking machines, the Hawker Fury, which has a speed in excess of 200 miles per hour. The Fury is a single seater fighter designed as a defense arm for the island. It is proudly pronounced by the air ministry as the fastest and most formidable machine of that type anywhere.

Both types of machines are manufactured by the Hawker Engineering company. This order means that several sections of the royal air force will be completely re-equipped.

"Supreme Fighting Plane."

The Fury won out over all other types in air ministry competition for service planes this year. It was later officially adjudged the supreme fighting plane of the world.

A number of these will be equipped for landing on the decks of warships.

The new fleet is designed to place Great Britain's air force on an equal footing with the larger fleets of other countries, with fast interceptor machines forming the basis of a well planned insular defense.

Sleeper Kills His Brother, Slashes Mother and Sister

New York, Nov. 23.—[Special.]—While asleep, Michael Filosa, 28, killed his brother with a knife tonight in their home in Brooklyn, then slashed his step-sister and was stabbing his mother when her cries awakened him. Michael was taken to the police station, where he insisted he had no reason for wishing to kill his relatives and that he remembered nothing until he was awakened by his mother's screams.

MOTHER OF FIVE HELD ON SLAYING CHARGE AS HER RIVAL DIES

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Rose Foross, mother of five children, was held tonight in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Gertrude May Stout, 26, her alleged rival for the affection of Tony Foross, 45, the prisoner's husband.

Homer C. Eing, county prosecutor, said a second degree murder charge would be filed against Mrs. Foross tomorrow. The husband, said by police to have admitted an affair with Mrs Stout, was freed, despite his plea that he be held instead of his wife.

Foross, according to officers, recounted that his wife fired at him and Mrs. Stout when she found the pair together in an automobile.

Mrs. Foross accepted calmly the information the younger woman had died today.

"I am sorry, but she should have been killed. She broke up my home," the prisoner commented.

Mrs. Stout is the mother of a 2 year old girl and was estranged from her husband, Burl Stout, Cincinnati.

TRIES TO FORCE WEDDING GAYETY TO GO ON; SLAIN

Guests were leaving the Polish Turner hall at 1921 West 22d street early this morning after gay festivities celebrating the wedding of Miss Mary Naminski, 2131 Garfield avenue, and John Englehardt, 2340 West 22d street, when three youths blocked the doorway.

"On with the wedding party," they ordered.

Several of the departing guests protested, but the invaders were insistent. Vincent Rossa, owner of the hall, tried to persuade the youths to leave. In a moment there was a scuffle, a shot was fired, and one of the uninvited guests, Frank Gavel, 18 years old, 2058 West Coulter street, fell with a bullet in his stomach.

He was taken to the county hospital, where he died shortly afterward. His companions, Dave McThomas, 23, of 2017 South Hoyne avenue, and Robert Slonski, 17, of 2314 Blue Island avenue, were arrested.

SCIENCE ENDS ACID STOMACH

"I was in a terrible state for years with acid indigestion," writes Mrs. Nellie Crouse, of 2803 Quincy Street, Kansas City, Mo. "After eating I had such terrible pains in my stomach, I thought I'd die. I would get nervous and numb and my heart would nearly stop beating. Nothing helped until I tried ACIDINE. Now I can eat, sleep and enjoy life again."

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way this new prescription ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Pepsase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid, soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings, helps end acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When sour stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, belching, nervousness, colds, gassy headaches and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money.

WATCHMAN GIVES BANDITS IN HOTEL SURPRISE VOLLEY

Three bandits were routed in a blaze of gunfire early this morning after they attempted to hold up Edward Curtis, night clerk in the Hawthorne Arms hotel, 3432 Broadway. One of the trio was believed wounded.

The thieves surprised Curtis and marched him ahead of them to a back room. At the door the clerk leaped to one side. Inside the room stood Michael Monbrod, watchman for the Buena Park Night Patrol, who had observed the proceedings.

Monbrod fired point blank at two of the gunmen. The third jumped aside with Curtis, yanking off the latter's wrist watch at the same time. Curtis dropped to the floor, picked up a concealed revolver, and sent six bullets after the fleeing bandits. Blood stains were found in the doorway, indicating at least one of the robber was wounded.

DRYS IN BRITAIN DRAFT LAW TO FORBID ABSINTHE

Charge "Green Death" Debauches Students.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The World Prohibition federation from its headquarters in London has taken up cudgels against absinthe in Great Britain and is drafting a parliamentary act to ban the drink forever here, as was done in France.

Charges that the "green death" is debauching Oxford and Cambridge universities, undermining the health of the nation and corrupting reputable liquor dealers, who have so far resisted that "this death dealing poison may now be had by the gallon," are made in the organization's first broadside.

Say It Spreads Insanity.

The menace is real, and the nation's policy demands eradication of a curse "which is spreading insanity amongst our people," says the federation's literature. "It is also alleged to be an active agent in human sterility," the charges continue.

All this in spite of the fact that the average Briton coming home from his day's work probably would consign to the nearest receptacle a drink of absinthe if it were given to him and make outraged demand for his customary pint of bitters or ale. The swanky cocktail bars in the West End sell more Scotch and soda than sideboards and martinis and all the other drinks comprising the cocktail list any day or night in the calendar.

Worried Over Students.

Drinking tradition, which will have nothing to do with American mixtures has less use still for the beverage which the federation calls "the green devil," but the prohibitionists are thoroughly alarmed. There are no half measures in their condemnation of this growing curse.

"Oxford, Cambridge and other university centers are said to be consuming original absinthe increasingly," the federation's sally goes on. "It is to be hoped that if this is correct—it has already been reported in the press—the college authorities will soon wake from their drowsy indifference on the subject of drink and take some practical steps for dealing with the new and acute situation which is said to have arisen among both sexes of drinking undergraduates.

"As is well known, anything of a novel nature is taken up by a section of the smart younger set seeking a new 'kick' out of life, and hence absinthe is proving a peculiarly insidious peril for youth just now."

CLEWS RUN DOWN TO TIME BOMB SENT TO ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Search for the author of the second attempt in three years to bomb the Cowles Publishing company building here had spread from Washington into California and Oregon today.

Information from San Francisco, Portland and Seattle indicated the trunk containing an elaborate timing apparatus hooked to a 200 stick dynamite bomb might have been sent from those cities to Spokane. The bomb, inside a steamer trunk, was delivered to the Associated Press office, which is in the Chronicle building.

Ballistics experts said the bomb was powerful enough to wreck both the Chronicle and Spokesman-Review buildings had it been discharged.

The bomb was discovered by Cleveland Williams, Associated Press correspondent, after it had been in the office for nearly six hours. Williams had the trunk taken to a locksmith, who forced it open.

In July, 1927, a bomb was placed in the doorway of the Spokesman-Review building, but the fuse failed to burn.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—There is no present reason why the toll rates of the Panama canal should be reduced, Col. Harry Burgess, governor of the canal, stated in his annual report issued today.

"Considering the capital invested and accumulated interest on the investment," the report declares, "the present total capital liability is such that the canal is not as yet earning the annual interest charge at 4 per cent, the current borrowing rate of the treasury of the United States."

Tolls during the past fiscal year amounted to $27,076,890, a decrease of $50,486 from the preceding year. The net income from tolls and other receipts constituted a canal revenue of $18,082,451.

U. S. Shippers Object.

Laws now in effect provide an alternative basis for tolls payments either according to canal rules of measurement or under the measurement rules for United States registry. It has been proposed by the canal government that in the interest of efficiency and fairness the canal rules at an adjusted rate be adopted. But to this proposal American operators of general cargo vessels have objected, the governor's report states, on the ground that their charges would be increased.

Rate Is Considered Low.

Expressive of the cost of carrying cargo through the canal is the account of the transit of the Swedish motor ship Svealand with a cargo of iron ore, when a record was set for tonnage of cargo in a single transit and for low cost of tolls per ton of cargo. The cargo amounted to 22,244 tons and it was passed through the canal at a toll cost of $0.2103 per ton.

The total number of transits was 6,755, a decrease of 3.5 per cent from the 1929 figures. Cargo carried through the canal amounted to 30,030,232 tons, a decrease of 632,774 tons from the 1929 total.

FESLER NAMED OHIO STATE'S VALUABLE PLAYER

'IT'S WES,' ALL HIS TEAMMATES DECIDE IN VOTE

Shines as Athlete, Scholar, Too.

Columbus, O., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Who was the most valuable man on the Ohio State 1930 football team?

And when the Buckeye players and coaches were asked to name their most valuable player for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE award their answer came quickly and without the slightest hesitation—Fesler.

One ballot was all that was necessary—and every ballot was marked "Fesler." The voting was done on the eve of the Ohio State-Illinois game at Champaign Saturday.

Fesler called signals for the team in all but the first three games, he did most of the punting, all of the passing, carried the ball from full back position when his team was on the offense, played right end on the defense, was acting captain in every game played and paved the way for most of the Ohio scoring.

Seldom Out of Game.

The accurate air bombardment of the Buckeye star, who won all-American honors in 1928 and 1929, has brought an average of 8.2 yards per toss.

Fesler this season has played 373 out of the possible 420 minutes. He was taken out of the Wisconsin game in the last minutes for the first time in his three years of Big Ten competition.

Fesler's recognition as a football player first came while he was playing at end, but this year he has gained additional fame while playing in the back field.

Fesler is hailed at Ohio State as a second Chick Harley—Ohio's immortal gridiron hero—and is called the greatest end in the country by Coach Sam Willaman.

Called Super-Player.

"He is the most versatile player I have seen," Willaman said, "and there isn't a better field general in the game. All of the Buckeye play this year has centered around him. In the Navy game alone he figured in 41 of the 44 plays, either making the tackle, kicking, carrying, or passing the ball. Without doubt he is the super-player of the gridiron."

When Chick Harley roamed the Ohio field it was thought that no other Ohio player would ever threaten to approach his greatness, but Fesler has done that.

He will not play professional football, baseball, or basketball, although he starred in all three sports during his Buckeye competition.

Nor has Fesler any ambition to become a four sport athlete. He could make a letter on either the track or tennis teams, but trying for either team might limit his value to baseball. This he declines to do.

Also a Good Scholar.

"I have enough to do to play three sports and try to learn something," he said. And he has succeeded in learning something, for he was named to Phi Beta Kappa this year for his scholastic ability.

Fesler is 22 years old, a senior in the college of business administration, weighs 175, stands 5 feet 11 inches, and his home is in Youngstown, O.

Known as the "one man team" Fesler is exceptionally well grounded in football technique. In his high school days in Youngstown he played center. In his freshman year at Ohio State he played at guard. When he entered the varsity ranks he was shifted to end where he was picked as all-American end.

Playing mostly as a guard in basketball, he filled in at center last year when the regular pivot man was out. In baseball he has played in the field, at second and first base and even started pitching one game last year. He has won the Potter run maker cup for the last two years—an award which annually goes to the Ohio State player scoring and driving in the most runs.

Was Junior President.

In addition to being Ohio's greatest athlete, Fesler also is one of the most popular men who ever studied at the Ohio institution. He was elected president of the Junior class last year and this year declined to run for office.

Because he entered the engineering college as a freshman, he fell two quarters behind his regular class when he changed to the commerce course. Consequently, although he finishes his football career this year, he will be in school another year.

He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity and plans to make his home in Columbus after his graduation, probably accepting a coaching position at Ohio State.

Fesler has two brothers, both outstanding athletes at Ohio. Don made his letter in tennis in 1926 and Ray, former Ohio State baseball captain, won the Potter cup in 1923.

Dickinson Ranks Michigan Ahead of Northwestern

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 23.—(AP)—By its victory over Purdue, Michigan outranks Northwestern in 1930 Big Ten football under the Dickinson system of rating.

Dr. Frank Dickinson, University of Illinois economist and originator of the system, today announced his findings, which reveal that Michigan scored a rating of 22.00, with the Wildcats second with 20. Under the system a victory over a first division eleven, one which has won more games than it has lost, gains more credit than one over a second division team. There were only three first division elevens—Northwestern and Michigan, which did not meet, and Purdue, which was beaten by the Wolverines, 14 to 13.

	Pts.		Pts.
Michigan	22.00	Indiana	15.00
Northwestern	20.00	Illinois	13.33
Purdue	17.50	Minnesota	13.33
Wisconsin	15.00	Iowa	10.00
Ohio State	15.00	Chicago	10.00

Kassell	R. E.	O'Rourke
Maple	Q. B.	Simas
Flenneken	L. H.	Banker
Nevers	F. B.	Holm

Substitutions—Cardinals: Vesser for Kassell, Boyd for Maple, Handler for Kiesling, Rose for Rooney, Blumer for Diehl, Tinsley for Williams.

Memphis: Long for Gentry, Voss for O'Rourke, Applewhite for Getz, Franklin for Woodruff, Shelton for Holm, Holm for Banker, Moore for Shelton.

The speed in the Memphis Tigers' back field was outmatched by Ernie Nevers' bullet passes at Comiskey park yesterday afternoon, so the Cardinals defeated the southern pro team, 20 to 7. Five thousand watched the contest.

Both teams threatened in the first quarter. After a march down the field on the opening kickoff, Nevers could not locate a free receiver and the Cards lost the ball on downs on the Memphis 22 yard line. Mack Flenneken intercepted Cowboy Banker's pass a moment later on the Tiger 43 yard mark, but after the home team had advanced to the 26 yard line Holm intercepted Nevers' throw.

The Tigers lost an opportunity to score a few minutes later when Kassell recovered Banker's fumble on the Cardinal 29 yard line.

Rooney Races to Touchdown.

Just before the end of the first quarter Howard Maple returned Banker's kick 15 yards to the Tiger 46 yard line. The Cards had a first down on the 32 yard stripe when Bettencourt interfered with a pass receiver as the period ended. Maple hit right tackle for 9 yards in two attempts, and Nevers plunged to the 18 yard line. The same pair made it another first down on the Memphis 8 yard line, but on the next play Rooney lost 3 yards.

Nevers slipped around his left end to the 4 yard line, and then added two at right tackle. With fourth down and goal to make Rooney circled left end to score standing up. Nevers' place kick was wide.

The Cards took the opening kickoff in the third quarter to the Memphis 32 yard line through a 13 yard pass, Nevers to Gene Rose and off tackle slants. Boyd was held for no gain on two attempts, so Nevers snapped a 22 yard pass to Boyd, who raced the remaining ten yards for another touchdown. Nevers' place kick made the count 13 to 0.

Nevers Crashes Over.

Later the Cards launched another march. Seven plays put the ball on the Memphis 24 yard line, and Nevers' short toss to Flenneken made it a first down on the Tiger 17 yard mark. Ernie hit center for five, and then shot a pass to Boyd to put the Cards 3 yards from the goal. Nevers crashed over for the third marker and added the extra point with his toe.

The Cardinals held the southerners scoreless until the last five minutes. Holm threw a ten yard pass to Moore, who fought his way for 20 more yards and put the ball on the Card 30 yard line. Another pass, Holm to Moore, made seven yards and Holm plunged for a first down on the Card 20 yard line. Holm abandoned line plunging long enough to circle his own right end, reaching the Cardinal ten yard stripe. Moore twisted his way to within two feet of the goal, and after Holm's plunge one end of the oval was all but touching the goal line. Simas employed a quarter back sneak to score.

Sarazen and Diegel Tie in Oregon Open

Portland, Ore., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Two golfing veterans, Gene Sarazen, New York professional, and Leo Diegel, pro from Agua Caliente, tied with 287 strokes to lead entrants in the Oregon open today. They face an eighteen hole playoff tomorrow, to determine the championship.

The playoff tomorrow afternoon will be necessary not only to determine the championship, but also to decide the majority winner of the $2,500 that goes to the victorious professional.

The two golfers put on a close fight throughout today's thirty-six holes of play, first one and then the other leading.

The chunky professional from New York held a one stroke advantage to start the opening round. His total of 141 following yesterday's first half play was one under Diegel's 142.

Diegel cut down the one stroke and stepped out in front to lead by the same margin on the fifty-fourth hole of the match. At the sixty-third Sarazen again was out in the lead, this time by two strokes.

Johnny Robbins of Alderwood, Portland, took low honors in the amateur class with his even 300 for the 72 holes. Dr. O. F. Willing of Waverly, Portland, and Frank Dolp of Alderwood tied for second with 303.

FIVE PRO GOLF STARS NAMED FOR CUP TEAM

Columbus, O., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Walter Hagen of Detroit, Leo Diegel of Agua Caliente, Cal., Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen of New York, and Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., have been chosen for the Ryder cup team of American golf professionals who will play the British next year, while 14 other stars will play 72 holes to qualify for the three remaining places.

Golfers who will attempt to qualify for the last three places on the eight man team will be Al Espinosa of Chicago, Ed Hilgendorf and Al Watrous of Detroit, Ed Dudley of Philadelphia, John Golden, Billy Burke, Joe Turnesa, Bill Klein, and Whiffy Cox of New York, Olin Dutra of San Francisco, Henry Cuici of Bridgeport, Conn.; Craig Wood of Newark, N. J.; Frank Walsh of Wisconsin, and Denny Shute of Columbus.

Northwestern Is Notre Dame's 17th Victim in Two Seasons

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Michigan earned its share of the Western conference football title Saturday by whipping Chicago, and at the same time Northwestern, co-champion, lost its battle with Notre Dame at Dyche stadium for first honors in the central west. By their 14 to 0 victory the Irish scored their eighth consecutive triumph of the season and the seventeenth since Southern California defeated them in 1928. It was Northwestern's only defeat of the year.

The Western conference campaign closed Saturday with a series of engagements which, for the closeness of the decisions, probably surpassed all other playing dates of the year. Included were Wisconsin's 14 to 0 conquest of Minnesota, Onio State's victory over Illinois, 12 to 9, for a berth in the first division, and Indiana's upset of Purdue, 7 to 6. Iowa, the other conference team, concluded a season against outside elevens by defeating Nebraska, 12 to 7.

Wildcats Wage Gallant Fight.

Northwestern waged a gallant fight against Notre Dame. Indeed, the Wildcats might have won in the second period, when they threatened to score four times, only to fumble twice within the five yard line. But the outcome fulfilled unanimous predictions and followed advance dope as charted.

Coach Hanley's plan of battle was built around Reb Russell, his full back, for Northwestern had a superiority of attack in line smashing. Out of 35 running plays Northwestern attempted, Russell carried the ball 25 times. Not only did Russell gain consistently, especially in the second period, but his succession of plunges kept the ball in Northwestern's possession. It was a most effectual method of stopping Notre Dame's offense.

Northwestern was unable to complete a pass in nine attempts. Neither was it able to gain on wide runs.

Irish Make Comeback.

Correspondingly, Notre Dame played to form. Halted for three quarters, nearly routed in the second period, the Irish came back in the last seven minutes to score and then added another touchdown when Northwestern's last desperate passes created a second opportunity.

Frank Carideo, the perfect field general and extraordinary kicker, shares the glory of victory with Marchy Schwartz, whose 27 yard run scored the deciding touchdown, and the exceptional coördination of the Notre Dame blockers, which finally broke through a heroic Northwestern defense. Carideo's kicking sent the Wildcats back into their end of the gridiron in the second half and kept them

Giants Whip Packers, 13-6; Take Pro Lead

New York, Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Red Cagle's debut as a professional football player today at the Polo Grounds had for its setting the local professional football season's largest crowd, about 40,000, the season's most stirring contest, and the New York Giants' most notable and important victory, a 13 to 6 triumph over the Green Bay Packers, National league champions. Today was the second time in three years that the Packers have met defeat in a league game.

Victory put the Giants ahead of the Packers by a narrow margin in the race for this year's championship. Each team has lost two games, the Packers two in a row, for their only other defeat occurred last Sunday at the hands of Ernie Nevers' Chicago Cardinals. The Giants have eleven victories against Green Bay's nine.

Score on Friedman's Pass.

The Giants scored in the second period on one of Benny Friedman's deftly tossed forward passes which was taken by Morrie Badgro while going full speed along the south sideline. The play started with the ball on Green Bay's 22-yard line. Badgro wrapped fingers around the spinning oval two steps from the goal line and although tackled immediately, managed to lunge across for the touchdown.

Friedman's placement kick added the extra point. In the third period Hap Moran, one-time Carnegie Tech backfield flash, brought about the Giants' second touchdown by running nearly the entire length of the field.

Admirable interference and Moran's shifty running kept him on his feet as he passed midfield and ran parallel to the sideline. Two interferers held pace with him until he crossed the ten-yard line. Then Left End Dilweg overtook him and laid him low with a flying tackle, one yard from the Packers' goal line.

Packers Come Back to Score.

The Packers then reared a stone wall at their goal line. Wiberg and then Moran butted at the yellow jersey betweent for a net advance of about two feet. On fourth down to Friedman darted obliquely off the edge of Green Bay's left tackle to wedge across the goal line. His placement try this time went wide.

The Packers came back fighting and soon scored. The Giants held them off once on the two yard line, after forward passes had brought them down the field. Just before the third period ended Dunn passed to Llewellen on the Giants' four yard line, and this time Llewellen scored. He swung wide around the Giants' right end for the touchdown. Dunn's placement try was a failure.

Red Cagle's chances to distinguish himself in his debut were impaired when he crashed with Nash about ten minutes after the game started. The former West Point flash caught the game's opening kickoff for a 30 yard runback. He carried the ball for a few short gains before he was hurt, but Friedman threw three forwards in his direction before Red could reach one.

The play on which he caught Friedman's pass put Cagle out of action temporarily. Nash tackled him as he caught the ball. The ball flew out of Red's arms and both players had to leave the game, Cagle with a bad cut beside his right eye and Nash with a smashed nose.

The University of San Francisco football team, making its first invasion of the middle west, defeated De Paul university yesterday, 13 to 0. Some 3,000 De Paul fans were in the stands at Soldiers' field to see their team beaten for the first time this season.

What makes this a blue Monday for the Blue Demons was the forward passing of Bob Kleckner, San Francisco right half back, who tossed the ball to Frank Horgan, quarter back, for one of the coast team's touchdowns, and threw to Warford for the other. One score came in the opening quarter and the other in the final period.

De Paul Near Score Thrice.

San Francisco's line, which has not allowed an opponent to score through it this season, met and withstood three De Paul attacks withing scoring distance of the goal. All of them came in the third period. Once De Paul was stopped on the one yard line. The next time the Demons carried the ball to the one foot line on fourth down. A pass over the goal line from the 15 yard stripe ended the third march.

The De Paul linesmen, led by Capt. Pat Driscoll, McLain, Graboski, and Cowhey, also withstood the efforts of the Green and Gold backs to gain consistently. That's why Mr. Kleckner's forward passing was so valuable.

Horgan Scores on Pass.

Midway in the first period Kleckner flipped a pass to Horgan, who was brought down on the De Paul 15 yard line after a net gain of 20 yards. Horgan fumbled when he was tackled, but Chrisholm recovered for San Francisco. After two line plays had gained only two yards, Kleckner lined another pass in Horgan's direction, and Horgan caught it deep in the end zone for a touchdown. Bareilles' place kick was low.

San Francisco's second score came after an exchange of kicks in the fourth quarter. With the ball on De Paul's 44 yard line, Kleckner passed to Warford, who was all alone near the sidelines, and Warford galloped the remaining 25 yards for a touchdown. This time Bareilles made good on his place kick and brought the score to 13-0.

Demons Within Yard of Goal.

De Paul's first scoring opportunity came early in the third period, after it recovered a San Francisco fumble on the coast eleven's 32 yard line. Steffen ran to the 5 yard line in two plays. Three more thrusts into the line brought the Blue Demons within a yard of a touchdown, but San Francisco braced on fourth down and Chil-

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Les Canadiens, champions of the hockey world, last night at the Chicago Stadium encountered an unfamiliar experience when they took a gorgeous blistering at the hands of the Chicago Blackhawks, 3 to 0. The game was witnessed by 15,226 persons.

To give you an idea of what a horrible shock the experience was to the world champions from Montreal, it is set down right here that it was the first spanking they had taken from the Chicagoans since Feb. 11, 1927.

Hawks' First in Fifteen.

Since that date the two teams had met 15 times and the best the Blackhawks were able to derive from this extended series was one 4 to 4 tie and 14 lickings.

There was nothing last night to detract from the Blackhawks' accomplishment. The champs had their full battle front, including Howie Morenz, heretofore a Chicago Nemesis and generally regarded the greatest individual star in the game.

By way of being consistently good, our boys scored one point in each of the three periods.

One was contributed by Cook on a pass from Graham in 14:15 of the first period, one by Ripley on a pass from Gottselig in 3:18 of the second period, and another by Ripley, this one unassisted, when the final period was 17 minutes 50 seconds old.

All Blackhawks Shine.

Ripley, of course, attracted major attention by scoring two of the three goals, but his work was not superior to that of at least half a dozen others on offense.

The Blackhawks will leave today for Boston, where they open their road season against the Bruins tomorrow night. They will play in New York against the Rangers Thursday night, then will move over into Canada to engage the Ottawa Senators Saturday night. They will be back in Chicago Dec. 4 to battle the New York Americans.

The Blackhawks started out with the same zip that characterized their renewed interest in life against the Boston Bruins last Thursday night. The first impressive offensive was launched by the visitors, however. Somers gave the customers their first thrill of the evening by taking the puck away from Morenz but more arduous effort was required of Gardiner an instant later to accomplish a great save on Wasnie's lightning shot.

Gottselig Stops Leduc.

The next cheering potion also was a Blackhawk defensive maneuver, when Gottselig broke up a dash by Leluc.

From this point the Blackhawks decided to get into the offensive phase of the contest. Cook was the first to get a good shot, but he didn't get past Hainsworth. A minute afterward, Adams, Cook and Miller made the enemy goalie do a hornpipe to ward off a counter.

Cook passed to Graham but Graham missed his shot but recovered, passed to Cook and Cook shoved the puck into the net, with Graham standing shoulder to shoulder with Tommy for another shove if necessary. The play was so complicated that the scorers did not record it until they had consulted the participating athletes.

After the game the players in a dressing room conference expressed the opinion that Graham registered the marker, but, pending action by the league president, Cook stands credited with the goal.

CARROLL BEATS HENNEPIN, 36-25, IN K. OF C. LOOP

Big Crowds See Opening of Cage Season.

With capacity crowds in every division, play opened yesterday in the Knights of Columbus basketball league, twenty-two contests being staged. Numerous upsets marked the initial round, several of last year's divisional champions being defeated.

One of the surprises was the victory of Carroll over Hennepin, two-time West section title holder, 36 to 25, at the West Side K. of C. clubhouse. Carroll ran up a 24 to 7 lead at the half. Carroll lineup:

Be Careful About Fires, Hunters Urged

BY BOB BECKER.

Mr. Hunter should be careful about starting fires in marshes or lowlands which are covered with dead grass and weeds and which are easily burned. The recent rain in part of the central states has, of course, helped the fire situation by reducing the hazard, but unless snow comes pretty soon the chances for cover and wild life to be destroyed by fire still are great.

We know of several big tracts of meadow and dry marsh land which have been burned by carelessness this fall. One hunter reporting on what he found in the burned fields says that numerous birds were trapped and killed by the blaze. There is a state law against starting fires in the game bird covers.

In other words, if a group of hunters strike a meadow covered with dried weeds and grass and in order to run out the rabbits ignite this area they are liable to arrest and a fine or a jail sentence. The Illinois game code does not countenance this kind of game destruction.

With the upland game bird and animal hunting season in Illinois and other states under way, it is already apparent that we have none too many coveys of quail and pheasants. So far our trips afield with dog and gun indicate that even the rabbit crop is far from a bumper one.

We covered one section of hunting country west of Mundelein a few days ago which should have been filled with rabbits. It was last year. But recently we had a hard time kicking out four and Jack, our springer spaniel, was overlooking nothing in the way of cover, either. This is no year to destroy wild life by grass fires or forest fires.

The menace of fire and the enormous destruction of game birds and animals by big blazes in forest and meadow has brought into effect a strict ban on smoking in all of Pennsylvania's woodlands.

It is difficult for us to imagine a hunt without enjoying one good smoke all day, but there is nothing doing on such an indulgence in Pennsylvania. The governor's proclamation absolutely prohibits the smoking of tobacco in any form and the building of fires within any woodlands of the state. If a hunter disobeys it costs him $100. This is one state's answer to the drought problem, an aftermath of which is the fire menace and loss of millions of dollars' worth of game.

Christner and Walker Begin Drills Today

Mickey Walker and Meyer [K. O.] Christner of Akron, O., are due in Chicago today to begin training for their ten round bout which headlines Matchmaker Jim Mullen's boxing card at the Coliseum next Friday night. Both boys will start their training this afternoon at loop gymnasiums.

Friday's bout will mark Mickey's second start in the heavyweight ranks. He gave John Risko a trimming in Detroit recently. He promptly challenged Jack Sharkey and Willie Stribling, but so far both challenges have been ignored.

As for Christner, the bout will be his first appearance in a Chicago ring. Christner's last start was against Stribling. He lost the decision. Christner is in great shape and will be in the pink when the gong rings Friday.

WISCONSIN FANS DEBATE CASE OF THISTLETHWAITE

Madison, Wis., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—With the close of Wisconsin's football season, townspeople and students turned today to discussion of the future status of the game here and whether or not Glenn Thistlethwaite, whose team ended the season with a victory over Minnesota, is to be retained as head coach.

All kinds of rumors are in circulation. One, current today, was to the effect that the athletic council, governing body in Wisconsin sports, would decide on the question of Thistlethwaite's retention at its regular meeting tomorrow night.

Members Keep Mum.

Members of the council stated, however, that so far as they knew, only routine business would be transacted, but that there might be some discussion of the general athletic situation. None would admit that they anticipated settlement of the question of next year's football coach.

It was pointed out that at Wisconsin the coach is a member of the faculty and that the council does not take the initiative in such matters. George Little, director of athletics, recommends appointments in the athletic department and the council either approves or disapproves them. Mr. Little was out of the city today and could not be reached.

Before the victory over Minnesota it was expected here that there would be strong alumni opposition to the reengagement of Coach Thistlethwaite, but today there is a marked difference of opinion among the graduates. Student sentiment is not aggressive either way, because at Wisconsin the student body has only one representative on the council.

Papers Think He'll Stay.

Madison newspapers took the ground today that Wisconsin's victory over Minnesota had settled the question of Thistlethwaite's retention affirmatively.

At Wisconsin no coach has any contract, all being faculty members, elected from year to year in the same manner as professors in other departments.

ONE moment when MAY WIRTH kept COOL!

MAY WIRTH, the World's Most Daring Equestrienne and known to millions of circus fans. The only woman in the world who can perform a back somersault from one trotting horse to another!

"ONE night we were playing before 18,000 people. The fanfare sounded. My horses entered the ring and I jumped onto the lead horse. All went well during the preliminary parts of the act. Then I set myself for my famous back somersault from my lead horse onto the one following.

"In the very moment when I made my twist in the air, a clown dropped a newspaper. A gust of wind blew it under the forefeet of my second horse. He got panicky, reared backward. Down I fell between the two!

"Both animals had quickened their pace. I must act quick: I grabbed the tail of the front horse and held on for dear life. This departure from regular routine frightened him. He broke into a gallop. His steel-clad hoofs flashed before my eyes! This, certainly, WAS one moment when I simply had to keep cool and collected—or be collected!"

Presnell Dashes 88 Yards for Touchdown.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Harold Grange came to town today with the Chicago Bears and, like Caesar, saw, but did not conquer. Glen Presnell and Keith Molesworth stole the show from the former Illini galloping ghost and carried off victory for their Ironton Tanks, 26 to 13.

Ironton led all the way and the record crowd of 10,000 persons saw some good football, although fumbles at times gave the contest a sloppy atmosphere.

Ironton Takes Lead.

After the Ironton eleven had scored in the first period, the Chicagoans carried the ball back to Ironton's 12 yard line, where they were held for downs. And then Presnell took the ball from punt formation, smashed off left tackle, cleared the line of scrimmage, and raced to the right for the side line where fine interference joined him and cut him off from all would-be tacklers. It was a jaunt from mid-field on to the goal, so nicely was the way paved for the 88 yard run. When Gembis made the kick good, Ironton led, 13 to 0.

Ironton scored again before the Bears could push across a counter, their third touchdown coming in the second period when Molesworth intercepted one of Holman's passes.

Lintzenich Scores for Bears.

After working the ball into Tank territory, the Bears lost it when a pass went over the goal for a touchdown. The Tanks kicked and Lintzenich got loose off right tackle and raced 20 yards before being downed on the 35 yard line. Grange made an eight yard gain through the line and Lintzenich added nine more over center. Grange moved it to the six yard line and after Lintzenich failed to gain. A penalty put the ball on the one yard line, from where Lintzenich put it over. Nagurski's kick was good.

The Bears pulled within a touchdown of even in the third period when Lintzenich again distinguished himself. With the Bears having the ball on the 10 yard line after an exchange of punts, Holmer shot a pass to Lintzy, who ran 30 yards for a touchdown.

Kleckner's punt out was held back by the brisk south wind, and Steffen returned it to the San Francisco 24 yard line. Steffen gained six yards. Stafford pulled four tacklers with him to the five yard line. Steffen failed to gain, Harrington picked up two at tackle, and Stafford added one more yard. Stafford then was thrown back after making five of the six feet needed for a touchdown.

De Paul had not tried a forward pass to clinch either previous scoring opportunity, but after McGivern had returned Kleckner's punt to the 20 yard line and two line smashes had gained five yards, the Demons decided to open up. Steffen sailed a pass into the end zone, and although Goan got his fingers on it, the ball slipped to the turf.

Banquets Will Keep Wildcat Players Busy

The 1930 football season is over as far as Northwestern is concerned, but memories of the year's final game with Notre Dame will continue to enliven grid gossip among the Wildcat followers until the two teams meet again next fall.

Most of the Purple players showed up at their training quarters yesterday bearing signs of Saturday's combat. Frank Baker was the worst off for wear and tear. The Wildcat end will have the use of only one eye for some time to come, the other being completely closed and encircled with a coloring of deepest blue.

Prepare for Banquets.

The players turned in their uniforms and other grid accountrements and are now preparing for the inevitable round of banquets and festivities that follow in the wake of a football season. The fact that the Purple athletes won a share of the conference championship this fall has served to increase the number of these testimonials.

Those scheduled for the immediate future, however, will be held without the presence of the man who had the most to do with making the victory celebration possible. He is Coach Dick Hanley, who is confined in his Evanston home with a bad case of tonsillitis and grippe which will keep him in bed for several days.

Coach Hanley had been fighting off the illness during the last week and after the game Saturday he was ordered to bed by his physicians. He hopes to be able to attend a dinner for the squad at the North Shore hotel tomorrow night, but his presence will depend on his condition.

Name Valuable Player Tomorrow.

At the meeting tomorrow night the squad will vote on the most valuable player to the team. Leading candidates for this honor are Lee Hanley, half back; Pug Rentner and Reb Russell, full backs; Frank Baker, end, and Red Woodworth, guard.

Coach Hanley's illness also has forced him to forego plans of coaching the Northwestern alumni team this week for its Thanksgiving game with a Notre Dame alumni eleven. He has turned the duties over to Maurie Kent and Tom Stidham, assistant coaches.

IRISH REST TODAY

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Still somewhat dazed by the close call they had in Saturday's game with Northwestern, Notre Dame's varsity returned to the campus this afternoon to nurse bruises and ponder on their chances in their two remaining games with Army and Southern California.

They figured that they have beaten the best team in the middle west and look with respect to the Cadets, the strongest eleven in the East, and to Southern California, second only, if at all, to Washington State on the coast.

Since Maj. Sasse is using the Warner system of attack that Notre Dame met yesterday, Coach Rockne will let his men rest tomorrow and start mapping their defense Tuesday. They are familiar with this offensive system and will have only to learn details of it that they have not encountered.

Army, however, is not being taken lightly. Its last two opponents, Kentucky Wesleyan and Ursinus were both breathers and the Cadets are expected to play inspired ball at Soldiers' field Saturday when 120,000 persons turn out to see the 1930 contribution to a tradition of long standing.

Durkin Leads Loyola to 7-6 Title Victory Over St. Rita

Loyola academy's football team had its biggest day in many a season yesterday. It won its tenth straight victory of the year, and thus concluded its 1930 campaign with the best record of any high school team in the Chicago district. It won the Chicago Catholic league championship by a score of 7 to 6. And in order to accomplish these two it defeated its ancient jinx opponent, St. Rita, winner of the south section title. A crowd of 10,000 saw the championship battle at Loyola stadium.

It was the fourth Catholic league title Loyola had brought back to the north side school, its first since 1923, when it bowed to St. Rita, and its third since Len Sachs started coaching.

Durkin Star of Game.

Ray Durkin, the Carideo of local high school kickers, delivered the Loyola touchdown and with it the highly important extra point. Durkin, who made good on all four kicks after touchdown in the sectional final against De Paul last Sunday, demonstrated his stuff again yesterday. After scoring the Loyola touchdown in the first period he stepped back and booted from placement the point that won the game and title.

Loyola received the opening kickoff and didn't relinquish the ball once in a march down the field that culminated with Durkin driving over from the ten yard line.

From that point or Loyola knew it was in a ball game and that the jinx which has made Loyola unable to score against St. Rita in their last three meetings might begin to function again. The St. Rita line held after that touchdown drive and the secondary stopped Harry Hofherr, Loyola's running star, with fair effectiveness.

Lenzi Scores for St. Rita.

In the fourth period Lincoln Lenzi, who had played a great game for the south siders, punted out on the Loyola two yard line. Durkin then kicked from behind his own goal and Lenzi returned it twently yards to the 20 yard line. The St. Rita backs hammered to within one yard of a touchdown only to be penalized five yards. Lenzi delivered on the next play, however, for the touchdown. The St. Rita attempt for the extra point failed.

Durkin, Yore, and Healy featured for Loyola, while Lenzi, Ringbauer, and Etten stood out for the losers.

there. Schwartz, on a second down play with 12 yards to go, cut outside Northwestern's tackle and raced down the sideline for the score.

The play is fundamental to Notre Dame's attack and, because of line assignments permitting sufficient blocking power against the secondary defense, it is likely to break away for long distances any time it is used.

Indiana Jolts Purdue.

Indiana's victory over Purdue gave the Hoosiers their first conference victory, 7 to 6, by the margin of Hughes' kick after the touchdown. Indiana tied with Minnesota for sixth place in the final Big Ten standings. Indiana made only four touchdowns all year, and had gone scoreless against Ohio State, Minnesota, Southern Methodist, Notre Dame and Northwestern.

Ohio's 12 to 9 victory over Illinois, with all the scoring taking place in the first half, gave the Buckeyes a tie for fourth position with Wisconsin and sent the Illini down to eighth. Illinois might have won, but Ovelmen's block of Fesler's kick from behind Ohio's goal line bounded out of the end zone for a safety, when a touchdown would have sent Illinois into the lead. Then, with the ball on Ohio's two yard line on fourth down in the third period, the Bucks stopped Yanuskus and the game was theirs.

Harvard Wins Over Yale.

Football interest in the east centered on the annual Yale-Harvard game, which the Crimson won, 13 to 0, to end its string of defeats by Army, Michigan, Dartmouth, and Holy Cross. Victory over Eli constitutes a successful season at Harvard.

In the west, Stanford's new-found power crushed California, 41 to 0, for the largest score ever recorded in 38 years of rivalry. Having been overwhelmed by Southern California themselves, the Cardinals probably took great pleasure in crushing California.

Aggies Upset Oklahoma.

Action in the Mississippi valley sector was more complete in interest than any other outside of Western conference territory. Oklahoma Aggies upset their rival state school, the University of Oklahoma, 7 to 0. Drake defeated an old rival, Iowa State, 20 to 19, while Kansas crushed Missouri, 32 to 0.

The ninth game in the series between Michigan State and the University of Detroit ended in a scoreless tie at East Lansing.

The Army won its second warm-up game in a row over Ursinus and comes to Chicago next Saturday prepared to stop Notre Dame on Soldiers' field.

die and there was Ripley with the puck in front of an unguarded cage. All Vic had to do was flip the disk three feet into the cage for point No. 2.

The rest of the period was notable some great saves by Gardiner. Once he made a save of an almost certain goal when he sat on the puck and again he saved trouble by planting the disk under his arm.

The third period started with the Canadiens giving all they had in an effort to score and the skating became so fast and hard that nine penalties were called before the period was half over.

At one time each team had two men in the penalty box, and another penalty was called on Leduc, which he started to serve later, under the new ruling.

The Montreal boys were trying hard to score, and after Arbour shot hard and high, causing Hainsworth to make a difficult save, Morenz and Joliet made a sally down the ice, but the Hawks massed in front of the goal and their efforts were unrewarded.

As the last five minutes of play started the Canadiens sent four men up, but the Hawk defense held. The Hawks had been playing a defensive game almost exclusively when Ripley suddenly recovered the puck from a flock of Les Canadiens and, taking it down the ice alone, scored the third Chicago goal in 17:50.

WHEAT TRADE GIVES CREDIT ON PRICE 'PEGGING'

Stabilization Corp. Holds Up Market.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat traders are free in giving the farm board's stabilizing corporation credit for sustaining one of the weakest markets experienced in years by "pegging" December wheat at 73c, May at 75c for old, and 76c to 77c for new delivery, taking millions of bushels and bringing the market up to normalcy at the close of the week.

Lowest prices were made on Tuesday, and highest of the week on Saturday, with a close around the top. There has never been such a wheat market, even in war times. Tuesday was the most exciting and weakest day of all with Winnipeg declining to 55c for November, and December to 54½c, breaking 6@8¾c for the day to around 1¢ under Chicago December, with a restoration of the spread to 11¾c at the close.

Market to Get Support.

The farm board took all the wheat that traders were willing to sell at 73c for December, and 76@77c for May, holding those prices as minimum until the close, and making the range for the week only 3½c, while on May it was 6¼c. There were net losses of 1⅝@6½c for the week in Chicago and Winnipeg was up 5¼@6c, with December 64⅝c, and May 69⅞c. At the extreme low Chicago wheat futures were higher than in Liverpool, showing a premium of 1⅝@3⅝c, while at the close the premium was 1⅜@2c. Covering by shorts was a big factor toward the last, and there were assertions by traders that the bulge was enough for the present.

Purchases by the farm board were well up in the millions of bushels, although they also sold considerable on the advance. The idea of the stabilizing movement is to keep a liquid market where traders can get in and out and have confidence on the buying side. Total holdings by the government are said to be 110,000,000 in cash wheat and futures, the largest line so far.

The government, it is understood, will give the market support when necessary, and at the same time endeavor to prevent prices advancing too fast. At one time December and May wheat sold during the excited break at one price. At the close December was 4¾c under May.

Backspreading Brings Break.

Backspreading of more than 15,000,000 bu of wheat that had been bought in Winnipeg and sold in Chicago demoralized the Winnipeg market which on Tuesday broke from 61@61⅝c, with the close 57½c, a net loss for the day of 4¾c. Selling was precipitated by sensational reports about the condition of the Canadian pool, causing traders who were long to unload, regardless of prices for a time. At the finish reports were that Canadian banks were to take care of the pool for the present with expectation of help from the provincial governments, and possibly the dominion government later. Those in close touch with the Canadian situation believe that the pool's holding will be liquidated as fast as market conditions will permit, and that lowest prices of the season have been seen.

Canada has the surplus of three crops to liquidate, and a bull market is hardly possible under such condi-

Recalls Ups and Downs of Farm Buying

BY SCRUTATOR.

Farmers' purchasing power, like that of all other economic groups, has always had violent ups and downs. It is now having one of its worst declensions, unless it has barely passed the nethermost depths.

It is quite possible that those who believe he is to be for a long period in distressing situation as to prices for his products are as far wrong as those who believed those products could be stabilized at a level well above costs of production.

Back in 1873, steers sold at an average price of $4.36 a hundred in Chicago, hogs at $3.65 and lambs at $3.60. Wheat in that year fell from a high of $1.14 in April to a low of 77 cents in October. A few years earlier wheat had sold as high as $2.95 a bu and hogs at $11.55 a hundred.

Wheat Climbs Back.

There was edough discontent over the low prices to give support to advocates of cheap money then. But things didn't remain in terrible shape for a long period, uninterrupted. Wheat climbed back above $1.33 in 1879; it passed $1.32 in 1880 and $1.43 in 1881. It was ten years before corn fell to the low mark of 1873.

Certain parallels exist between the long time price recessions that continued from shortly after the civil war to 1878 and those which have marked the 1919-1930 period. Farmers, considered as producers as against landowners, had been benefited by the war. One man's labor then, just as in the world war years, brought big results in products from the soil. A twelve or thirteen year downslip in prices and the opening of new lands reduced farm land prices for the old timers. The fact that lower prices wouldn't allow a farmer to pay dividends on inflated capital valuations did the same thing in the last decade.

In the latter period it has been frequently pointed out that the farmer has suffered more of a decline in income than the city or the small town man not engaged in agriculture. This is true to a certain degree; especially if we consider the drop in his plant valuation. Money borrowed on land at the inflated values seems to have been the cause of more distress than the lack of return for the labor of farmers.

Land Values Shift.

On the other hand, for twenty years before the world war, farm prices went up faster than the general average of all commodity prices and there was a consistent increase in the market value of land. Even before the intense inflation of 1918 and 1919, it was almost an accepted axiom that farm land doubled in value every quarter of a century. It is likely that the readjustment of relationship between farm and other income, and capital values has gone too far since 1919, and that the next few years may see a shift back to the other trend.

The past periods of relatively low purchasing power of agriculture have always been marked by legislation of rather radical trend. Demands for new laws and the curbing of business men by government usually have meant that the period of farm distress is near its bottom. In the long term view, the discovery of the bad features of the situation coincides with the beginning of better times. We don't really do anything about it until the swing in the opposite direction already has started.

LOWER EXPORT GASOLINE PRICES HAVE NOW SET IN

New York, Nov. 23.—Following the withdrawal of the Export Petroleum association's schedule of prices a few weeks ago, lower prices for export gasoline have set in as a result of the open competition for business. Price concessions have occurred at both gulf and Atlantic coast shipping points.

Sales of U. S. motor grade gasoline in cargo lots in New York have recently been made as low as 6½ cents a gallon, almost one cent below the quotation prevailing at the time of the action of the Export association.

While it is admitted a fair degree of stabilization has been reached at the current levels, some interests in the export trade believe that further reductions are not unlikely.

DEPARTMENT STORE SALES RISE IN OCTOBER, RESERVE BOARD FINDS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Increased sales by department stores during October with decreased industrial production, a decline in factory employment, and a further downward movement in wholesale commodity prices were reported today by the federal reserve board in its monthly summary of business and financial conditions.

The value of building contracts, which had grown in September, increased further in October, the board said, but by a smaller amount than usual. Contracts for public works and utilities increased, but there was a substantial decrease in contracts for industrial building.

The board said that while the volume of distribution of commodities by rail showed a decline retail trade increased considerably more than the seasonal amount.

Believes U. S. Is at or Near "Bottom" of Depression

New York, Nov. 23.—(AP)—The Guaranty Survey, in its monthly review of business conditions, says there is an increased feeling in business circles that the country is at or near the "bottom" of the economic depression and that some progress may be expected to appear at any time. "While not much can be cited by way of concrete evidence to support this view," the review says, "the very fact of reviving confidence is a factor of no small influence, which may prove to mark the turn."

Urges Further Curtailment as Oil Industry's Salvation

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 23.—Stabilization "by way of a further curtailment program" must be accomplished in the petroleum industry if to avoid a "continuous depression," involving the ruin of a great many producers, according to a statement made public here by F. Godber, a director of the Royal Dutch Shell company.

The statement, coming from a representative of one of the largest units in the oil industry, was regarded as an invitation to American oil interests to join with Royal Dutch in applying a more rigid curb to prevent further overproduction. The significance of the statement, it was said in oil circles, can be best appreciated when it is borne in mind that the Royal Dutch, with controlled and affiliated companies, is one of the world's largest producers of crude oil.

Long Way to Go.

"The oil industry has still a long way to go toward stabilization and a return to healthy conditions," Mr Godber said. "This statement does not in any way minimize the great progress that has been made during the last year or so along the road to stabilization by way of eliminating excesses and wastes in production. Indeed the curtailment in production now in effect in the principal states is an accomplishment of the first magnitude. It seems to us, however, that the oil industry has now come to the crossroads with no definite indication as to which road to travel in the future.

"It is evident that there are two roads; one to remedy conditions by following the law of supply and demand. It is clear that with overwhelming supplies on hand seeking outlets nothing but a continuous depression lies ahead of us. Low prices of crude can mean only one thing, namely, the ruination of thousands of producers, destruction and waste, not only of capital invested, but also of the basic material. I do not believe that anybody wants to travel this road.

"The second road, or the only alternative, to stabilization is by way of a further curtailment program. In our opinion such a program can only succeed if we adhere very closely to fundamental principles.

Asks Stable Prices.

"Curtailment and low prices of crude oil are almost contradictory. The sacrifice of curtailment is only worth while if it can be compensated for by stable conditions and by stable prices of crude oil by which the producer is able to continue to live. If curtailment is not followed by rational prices of crude oil it merely means that the producer has made a sacrifice in vain, and we should be no nearer a solution of the problem than if we followed the simple law of supply and demand.

"The oil industry is in a different position from other industries where overproduction exists, like rubber, wheat, and cotton, inasmuch as crude oil once wasted cannot be replaced by recurrent supply. While curtailment and reasonable prices are the logical solution of the whole problem, it is only natural that the American industry should not be asked to make this sacrifice unless other countries cooperate in a similar way. A curtailment program is essentially a cooperative movement."

WHOLESALE DIST. TRADE GROUP IS BEING ORGANIZED

Their preliminary organization having been done last week, members of the new "Heart of the Wholesale District Association" will assemble today at noon at the Apparel club, 300 West Jackson boulevard, to continue on plans for work for the several committees. The newly formed group now includes thirty member firms located within the confines of Randolph, Wells, Harrison streets and the river on the west. The association plans an ultimate membership of about 100 firms within that area.

Charles Schneider is president of the association. H. Kalven is vice president; G. I. Baily, secretary, and W. W. Geary, treasurer. R. J. Thain is chairman of the committee on publicity which is mailing 20,000 circulars to retail merchants in Chicago and five adjoining states advertising Chicago as the great central wholesale market. Organization of the new trade group is believed to be an aftermath of the changed complexion of the Chicago wholesale district since the opening of the new Merchandise Mart and the launching of its cooperating trade groups.

ON THE WHOLE, WALL ST. NOW FEELS BETTER

Doesn't Seem Quite So Gloomy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 23.—On the whole, there was some revival of spirits last week, at least in the Wall street community. How far this was attributable to the stock market's returning firmness and how far to actually greater hopefulness regarding the industrial outlook, is perhaps debatable, but the total absence of hysterical response to the week's news of interior bank failures was at least an indication that Wall street's mental balance is returning.

This has not prevented continuance of the previous mood of gloom outside of Wall street, where it seemed again to be contended that, however successfully finance and industry might have surmounted other periods of distressing readjustment, the adverse influences at work in the present situation were different from those which had ever before existed, and far more insurmountable.

The first and most obvious comment suggested by this gloomy attitude is that the state of mind which it reflects is exactly the converse, both in impulsiveness and in extravagance of inference, to the state of mind which existed at the crest of the recent boom. At that time the influences behind a rising stock market and expanding trade were also asserted obstinately to be "different." Speculation based in 1930 and 1907 had admittedly ended in a disastrous crash. But a speculation based on new discoveries for expanding credit, on believable high estimates of the general public's income, and belief that new ideas pervaded that public's mind regarding purchase of goods or securities, had created an altogether novel situation.

ON THE WHOLE, WALL ST. NOW FEELS BETTER

Doesn't Seem to Be Quite So Gloomy.

Last week's gradual recovery on the stock exchange, measured not by "points" but percentages, ran to 6 per cent from Tuesday's low point and 12 per cent from the season's lowest average, reached on Nov. 12. This is a reasonably substantial upward swing; it cancels nearly one-half of the almost continuous decline of the almost continuous decline of September. Presumably it has indicated in a measure the buying-in of "short commitments," but it also reflects to a considerable extent the abating of the agony of nervous apprehension which seemed not long ago to have captured Wall street. That the averages, after remaining for nearly a month at a lower range than the worst figure reached in the panicky break of last November, should have risen again last Friday above that historic dead-line was at least a matter of negative reassurance.

Bendix Aviation.

Would you please furnish information on Bendix Aviation stock?—C. D. F.

Bendix Aviation corporation is a holding and operating company which was formed in April, 1929, to acquire Bendix corporation, formed in 1924, and to own the stock of a number of other concerns manufacturing an extensive line of motor vehicle, tractor, aircraft, and marine craft parts and accessories. It has expanded its activities in the production and servicing of brakes and now makes a complete line of brake applying mechanism.

The companies which it took over were in good financial condition, and additional strengthening resulted from the $15,000,000 received from General Motors corporation, which purchased 600,000 shares of Bendix Aviation corporation stock. The new corporation was granted exclusive use for five years of General Motors aviation patents and inventions.

Bendix Aviation corporation has not yet had an opportunity to demonstrate the true earning power of the consolidated properties, because shortly after the new company was formed general business depression set in and the volume of automotive and aviation trade fell below normal.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1930, net income was $1,718,184, which was equal to 81 cents a share earned on 2,122,633 no par shares. There is only one class of stock and no funded debt. Earnings this year cannot well be compared to last year's figures because of numerous acquisitions which were being made in 1929. Net income from May 10 to Dec. 31, 1929, was $3,133,715.

On Dec. 31, 1929, current assets were $25,578,139 and current liabilities were $3,542,312. Surplus was $11,076,531.

With the payment of a 25 cent quarterly dividend on Jan. 2, 1931, the annual rate will be cut in two. The stock is somewhat speculative at present.

Tipster?

I have been told by a firm whose business is advising people what to buy and when to sell for a certain sum each year that Moon Motors would be a good buy now. They tried to get me as a client, but before they get me I want to know how good their first suggestion is.—M. O. K.

You fail to mention the name of the firm advising you. For that reason we do not know whether you are in the hands of a "tipster" or a reputable financial service. The stock you mention is not a suitable investment for savings. It is purely speculative. Any prediction concerning its future market price would be purely a guess. We prefer not to guess.

Why
THE CONDÉ NAST PUBLICATIONS?

ALL classes have been affected by the present business depression, but while this depression has seriously curtailed the purchasing power of people in the lower income scale, it has adversely influenced only the surplus income of the wealthy.

In such a trade situation as the present one, the masses are always affected first, and continue to be affected longest. As their buying power depends on their current earning power, they have no surplus to fall back on. But the wealthier classes can, and do, continue spending.

Here is where the Condé Nast Publications take on a new importance, a new value to the purchaser of advertising space; because the circulation of these periodicals is almost wholly confined to the class whose surplus only has been affected.

The readers of VOGUE, VANITY FAIR, and HOUSE & GARDEN are buying necessities today just as freely as they ever did, and are, furthermore, continuing to buy luxuries, even though they may not buy so many.

For the past fifteen years, no periodicals have given greater value than the Condé Nast Publications to the merchants and manufacturers who have used their pages. But if VOGUE, VANITY FAIR, and HOUSE & GARDEN were an important part of an advertising campaign during prosperity, they have become an essential part of it at this time.

Common sense and good judgment—not to speak of economic foresight—now demand that advertisers and merchants exploit, first of all, their most intensive market—the people who are buying necessities as before, and whose surplus resources enable them still to buy many of the luxuries they bought in more prosperous times.

Wisdom in the selection of an advertising medium therefore begins and ends in discovering the proportion of waste in the circulation of a given periodical with respect to the particular kind of merchandise which the advertiser is offering for sale.

AN ALARMING TELEGRAM.

It is by George Hanbury's desire that this book has been made. Speaking for myself, I went into the business of which I am going to tell in much the same spirit as that in which a host turns out on a snowy night to bring in some one of his guests whose car has broken down. In a word, I set out in some annoyance, and once being in the venture I think every one will agree that I could hardly withdraw.

When, one spring evening in Wiltshire, I told my friend, George Hanbury, that before the summer was out my wife and I should visit Austria, he threw back his head and laughed.

"I suppose you know best," he said, "but, now that you're married, I should recommend some less exacting vicinity. Deauville, for instance."

Though he spoke in jest I felt the truth of his words.

Austria seemed to be fated to be my cockpit. Three times I had visited that country, and each time met with adventure of an uncommon sort. These encounters had not been free from peril, and when a man marries I think he loses the right to take his life in his hand. George had each time been with me, and I must confess that we courted what danger we found, or, at least, being in the quarrels, made no attempt to withdraw. Still the trouble was not of our making, and since outside that country our lives had been very peaceful, it was easy to look upon Austria as the lion's mouth. For that reason I would not have gone there, still less have taken my wife, but, as luck would have it, I could not help myself.

The year before I had had the honor to marry Leonie, grand duchess of Riechtenburg, and though she had dropped her title and always showed her displeasure if she was treated as other than a commoner's wife, she had not parted with the duchy which she had quitted to marry me eight months before. The duchy lay in Carinthia, and though its great house was gone, a hunting lodge, lately restored, made a fair residence during the summer months. While much of the property was wild there were some ten or twelve farms, and since there was no bailiff I think only an indifferent landlord would have been willing to continue to stay away.

"We must go," said I. "Both of us. You see, there's the Anger estate."

George lifted his eyebrows.

"Headquarters Littal?" he said.

I nodded.

"Leonie hopes," I said, "that you'll come and stay."

"I'll come with pleasure," said George. "But I warn you that I shall go armed."

"You can wear chain mail," said I, "so long as you come."

"And I'll tell you another thing. I'm not going to Riechtenburg."

Had Leonie so chosen she could have married Prince Paul, the ruler of Riechtenburg. They had, indeed, been betrothed for four or five years, but as had broken her engagement when he ascended the throne. For this she may be forgiven—the man was vile. Both George and I had met him and had done him more than one service whilst he was heir to the throne, but his highness had never liked us, and had we not left the country as soon as he became prince I think he would have used his position to do us ill. That my subsequent marriage had inflamed him there could be no doubt, and since there was happily nothing to take my wife into his realm the thought of revisiting the country had never come into our heads.

Only two friends we had there—Sully, the lord president of the council, and Marya Dresden of Salm, who had been my wife's lady in waiting and faithful confidante.

The Countess Dresden was young and possessed great personal charm, and though her life was not easy—for the count had charge of Riechtenburg's foreign affairs—she never failed to distinguish the rôle she was called upon to play. But now her husband was dead, to his country's loss. No doubt she mourned him, but the count had been her elder by thirty-one years, and, while she had been in all things a dutiful wife, the marriage had been made to serve some political purpose and had been, I fancy, little more than a matter of form. Had he lived she would, before now, have been our guest; indeed, the date of her visit had been agreed when, to our great disappointment, his death had disordered her plans. But she was to come to Littal and stay with us there for a month, and we had some hope of bringing her back to England when autumn came in.

With George's promise, then, the prospect we had wished was complete, and some three months later—to be exact, on the second day of July—Leonie and I came to Littal, traveling by road. Her maid and my servant, Bell, brought our baggage by train. For a week we stayed at a farm in the village itself, and then removed to the lodge three miles away.

The lodge stood in a valley above a tumbling stream and made a more pleasant dwelling than many a larger house. A little terrace in front was shaded by chestnut trees, and here our meals were served three times in the day, for the weather was very fine and the nights were warm. The stabling was good, and a mighty coach-house was there to shelter the car—this to Bell's great content, for he cherished the car, and many a time had passed the night on her cushions, because she was in some strange garage whose people he did not trust.

Of our two guests George Hanbury was the first to arrive, and, though we had been very happy, the light of his pleasant countenance did our hearts good.

George was a man of my age, that is to say, twenty-six, fair and blue eyed. His manners were easy, he wore a lazy air, and his nature was gay; but he was as quick and ready as mine is slow, and his friendship was like a rock which no weather, fair or foul, can ever change. To Leonie he was devoted, and she was most fond of him, and I think our relation went far to refute the proverb that three is no company.

With George came Rowley, his servant. The latter and Bell, ex-soldiers, had served us for some four years and had shared the adventures of which I have spoken above. They were true men.

If the lodge was retired we lived in luxury. Jameson, an English butler, controlled a most willing staff; six decent saddle horses stood in the stalls, and, since George had come out by road, we had two cars. The handsome country we had very much to ourselves, and, as we were all fond of fishing, hardly a day went by when we did not prove some water, while, if the estate did not claim us, we usually spent the day by the side of some stream.

So for two careless weeks. Then came a telegram to set our nerves tingling and shatter our peace of mind:

Leonie Chandos Littal
Dare not come
Marya.

The day was Monday, and on Wednesday we were to have met her ten miles our side of the frontier of Riechtenburg.

. . . . . .

That we should be greatly concerned was natural enough. Marya Dresden was no coward, nor was she given to crying before she was hurt. Little wonder, then, that we found her message pregnant with serious news, and, what was worse, we had not a shadow of doubt that the trouble now besetting the countess had sprung from her friendship with us, if not direct from her purpose to stay in our house. Such interference was monstrous, but, as I have said, Prince Paul was by nature ignoble, and I can think of no practice to which, if it served his hatred, he would not have stooped.

We could not call upon Sully, for he was gone to Vichy to take the cure, and when we had posted to Meagre, our nearest town, and had telephoned to Vigil to be told that no reply could be had from the countess' house, we were alarmed in earnest for the well being of our friend.

"We must telegraph," said I. "If we get no answer tomorrow I must go to Vigil to see what's what."

Good Morning!

KIND: Historical chronicle dealing with the lives and wars of "Old Fritz" and his temperamental and artistic son, who later became king of Prussia and was known as "Frederick the Great."

ACTING: Stolidly competent—without a spark. There's nobody in the cast who wins your heart or whom you follow with interest.

DIRECTION: Complicated.

COSTUMES, SETS, and SCENERY: Good.

TITLES: Conscientious.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Depends on the audience. The film is not my idea of entertainment.

DON COSSACKS IN THEIR CONCERT HERE GIVE CRITIC THRILLS

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Of all the Russian choruses that have come to Chicago, the Don Cossacks, who made their first appearance at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon are the most stimulating, not to say startling.

The thirty-six men and their director, Serge Jaroff, are all, it is said, former officers in the Russian imperial army. They are uniformed in long, plain coats, baggy, red striped trousers, and knee boots. They march upon the stage, stand in two lines with military precision, the director, whose head almost comes to the shoulders of some of them, steps upon the stand and waves his hands. Then they are off.

All Russian choruses have surprising voices. These voices range from subterranean bass to high tenor, even higher tenor, because at intervals they sing in falsetto, which gives the effect, perhaps not of soprano, but of an uncommonly good boys' alto. Their singing precision is as exact and military as their demeanor. When they have finished a number two pairs execute quarter turns, Mr. Jaroff walks through this exit and disappears behind their backs. Then he emerges and they do it all over again.

Mr. Jaroff does no conventional conductorial gestures, they do very little conventional singing. But they get some superb vocal effects that run all the way from the long breathed, ancient liturgical music to a galloping folk song with drum imitations made by the lips. They will be here again Wednesday night and they are recommended.

Alexander Brailowsky, a highly popular pianist, returned to the Studebaker after a considerable absence yesterday to play a Chopin program. Like most other Chopin programs, it included one of the sonatas, one of the ballades, one of the scherzos, various nocturnes, etudes, ecossaises, and waltzes, ending with the polonaise in A flat. Mr. Brailowsky is a player of great technical ease, suave, and at times brilliant tone, and considerable imagination, wherefore the enthusiasm of his audience was well justified, even though at times he observed repetitions when their excision would work for more compactness.

Esther Cadkin, soprano, gave a recital at the Playhouse, showing a voice of good quality developed to the extent of being as effective in the Ballatella from "Pagliacci" as in a long selection of simpler construction.

INSTALLMENT XXXI.
COURAGE REWARDED.

They talked stiffly at first, with the hesitant shyness of those who have come too close ever again to be far apart. They touched on the dwellers of the town; of Mary Cameron. It was true what Molloy had said, acknowledged Sheila. No explanations had been necessary to account for the missing of the ship last autumn. Counterfeit coin, Molloy answered, had been tendered to Nome. Although all might and probably did suspect it to be counterfeit, no one had challenged it. "Because," he added, "the men and women are tolerant who live on the frontiers of earth."

"Some didn't have to go to frontiers to get that way," Sheila sent a half smile from the window where she sat, the wreck of what she had been, but still golden, and still, she knew, his Sheila. She knew he was bidding a silent good-by to the face which would never seem wrecked to him—"eyes too deeply gazed in to see dim"; eyes which in the mirror looked like holes burned through a white cloth mask.

"It's okeh, Sheila?"

As though he'd said darling!

"It's okeh, major."

"I'll be saying good-by, then."

"Yes——"

He stood up, facing her.

"You've been wonderful, Jim."

"I wasn't begging for praise. You won't like what I'm going to say; you won't like me after I've said it. But I want to be released. I want you never to ask me to help him again. For I wouldn't help him again."

She gazed at him in alarm. "You have quarreled, you and King!"

"No, not quarreled. I gave him a bit of the truth. I told him when he thanked me that what I had done was for you, not for him. That it was the toughest job ever required of me, helping you to go away with him. I told him I'd never give him a helping hand were it to pull him out of hell fire. No, hear me through. I could never go through this again. It's made an old man of me."

She saw for the first time the lines worry had etched into the kindly face; she saw the graying hair. Jim, Jim getting old!

"Will you forgive me, Jim? I was so rotten selfish. I had no one else to ask, to trust."

"I told him—more. I've been asking questions since I took you in to Sliscovich cañon. I know more now. I've learned how they get the stuff, and how it's passed around. So far, I've done that much while you were here—I kept them off King. I threatened to expose them if they came near him."

"Jim!"

"But it isn't only here he's known. It's only a hundredth chance that he doesn't slip back, Sheila."

"Not while he has this hope to strengthen him; this pride——" Her thoughts were resisting him; suddenly they collapsed in consternation. His child was dead. The pride which had been stimulating him had been taken away from him. Piteously she stared at Molloy.

"Each time he leaves you, at night, at morning, you will wonder; your fear will follow him. You'll know he is being solicited; every time he walks the streets. You will question his face when he slinks home. And I'll know, Sheila, when he succumbs; I'll make it my business to know. And when he does—well, I'll take you away from him. God and the saints couldn't stop me."

"Jim!"

"I've told him. I told him just now that I was going to let one of those buzzards—those night birds—go to my house. That I was going to send him—no, it's no use, Sheila. It's too late. The peddler's already there; is knocking at the door. King is letting him in. If he'll buy, he's buying now, this minute. And he'll do it knowing I sent him. Wherever, whenever he buys, he'll not be sure but that the peddler's a messenger from me."

She had started to rise, but sank back in the blanketed chair, trembling.

"How—noble, Jim!"

"I may never let you see his face again, Sheila, mavourneen."

"O, yes, you will. You know you will. For you told him what you were doing; you gave him a chance to fight. He hates you because he fears you. He will fight to keep me from you—as he fought for his child."

"You are sure yourself, Jim."

Something to fight for; a hope to lead and strengthen him. No one else could have thought of it; no one else could have done it!

"Then why don't you say, 'I want to kiss you good-by, Jim, dear'?" His eyes mocked her, adored her.

"O, Sheila—Sheila, darling!"

Swift steps were running down the corridor. They reached her door, stopped. The door was flung open.

King stood on the threshold. He did not look towards his wife, who was struggling to her feet, but stared with hatred at Molloy. His breath was coming in fitful gusts, as though he had run the distance between cabin and hospital.

"I'll not touch him. I can't hurt him that way. He's not afraid—of that. But I can hurt him. He's afraid I won't fall."

"King——"

"You think you'll get her, don't you? Well, you won't. You never will. Hear that? You never will. You'll never get the chance to have her. Your dirty messenger came, damn you! I did to him what I'll do to the others—kicked him out—told him to go back to hell!"

"CRADLE CALL" will leave the Selwyn theater next Saturday night with only two weeks to its credit and a revival of the thriller called "Dracula" will follow, opening next Sunday night. This is the dramatization of Bram Stoker's romance about vampirism which had a long run at the Blackstone a few seasons ago. The title rôle will be played by Courtney White. Others in the company will be Edward Forbes, Maurice Morris, William Melville, Arnold Daly, William Olathe Miller, Marcella Gaudel and Alfreda Sill.

Fred Stone in the musical comedy called "Ripples" will begin an engagement at the Illinois theater Monday, Dec. 22. His company will include his two daughters, Dorothy and Paula; Andrew Tombes, Billy Taylor, Hilda Spong, Cynthia Foley, Peggy Bancroft, Gertrude Clemons, Charles Mast, and others. . . . The Illinois will be closed for a period of two weeks between the departure of "Sweet Adeline," Dec. 6, and the arrival of "Ripples."

The Goodman theater will enjoy the services of another temporary guest star at the matinée performance of "Hotel Universe" next Friday afternoon. Earle Larimore of the Theater Guild's "A Month in the Country" will act the character of Norman Rose, the Jewish financier, which was his when the Guild staged "Hotel Universe" in New York.

This incident will parallel Frank Morgan's recent matinée appearance with the Goodman company in "The Firebrand." Harry Mervis of the Goodman company got a holiday that afternoon, and he will gracefully withdraw to the side lines again when Mr. Larimore assumes the rôle of Mr. Rose, whose early vow of abstinence from "shicksas" [Gentile girls] had given him a complex unknown to Dr. Sigmund Freud.

Maurice Moscovitch will make his New York debut as Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice" at the Liberty theater Dec. 1, under the auspices of Charles Dillingham. The star's interpretation of the rôle has been highly praised in London. His company includes Selena Royle, Frank Howson, Louis Polan, Hugh Buckler, Geoffrey Wardwell and Philip Robinson. . . . Other New York premières listed for the week of Dec. 1 are "Overture," by the late William Bolitho; "A Kiss of Importance," with Basil Rathbone as star; "Alison's House," by Susan Glaspell, at the Civic Repertory theater, and "The New Yorkers."

The Postal Telegraph company has extended its New York theater ticket service over the entire company. So if you're going to New York you can reserve and buy tickets to shows at the nearest Postal telegraph office by paying a small premium and the cost of the wires necessary to complete and confirm the transaction. "Vagrant Star Does Business as Our World"

People on Other Planets, Scientist's Belief.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 23.—[Special.]—Are we humans, after all, a bit of star gone wrong? Is our world just an accident in nature's normal scheme of fiery globes, an epic of milliards of years, which never calculated on the formation of small, cool globes fit for habitation? And are we to be faced one day with a living and breathing robot fashioned by scientists?

Prof. Sir Arthur Eddington set half the globe debating these points tonight following a radio talk today on science and religion. The earth is only the fifth or six largest planet belonging to the inconspicuous middle grade solar systems in one of the numerous islands of the archipelago of island universes.

Sir Arthur has no doubt that there are other globes which are or have been tenanted by beings like ourselves, but he said he thought such globes were uncommon, and as for man—possibly "just a trifling hitch," in the machinery which normally collected matter in big lumps with terrifically high temperature.

"It may possibly be going too far," he said, "to say our bodies are pieces of stellar matter which by a contingency not sufficiently guarded against have taken advantage of low temperature to assume unusual complication and perform a series of strange antics we call life.

"But I don't combat this view even if I doubt its tenability. I keep an open mind and am unwilling to base philosophy or religion on the assumption that it must necessarily break down.

"Science is an attempt to set in order the facts of experience. It has met a wonderful success, and the picture which it draws of the physical universe is its answer to the problem. What is the truth about ourselves? We may incline to various answers. We are a bit of a star gone wrong. We are a complicated physical machinery—puppets that strut and talk and laugh and die as the hand of time turns a handle beneath. But let us remember that there is one elementary, inescapable answer.

"We are that which asked the question? The responsibility towards truth is an attribute of our nature. It was through our spiritual nature, whereof the responsibility for truth is a typical manifestation, that we first came into the world of experience; our entry via the physical universe was a re-entry.

"The strange association of the soul and the body of the responsibility for truth with a bit of stellar matter that got cold by accident was a problem wherein we cannot but feel intense interest, but not an anxious interest as though the existence and significance of the spiritual side of experience were hanging in the balance. The solution must fit the data; we cannot alter the data to fit an alleged solution."

It is insufficiently recognized, said Eddington, that modern theoretical physics is very much concerned with the study of organization, and from organization to organism did not seem to him an impossible stride.

"It might happen some day that science will be able to show how from the entities of physics creatures may be formed which are counterparts of ourselves," he said, "even to the point of being endowed with life. Scientists will perhaps point out the nervous mechanism of this creature, its power of motion, growth, and reproduction, and end by saying 'that is you.' But remember the inescapable test: 'Is it concerned with the truth as I am? Then I will acknowledge that it is indeed myself'; we demand something more even than consciousness. A scientist may point to motions in the brain and say these really mean sensations, emotions, and thoughts, and perhaps supply a code to translate motions into corresponding thoughts. Even if we accept this rather inadequate substitute for consciousness as we intimately know it, we must still protest: 'You have shown us a creature which thinks and believes; you have not shown us a creature to whom it matters [in any nonutilitarian sense] what it thinks and believes.'"

Husband Has Way of Forgetting to Tell He's Married

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Forty years old and forty times a fool." That's "Anxious Husband's" word picture of himself, with such added details as that he has been married fifteen years to the finest woman in the world and is the father of four wonderful children.

Until a brief period ago the man, his wife, and children were pointed out as an ideally happy group. People might still be referring to them as the ideal little family party if Pop had not gone in for silence on an important incident or two.

We have to go back to the first year of his marriage to get the story straight, and an occasion when he might have learned that silence is not the best policy and marriage were better admitted. It seems this first year an old girl called up. Pop saw her. He doesn't know why he didn't tell her he was married, but he didn't on any of the several times he admits taking the old sweetheart out.

He thought she would be going back east right away, and that would be the end of that. But true stories don't end that way. The girl didn't go back east early enough. The wife found out about her. She was sorely hurt, but agreed to forgive and forget, which she did for fourteen blissful years. Last year Pop had to be away from home a good deal. He met with another outsider. Though the lady fascinated, the man swears it was friendship with him—good clean friendship, and nothing more.

Again reticence forbade him from mentioning a wife and the then three children. But this lady had an eye for business. She expected marriage, and she let the gentleman know that was what she expected. He tried to hedge. But a woman expectig marriage isn't going to be put off by a hedge. Not this one, anyway.

She became suspicious, trailed the gentleman, and thus was led to his home plate, where his wife, about to have a fourth child, was made acquainted with the facts as the lady saw them, not in the innocent friendship light of the man.

Now the mate is trying to resell his penitence, but his wife will have none of it. She says to her husband: "You do not know what sorrow, honor, or morality is." And she has frozen up completely on him.

The naive one asks if I can tell him some way to make his wife understand. To which I must respond I cannot. Neither can he make her understand. Women weren't given the breadth of understanding expected under such circumstances. They can forgive and forget another woman, but never understand the need of her.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

There Are Others.

"Dear Miss Blake: I went with a boy for eighteen months. He does not bother any more. Please advise.
"J. V."

Be Truthful.

"Dear Miss Blake: My fellow says he loves me. I like him as a friend. Please advise. DOUBTFUL."

If he has shown serious intentions, you should let him know just how you feel about him.

A Friend in Need

Use for Old Typewriters.

"I am a typing teacher at a settlement house. There are approximately forty girls in my class and there are only seven typewriters, two of which are not usable. If any of your readers have any typewriters we could recondition or use, we would be more than grateful for them and would be glad to call for them. M. L."

The typewriter you are planning to replace would no doubt be instrumental in equipping these girls for a lucrative position when they have finished the course provided by this settlement house. Won't you donate it?

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Nov. 23.—The Panama government is worried over the plight of 2,000 Panamans who are starving in New York, and as it has no funds at hand to look after them and ensure their return to the isthmus, the national assembly, now in session, is planning to vote the necessary money to bring them home.

These youths, many of them trained in Uncle Sam's machine shops at Balboa, went to the United States and secured good jobs when business boomed, but now find themselves out of work and without the necessary means of paying for transportation home. They are sending out frantic appeals to their home folks for assistance.

Many of the boys during the prosperous days sent for their mothers and sisters, but today they find themselves out of work and unable to keep things going.

Dunc died of a broken heart, according to Mrs. Glenn Foss, sister of Smith. Dunc had been in good health and frisky up until the time Smith was killed.

Bodies Saved, Minds Falter, Specialist Says

Physically, he admitted to a sizable audience, the electric light, telephone, telegraph, automobile, and other inventions have lifted man's burden. Mentally, he added, they are throttling him into nervous exhaustion day by day.

"It is a paradox of our times," he pointed out, "that although man, by the skill of his hands, has in these inventions conquered physical fatigue, yet this generation suffers more than any other from fatigue that has a mental basis. It will be fifty years at least before man learns to handle these things he has invented, to make them serve him without suffering from their service.

"All these other inventions contribute to the excitement he seeks, the stimulation he wants to keep his mind off the monotony of his work. We have made of the automobile, the radio, and their associated inventions not improving agencies in our lives but bad habits."

Sterilization of the unfit was decried by the speaker in his discussion of mental diseases and the best methods for their care.

"We are not yet at a stage where we can say let us perform sterilization operations on mental deficients and know that we have solved the problem," he warned. "We have discovered that the factors concerned in inheritance cannot be manipulated as it formerly was thought they could be."

Cycling Pastor Saves Church in Race with Time

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Six day bicycle races are mere junkets to the Rev. H. L. Cawthorne, who as rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, 741 South Western avenue, has engaged in two that totaled over 30 years. For, nearly 33 years ago, the late Bishop William E. McLaren started the Rev. Mr. Cawthorne in a race against a church mortgage.

Pastor Cawthorne peddled on, through poor districts, in and out of wealthy residential sections. At one time Bishop McLaren nailed a "for sale" sign on the church. The cycling pastor sprinted and at last the mortgage was defeated.

Even before that first race was won, the Rev. Mr. Cawthorne entered another—that against shifting populations. He was winning when Chicago's streets and boulevards almost suddenly filled with automobiles.

The pastor had to quiet his bicycle. That was replaced by a second hand small car, called among preachers "a gospel Packard." Again St. Luke's church was in peril. This time by the widening of Western avenue.

Mr. Cawthorne faced the problem of having 17 feet sheared off the front of the old church. Plans were drawn and the pastor again was victorious.

Yesterday morning Mr. Cawthorne celebrated his third victory—though he announced a fourth conquest he is to undertake before he retires—by reading the sentences dedicating a rebuilt St. Luke's church. Though the changes only cost $15,000, the pastor, now nearly 70, plans to have the church become a parish house for a new St. Luke's church on a corner lot adjoining the present rectory.

Former members of St. Luke's church returned yesterday. John D. Allen, president of Brink's Express, said he earned his first quarter as a boy choister at St. Luke's and that bought a quart of ice cream.

Beauty and Vigor Come with Perfect Physical Condition

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

There is mighty little use in talking creams and lotion beautifiers if one is listed among what one authority chooses to designate as "a constipated biped." It is a well known fact, or a fact repeated often enough to be known to every one by this time, that constipation is responsible for about 75 per cent of human ills. Physicians preach the theory of clean and healthy inners from every practicing pulpit.

We beauty editors could and should do more talking about the relation of inner cleanliness with outer beauty. We could go on the stand and swear that it is impossible to be the good looking person one can be if one is a victim of the universal inner ailment.

Leaving asid for the moment the effect of faulty bowel habits on the complexion, the hair, and the eyes there is the more vital to beauty one of the vigor, the vim, the pure energy with which life has to be attacked in order to be an attractive woman.

In fact women looking for an honest to goodness rejuvenation cure need look no further for it than in this matter of internal cleanliness The shiftlessness of certain ones of our sex in this regard is nothing short of appalling. A woman who ought to be ten years younger in looks naively confided a state of inner health that was simply shocking. Her complexion is awful. Her eyes look a thousand years old. She gets about with less enthusiasm than any one I know. She says: "Of course I ought to see a doctor." But she doesn't. She doesn't even employ the simplest measure to correct her condition.

You can't go around with waste matter in your system for days on end and not have it result in a bad beauty score for you. A woman's vanity, if not her pride in health, should inspire her to do something. She should take enemas for immediate relief. The doctor's agree that it is a perfectly safe and sane measure to adopt until such time as one has learned to eat and live more hygienically. There are mild forms of laxative, nonhabit forming, that might be adopted. Anyway there is no excuse in this enlightened era of ours for ignorance about safe and sane measure of prevention and remedy.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Seven year old Arnold was visiting at the home of a neighbor. After he had finished a piece of cake given him he was asked how he liked it.

"I don't know yet," replied the child. "Maybe I'd better have another piece!" N. H.

As I came into the living room the other day George, 3 years old, was sitting on a chair with his eyes closed and his hands folded, mumbling something, so I said, "George what are you doing?" to which he replied, "O, I am praying," but before he could say more Ruth, his little sister, said, "Mama, George just struck a match in the hall." Whereupon George finished by saying, "I was praying to ask God for Ruth not to be a tattletale, but it's too late now." G. A. A.

Poiret Equips Dinner Dress with Pantalets

BY BETTINA BIDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—The conspiracy of styles to cover up the pretty legs of modern womanhood increases daily in Paris. From being as much a part of the visible scenery as hands and feet, legs are going to disappear, and be mysteriously veiled, and pretty ankles will be a treat even to a London busman if the more advanced Paris couturiers are followed.

In this process of covering up it is not only long skirts that are employed. Paris is suggesting that we wear the quaint pantalets which were so alluring in the sixties under our evening skirts. Poiret equips the black and silver brocaded dinner dress in our sketch with an ankle length pair of frilled tulle pantalets, and, in order that they may not blush unseen, splits the panels of the long skirt to the knees, so that in walking or dancing these pantalets are glimpsed. The effect is, however, modest indeed, and most alluringly feminine.

Continuing the spirit of frilled femininity on the outside of the frock, Poiret places upstanding frills of tulle around the curved, tightly fitted bands at the hips, and a frill around the décolleté of the bolero jacket in back. Another plaited tulle frill is placed around the bottom of the bolero. Between the hip and bolero frills the column of the body is tightly wrapped in a wide brocade girdle. These two frills are a clever device to frame the slender grace of the body.

It's Best to Take Childhood Training In Small Amounts

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Short reading reference on child management will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"It's the funniest thing," said a young mother to me the other day. "So many times I've been on the point of sitting down and writing to you about something that worried me and that I didn't know how to handle, and then found that very day an article on just the thing I'd been puzzled about."

That interested me a lot, and I'll tell you why.

I have a pet theory regarding this business of child training. Or perhaps I should put it, regarding the matter of helping parents with their children. The theory is this—that a busy mother can best digest and make use of information on psychology and management if she gets it in small doses.

A though a day—a point a day—talked over in a short article, with a more comprehensive point taken up on Sundays is a more helpful thing to many women with children than sitting down and reading a book covering the whole field of child guidance, and trying to dig out the special material that they need.

So we try in the course of time to cover in this way, point by point, many phases of child behavior and meet many mothers' needs. But it is a big order and leaves us almost no space in this column for physical care.

Still, we do want to supply mothers with information on physical care, because it is so tremendously important.

This sort of information, however—on diet, sleep, posture, teeth, and so forth—does not have to be pondered and thought over point by point as the psychology of childhood does. It can be found in a more readily usable form between the covers of books. It does not have to be taken in small mental doses as child guidance does. So in order to meet the questions on physical care as well as the other, I have prepared a list of reading references which can be had in the usual way, on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Peking Man" Not Gorilla, Rockefeller Agent Insists

PEIPING, China, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Dr. Davidson Black, anatomist of the Rockefeller foundation here, who has been in charge of the "Peking man" researches since 1927, today termed as "nonsensical" the theory of Sir John Bland-Sutton that the skull was that of a gorilla. Dr. Black has devoted three years of intensive study to the teeth and the fossilized bones and skull. His findings and conclusions have been widely published in scientific journals and have been considered by some of the world's leading authorities.

Food Talk.

Gingerbread is one of the favorite foods of childhood. And most of us continue to like it as long as we are lively enough to be cake eaters. A gingerbread that's gingery—one that is sweetened with fine flavored and richly colored molasses and is soft, tender and fine textured is the most popular kind.

Gingerbread is good all the year around but it is particularly enjoyed at this time of the year. One of our readers, Mrs. U. S. of Springfield, Ill., thinks so, too. Recently she wrote us a most interesting letter about the gingerbread her mother used to make and that she now bakes. Her description is so vivid and her recipe so fine that we want to pass them along to you today. She talks about good homemade bread and fresh churned butter, then she goes on to say:

"The best treat of all was when mother baked gingerbread. And I believe the aroma was half of it. Have you never smelled baking gingerbread? If you have, then you can understand how its memory would linger through all these years.

"She had a recipe for soft gingerbread, which did not become hard even after several days. Of course, it didn't last several days. It couldn't with a parcel of hungry children, but I have made it since and have found that it retains its freshness for a long time.

"She made a generous loaf of it and watched it carefully while baking, for gingerbread burns easily. It was made primarily for our lunch pails (dinner buckets, we called them), but as a special treat she gave us a big square when it was still warm from the oven. Try it some time with a glass of cold milk and you will find you have indeed a feast fit for the gods. The recipe follows:

2 eggs.

Cream shortening and sugar, add molasses. Stir until smooth and add hot water in which soda has been dissolved. Stir in flour and spices and add eggs, well beaten. Bake in greased dripping pan about 40 minutes. This makes one large loaf, 12 servings.

Women of Persia Turning to Paris, Discarding Veils

TEHERAN, Persia, Nov. 23.—Persian women rapidly are adopting European dress, discarding flowing robes, veils, etc. Some women in small groups are blooming forth in the latest Paris fashions.

They start slowly, appearing in modern dresses, cloaks, and hats after dark in the European quarter of the town. There they are usually taken for Europeans and are not molested. Gaining confidence, they next went shopping in the European districts, unveiled in broad daylight. It is regarded as significant that these women are shown more respect by the loungers in the streets than are their veiled sisters.

The women have been encouraged by Shah Riza Khan, always an all around modernist. He is following the example of Mustapha Kemal Pasha of Turkey in westernising his country as quickly as possible. Unlike the Turkish dictator, however, he has not been able to openly decree the adoption of western customs because of opposition of the Mohammedan clergy, which views the shrouding of women as a religious precept as well as an Oriental custom. The shah has to encourage the dress reform slowly because the police and even the army would side with the priests in event the clergy became militantly antagonistic.
